

This Semester's Enrollment Expected To Stay at 6,750

An estimated 6,750 students, about the same number as last year, will be attending K-State this semester, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions.

Yesterday's regular three-day enrollment period ended with about 6,519 registered as compared with 6,506 a year ago. About 240 late enrollees are expected.

Last year's final enrollment was 6,737.

K-State will have about 100 more freshmen than a year ago, but Gerritz said this gain would be offset by smaller numbers of upperclassmen.

The factors Gerritz indicated were holding down enrollment were: the graduation of 1,615 students—or about 25 per cent of the fall enrollment—during 1958; no increase in the number of high school graduates the past year; the adoption of a more rigorous policy of academic requirement by the college; and the placing of more restrictions on out-of-state applicants.

Gerritz said enrollment would probably have reached 7,000 if scholastic requirements and out-of-state restrictions had not been tightened.

This year's enrollment, however, will be the largest since the post-war rush and will mark the seventh straight year K-State has had an increase in enrollment.

Gerritz pointed out that the experience here bears out the prediction of Dr. Raymond Walters, president emeritus of the University of Cincinnati and compiler of enrollment statistics over 20 years.

Walters stated last spring that there would be little if any increase nationally in the enrollment of college students. He said some states and areas, however, will have an increase while others will sustain

Top Speakers Here For '58 Assemblies

Norman Cousins, editor of The Saturday Review, Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy from the University of Kansas, and "The World of Cilli Wang," will appear on campus this fall at three of nine assemblies scheduled by Dean of Academic Administration A. L. Pugsley.

"We feel this year's schedule is one of the finest we've had," Dean Pugsley said. "We believe that the program represents one of the most outstanding groups of speakers that we have been able to assemble," he added.

President McCain will open the new schedule with a welcome to returning and new students Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium. The President will also introduce professors who are new to the campus, newly-appointed department heads, deans, and other administrative officers.

Dr. Faye Sayegh, counselor of the Arab States Delegations Office in New York and counselor of the Yemen delegation to the United Nations, will appear October 2 to speak on Arab Unity. During the Suez crisis Dr. Sayegh was interviewed on the Mike Wallace program and again on Face the Nation. He has appeared on the University of Chicago Round Table program and as lecturer at Harvard, Chicago, Columbia, Princeton, Southern California and Northwestern universities.

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review since 1940, will talk on his favorite topic, "The War Against Man" October 7. Cousins has been concerned for many years with the development of national culture. He has lectured throughout Asia on American institutions and our relations with the rest of the world. Cousins has received national and international awards for journalism and public service.

Northcote Parkinson—historian, author, economist and educator—will present the development of "Parkinson's Law" November 19. Parkinson's collection of studies on modern administration was a best-seller. The Boston Herald says "Parkinson's theories should be required reading for students of political science, business administration and even architecture."

During the past summer Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy, Kansas university, visited Russia as one of a selected group of American educators. He will present his impressions of that country and his analysis of its educational system December 5.

The Music department will present its annual Christmas portion of the "Messiah" by George Frederick Handel December 18.

"The World of Cilli Wang," an original program in pantomime by the celebrated Viennese satirist who received notices in this country in her first tour here last year, will be presented January 8. The program contains both comic and serious thought. She has appeared as guest star on the George Gobel and Ed Sullivan shows.

College, Student Body Presidents Welcome Newcomers to Campus

IT'S A GREAT PLEASURE to welcome you to the campus of Kansas State and offer you my best wishes for a completely successful college career.

You are now in the process of discovering the kind of college you have joined. We at Kansas State are proud of the friendly atmosphere and informality of our campus, attributes I hope you have already sensed. We take great satisfaction from the reputation which K-State students enjoy for their seriousness of purpose.

You will find this manifested in the manner in which students conduct their many organized activities and, more important, the sincere concern of the great majority of them for the main business at hand—their studies.

I should advise all of you spending your first term in the College to make yourselves a part of this atmosphere just as rapidly as possible. And I would impress you that a college such as Kansas State, is first and foremost an intellectual institution which demands the highest intellectual achievement from those who would benefit most.

I hope I shall have an early opportunity to meet all of you personally.

Sincerely yours,
James A. McCain
President

President McCain

I WOULD LIKE TO TAKE this opportunity to welcome to our campus those of you who are entering Kansas State for the first time. It would be a gross understatement to say that much lies ahead of you. However, a no more truthful statement could be made.

In the days and weeks to come many of you will be entering an atmosphere, a way of life, which is greatly different than anything you have ever experienced. For many of you it will be, the first experience at living away from home and away from those friends with whom you have associated for years. Certainly there will arise situations that will pose problems to your normally unruffled way of living. In talking with many of you during the past week I have expressed the view that the means by which you overcome these problems is in itself an important part of your education.

Here on the "hill" you will find countless opportunities to supplement your work through extra-curricular endeavor. This work, it must be remembered, is only supplemental in nature to that which has brought you to K-State—the desire to learn. The attainment of scholarship equivalent to your maximum capability should and must be your primary goal. And when you couple personal experiences and extra-curricular work available here with scholarship, you are then on your way toward personal development and education.

KANSAS STATE offers endless rewards to those of you who have the initiative to seek them out. If you set as your goal the attainment of as many of these rewards as possible, and gauge yourself to work that goal, you will be taking advantage of the wealth which lies before you now.

The record you will leave behind you is entirely within your power to shape here at the beginning. Again, I would like to welcome you to K-State and wish you the best of luck and success in everything you attempt.

Sincerely,
Chuck Wingert
Student Body President

Collegian Published For All Kansas Staters

AFTER A SHORT VACATION the 1958-59 school year has begun for close to 7,000 Kansas State students.

Whether you are here to study, to party, find a husband (or wife), to "find yourself" after being tossed out of high school, or to kill time before opportunity knocks, we hope you have a profitable term.

THIS SHOULD BE A BIG YEAR for K-State. Enrollment figures, although showing no great increases, are encouraging because of the large number of seniors graduated after the spring and summer terms. Rush week yielded record numbers of pledges for both fraternities and sororities. Mass construction on housing and educational units is in full swing.

Probably most important is the name change issue which will be up before the state legislature in the near future. We will keep you up to date on this bill.

This is the first of 76 issues of the Collegian to be published this semester (barring strikes, floods, fires, and other disasters). We will attempt to give you a paper worth reading.

The Collegian is your paper and it is our duty to both inform you on what is happening on the campus and to entertain you.

WE WILL PRESENT THE NEWS objectively and do not intend to play favorites. Our play of news will be decided by what events we think affect the greatest number.

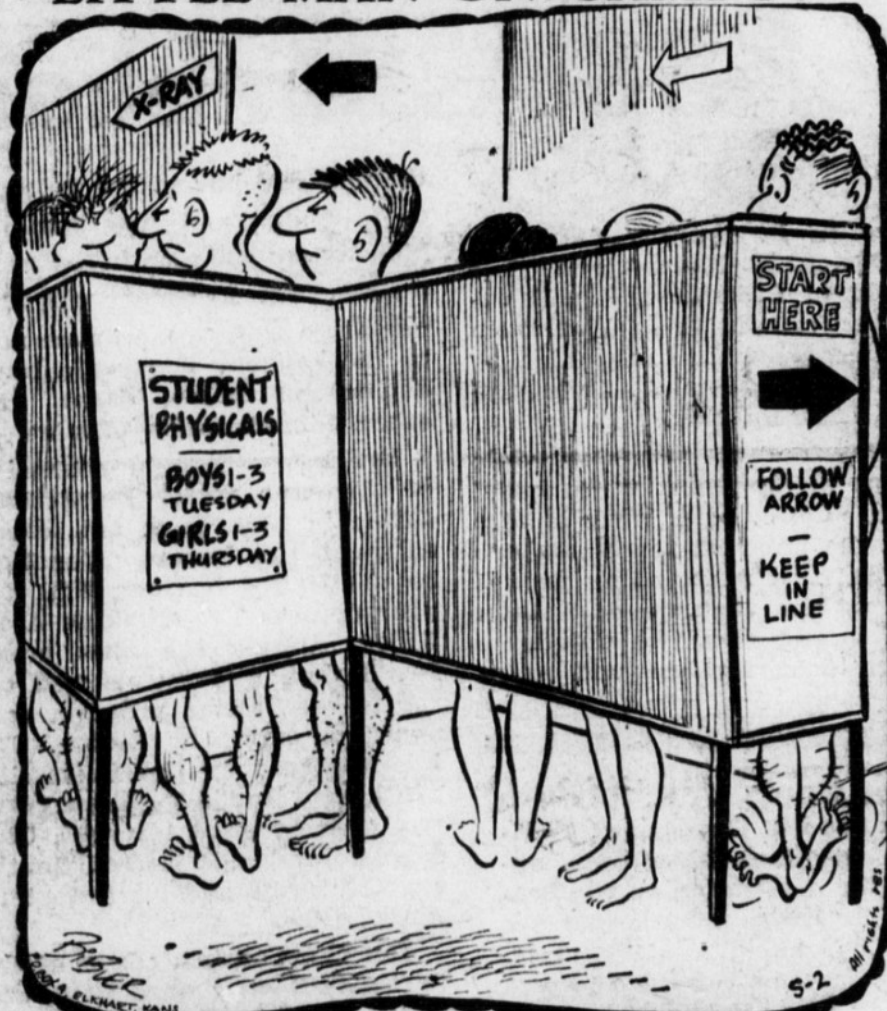

We will not serve as a welfare department through which certain groups or individuals can gain publicity. If you deserve recognition, we'll give it to you.

Our editorial policy also will be determined by what we think effects the greatest number. You, the students who are paying for this publication, deserve to know what's going on here—both the good and the bad. We'll be calling the shots and will try to keep from going off half-cocked. We'll make mistakes and it's up to you to tell us about them.

AS IN THE PAST, letters to the editor will be a regular feature of the Collegian. If you wish to express your opinions, feel free to write us, limiting your letter to no more than 250 words. We reserve the right to edit the letters to conform to public law and to standards of decency and good taste, and to fit space limitations. We also reserve the right to refuse to publish any letter. Unsigned letters will not be published.

We will need your help as we have a limited number of reporters. Many of the smaller groups may be overlooked in the shuffle, so it's up to these groups to see that news concerning them gets to us.—GEM

Among the courses dropped from New York City's high school curriculum this fall as a waste of time and money was one called "English for Truants."

Freshmen Give Varied Reasons (or Excuses) For Enrollment at Kansas State This Semester

New students enrolling in college this fall expressed many different views on their decision to come to K-State. The reasons varied from the curriculums being offered here to the friendliness and spirit of the school.

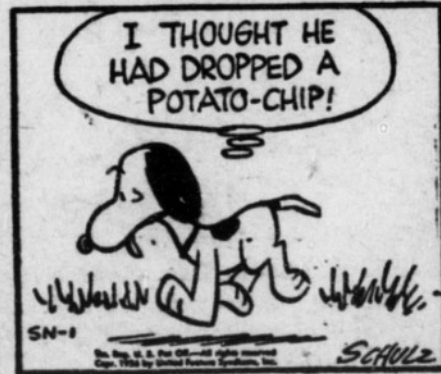

Typical comments are:

- GENIA MANGELSDORF, EEd Fr—I never wanted to go anywhere else. K-State is a coming school and I want to be here while it comes to the top.
- DOUG GILLET, Ag Fr—K-State is the best ag school I know of.
- PAT KAHRS, Clo Fr—I chose K-State because of the friendliness and home economics department.
- DON RHOADES, PrL Fr—I chose K-State over Kansas university and Wichita university.
- JEAN REEHLING, HE Fr—K-State has an outstanding home economics school.
- DON DAWES, Mth Fr—A lot of people come here from my hometown that I know and K-State has a good business school.
- LAURA BATHURT, HE Fr—I chose K-State because both my mother and my father came here.
- JACK PORTER, ME Fr—It has been kind of a family tradition and K-State has a good engineering school.
- HERSCHEL PICKETT, AE Fr—I'm interested in farming and this is the best school for agriculture.

- DONNA BOYER, HEN Fr—I knew how friendly K-State was and it made me feel right at home.
- KAREN TEAGARDEN, HEN Fr—I came to K-State because it is fairly close to home and several people told me it was a friendly campus.
- BETTY BRINDLE, EEd—My father graduated from here and when I came up during the summer the students I met were very nice.
- JOYCE CASE, HE Fr—

We've always followed K-State basketball and football at home. Other reasons I came here are the nice campus and friendly students.

- MARION MOORE, Sp Fr—I have two brothers that influenced my choice of colleges. Also, I think I can get the best education in radio and television speech here at K-State.
- SUE RAMSEY, BMT Fr—My sister came to K-State and I think it is a good distance from Kansas City, my hometown. Also I came for the friendliness.

252 Women, 399 Men Rushed in by KS Greeks

K-State social sororities and fraternities set a fall Rush Week record by pledging 252 women and 399 men. The previous highs were 250 women pledged in the fall of 1957 and 397 men in the fall of 1956. Of the 465 men who went through rush week, 37 decided not to make a preferential bid. Women signed up for rush week totaled 323.

THIS ISN'T ring-around-the-rosy—it's just the Chi O's and their pledges celebrating their new-found relationship.

THIS IS WHY K-State men like to be around during sorority rush. (They aren't long lost sisters.)

For Genuine Mass Confusion You Can't Beat Greek Rush Week

FOR UTTER, mass confusion, you just can't beat Rush Week. And right now, there are nearly 800 men and women who went through rush as rushees who will probably agree.

And if you need more proof, ask the 900 or so who went through the week on the other end, trying to sell the newcomers on themselves and their organizations.

THE WEEK produced a record number of pledges for both fraternities and sororities. All together, there were 651 pledges—252 had become affiliated with sororities and 399 with fraternities. Topping the lists in numbers were Alpha Delta Pi with 36, and Delta Tau Delta with 38.

↑ FRATERNITY RUSHEES spent a long week in temporary housing. These rushees talk things over after the day's last rush date.

FOR THE RUSHEE, it was a week of handshakes and sessions with fraternity actives talking about cars, sports, girls—and fraternities.

SLAMMING INTO THE SLED during blocking practice is Max Falk, junior varsity halfback. Riding on the sled is Corky Taylor '53, who was added to the coaching staff this summer.

Grid Workouts Slowed By Multitude of Injuries

Fall varsity football practice, which began August 28, is progressing slowly, according to Head Coach Bus Mertes. "We're shorthanded, and it's hard to scrimmage due to the large number of injuries," he said. "We can't afford to take chances."

The squad of 60 that reported for the first practice has been reduced to 47 by drops. Of the 47, only 33 are suited up, with the rest sitting out with various minor injuries.

Tony Tiro, third string left halfback, will be out for several days with a sprained ankle. Third string tackle Art Grob and letterman end Joe Vader are out with injured knees, but are expected to soon return to the lineup.

The squad worked yesterday morning on all phases of the kicking game—punting, punt returning, the kickoff, and kickoff returning. Work was also done on general offense and defense and on goal line offense for the Wyoming university game September 20.

Yesterday evening the Wildcats worked on offensive blocking, run-pass option plays, and had an hour-long scrimmage on pass patterns on a muddy field.

The squad will scrimmage under game conditions this afternoon and will undergo a game rehearsal scrimmage Saturday for the season opener. The squad completed its two-a-day drills yesterday, and will practice once daily starting today.

"We don't have the experience we had last year," Mertes said. "But the squad is willing and its spirit looks good. Of course you can't know how a team is really going to do until the going gets real tough in an actual game. I just hope we have a team with the spirit and willingness to fight that we had last year."

Ticket Policy Altered From Former Years

Approximately half of the students who have enrolled at K-State since Monday have purchased student season tickets for K-State's 1958 home football games, Frank Mosier, K-State ticket manager, has reported.

The student tickets, which entitle students to sit in a reserved section of East Stadium, are offered for the first time this fall. Previously, all sports admission prices for K-State home events have been included in the activity fee. Under the current plan, season tickets for the five home football games are $5 for K-State students and $7.50 for student-wives.

The student season tickets will remain on sale at the athletic ticket office in Ahearn gymnasium through September 18. After 4 p.m. of that day, only single-seat sales will be available to students at the regular rates of $3 for reserved seats and $2 for general admission at non-conference games, and $4 and $2.50 for the Big Eight games.

Family Tickets To Be Sold For Wyoming, Utah Games

For the third year, "Family Day" tickets will be available for K-State football games. These tickets, which will admit the entire family including parents and children through high school age, will go on sale for $5 for the Wyoming game, September 20, and the Utah State game on October 4.

A special section of Memorial stadium will be reserved to seat the families.

Adding lustre to the two 1958 games are the Band day activities at the Wyoming game and the Parents' day activities at the Utah State game. All high school bands in Kansas have been invited to take part in the annual Band day at the season opener against Wyoming. Parents of all K-State students are specially invited to attend the annual Parent's day festivities of the Utah State game.

Wyoming and Utah State, both forecasting stronger teams than last year, figure as strong contenders in the Skyline grid conference this season. These two early-season scraps have been marked as key games in the Wildcats' 1958 schedule by coach Bus Mertes.

Family tickets for these games may be purchased in advance through K-State's athletic ticket office, or at the stadium immediately before the games.

Best Goal Line Stands

The 1951 team stopped Iowa U. 9 times within the Wildcat 20-yard stripe. Five of the 9 goalline stands were made inside the 10-yard line.

Sports Column

By Don Veraska

It's a brand new year in sports at K-State—and every team has a clean slate, an unblemished record, and a chance to prove itself. Not all of them will. That's what makes sports so exciting—the lack of complete reliability. As long as there is the underdog, there will always be the upset. And it's this possibility of the upset that makes even the expected win more satisfying.

It could be a fine year in sports at Kansas State. Then again, it may not be. Head Football Coach Bus Mertes leads a thin squad with 17 sophomores against what he terms "the roughest schedule K-State has ever tried." Head Basketball Coach Tex Winter may look forward to a "Wiltless" Big Eight schedule, but he may have headaches devising a defense against the slow pattern offense employed so successfully by Nebraska last season.

There have been a few changes in rules this year. The much-debated extra point rule—a new offensive blocking rule—a substitution rule change—and an alteration in the downfield blocking rules. Some of these, notably the first, may be confusing, so we'll take time in a later column to explain and perhaps criticize them.

Let's not forget the great moments in sports last year—the football team's great stands against Oklahoma and Michigan State—the basketball team's wins against Kansas and Cincinnati.

But let's not forget the heartaches either—the last-minute grid loss to KU—the Louisville episode. For by the remembrance of defeat, victory can be made sweeter.

Let's not concede defeat in advance to anyone. And let's be confident, but not overconfident of victory.

But above all, let's be loyal fans. Let's stick with the team through thick and thin, through fair and foul weather. Let's be patient and understanding when the going gets rough, and not expect the impossible. For they are human beings, just as you and I, and there is error in all humans.

For it's you, the fans, that the teams play for. It's you, behind the team in force, that gives the home team the advantage. And let's use that advantage, certainly. But let's use it fairly.

Wildcats Out for Revenge In Season Gridiron Opener

K-State's first gridiron opponent, Wyoming university, holds a 4-1 record over the Wildcats in the series, which dates back to 1952. The Cowboys won 20-7 that year, lost 21-13 in 1954, and have taken 38-20, 27-15, and 12-7 wins in the last three campaigns.

Last year, Wyoming finished fourth in the Skyline conference with a 3-2-2 record, and had a 4-3-3 overall mark. Wins were notched over K-State, Montana university, Colorado State university, and New Mexico university. Losses were suffered to the Skyline champion Utah university, Oklahoma State university, and Denver university, with ties being recorded against Utah State university, Brigham Young university and the Air Force academy.

Head Coach Bob Devaney is a former assistant at Michigan State university. He has installed the Michigan State multiple offensive system—an unbalanced line, with split T, wing T, or single wing backfield—at Wyoming.

The Cowboys' 1958 outlook is uncertain. Devaney has lost 11 lettermen, but has 15 returning lettermen, including five regulars, in a squad of 63. Thirty-nine sophomores give the squad a greater depth than last year, but could make the season's prospects pretty much of a question mark. Graduations have hurt the Cowboys particularly at quarterback, end, and center.

Wyoming will be faster this season, and will be a better running, weaker passing unit than the squad which gained 1844 yards on the ground and 966 yards through the air last year. Defensively, the team will be stronger against a running attack, but weaker against passing. Last year, Wyoming allowed 1726 yards on the ground, and 874 through the air.

Wyoming is a light team. Only nine on the squad weigh 200 or more. This compares with 18 Wildcats topping the 200 mark. Cowpoke linemen average 194—K-State linemen are eight pounds heavier at 202. The visitors will also be outweighed in the backfield, 180-178.

"We think they're a good ball team—better than last year," commented Head Coach Mertes. "They'll have a good first unit, but perhaps not too much reserve strength. You'll have to remember, they had an undefeated freshman team last year, plus 14 transfers."

Former 'Cat Will Coach

Ellis Rainsberger, K-State center and football captain the past two seasons, was recently appointed assistant football coach at LaSalle Peru High School in LaSalle, Ill., for the 1958 season. His salary has been reported at $6,500.

Rainsberger, the first griddier in K-State history to be named football captain two successive seasons, was an all-Big-Eight lineman in 1956. The 6-0, 199 pound center turned down an offer from Edmonton in the Canadian Football league to take the coaching position.

He was named to the 1956 all-American academic team named by Southern Methodist university.

Three KS Quarterbacks Fight for Job Of Directing Wildcat Gridiron Attack

Three quarterbacks have taken turns directing the K-State varsity attack in one of the most hotly contested battles for position on the squad.

Presently at the helm is a 6-1, 175 pound senior, Kent McConnell. According to coach Bus Mertes, McConnell, a non-letterman, does a fine job at the position and looked "real good" in the scrimmage last Saturday.

Another prospect is Les Krull, another senior at 6-0 and 172 pounds. Krull, the only letterman quarterback, played behind Dick Corbin last year. Although averaging only 1.3 yards per carry, he completed 13 of 31 attempted passes last season for a total of 156 yards.

John Solmos, a 6-2, 175 pound sophomore, is the fastest of the trio. So far this year he has been hampered by a bad knee. Mertes said his speed gives him a good chance to play a lot this fall.

Also suffering from a knee injury is 5-10, 170 pound sophomore Bob Blaylock. Blaylock, who looked good piloting the freshman squad last year, missed a lot of practice last week and is not expected to see much action in the opener against Wyoming.

Rounding out the quarterback candidates is Dale Evans, a 6-3, 185 pound sophomore who is also being used at left halfback.

Mertes said that all five are average passers and indicated that the team may pass a little more than did last year's squad. He plans to give all five a chance to prove themselves and added that they all need a lot of scrimmage.

Tex Winter To Airwaves

Tex Winter, K-State's "Coach of the Year" in basketball, will broadcast football games this fall. Winter, whose teams have won two conference crowns in the past three years, will supply "color" on the broadcasts of football games carried by the K-State Sports network.

"We feel Tex will be a valuable addition to our broadcast crew," explained Ken Thomas, network director. He is a sharp student of football, and we think fans will enjoy hearing comments from such a well-known personality."

Top Schedule Faces K-State 1958 Varsity

When K-State's football team opens the 1958 season here against Wyoming, September 20, the Wildcats may be starting the stiffest schedule ever faced by a K-State grid squad. This is the opinion of Bus Mertes, on whose shoulders that schedule weighs heavier as the season grows nearer.

Following the opener with Wyoming university, rated slightly better than last year, K-State opens Big Eight play at Colorado university, picked co-favorites with mighty Oklahoma university in the league this season. K-State has never beaten the Buffaloes at Boulder in six previous tries.

"If all our sophomores don't run for the hills after those two, we have the prospect of facing Utah State, rated the most improved team in the Skyline conference this season," Mertes said.

Following these early-season games, the Wildcats face conference foes Nebraska university, Missouri university, Oklahoma, and Kansas university in that order, meeting Missouri and Kansas at home. Mertes rates these two in the upper half of the Big Eight.

The Wildcats finish out their season by hosting Oklahoma State university in non-league action—Cowboy play will not count officially in Big Eight standings until 1960—close out league play against Iowa State, and then must meet Michigan State university at East Lansing.

"Compare this schedule with any from the past," suggests Mertes. "Three of our opponents this season—Oklahoma, Michigan State, and Colorado—should finish among the nation's top ten teams. Any of the others could finish there. That's why I say this is the roughest schedule K-State has ever tried. I know that is a common comment from coaches at this time of year, but most of them are kidding. I'm serious."

Cat Relay Team Second in Nation

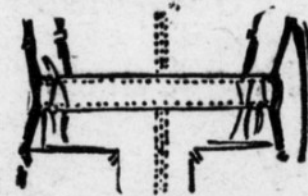

K-State's 1958 mile relay team, which clocked the second-best time of the nation last spring—3:10.4—has been ranked second in the nation by Track & Field news. Texas university finished first.

"The best thing about the ranking—and the five top times we clocked in the mile relay—is that five of the six men we used will return next spring," explained Coach Ward Haylett.

MEN'S FASHIONS this fall, as typified by Jon Sederquist, ME Soph, will include an ivy-with-vest suit and Casino whipcord hat. In this ensemble, the vest matches the suit. Notice, also, the conservative tie.

Men To Go Conservative

With this sudden interest in the bizarre—chemises, trapezes, and balloons—in women's fashions, men have decided to jump on the bandwagon too.

According to a new men's fashion magazine, men's fashions will be found in two extremes—rich, conservative attire for the office, and carefree, colorful clothing for leisure.

The new color for fall reportedly is brownstone. The color is just what the name implies—a mixture of brown and grey, reminiscent of turn-of-the-century buildings.

A conservative, slim model of a double-breasted suit will highlight fashionable male wardrobes. Accessories will include shoes without the outstanding Italian look; rakish, off-the-face hat; and simple, conservative ties.

For ladies wanting just the right gift for that all-important man, the fashion magazine has many suggestions.

Sweater vests are still riding high in popularity. Soft, supple, and colorful vests will speak sportswear, and the price is within all budgets. For a variation try a cardigan with a curved shawl. Or, for the different gift, how about a persian lamb vest?

With brass buttons it costs only 100 dollars, and with solid gold buttons, a mere 150 dollars. Not only that, but to be sure the recipient doesn't catch cold, a persian hat can be obtained for a trifling 70 dollars.

The norfolk jacket, which seems to reappear every 15 years, is back again. This time has a country gentleman effect, and makes a man look and feel extremely comfortable.

Mohair in sweaters is making, and will continue to make, fashion news. It has a shaggy, friendly look, and a rugged masculine cut. With its smoothness, warmth, and light, mohair is designed for active living.

More style, more dash, more flair and more mood, in many more varieties of fabrics, is what one fashion magazine predicts. So this fall men can keep in step with the women, and show some radical changes in clothing all their own.

Union Book Exchange Busy, Closes Monday

Although six out of seven students have been turned away because of lack of books, the Student Governing association book exchange has sold over $2,500 worth of books, according to Bill Mollohan, ChE Sr, manager of the exchange.

The book exchange is located on the third floor of the Student Union and is open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily. It will close Monday.

Students price their own books but are asked to set a figure on the basis of two-thirds the cost of the book. The exchange sells the book at a 5 per cent commission.

The exchange, open for the second consecutive semester, is operated on a non-profit basis. The manager is the only salaried employee working with the seven members of the SGA book exchange committee.

The 5 per cent commission charged by the exchange goes to pay operating expenses. Any money left after students are paid for their books will be used to start the exchange operating next semester.

"We've been handling about 700 books a day but we still would like to have more books," Mollohan said.

Any student who has purchased a book from the exchange and finds that it is out dated or will not be used in class may return the book for a refund. These books should be returned before the exchange closes Friday.

The exchange will begin paying students for their books Saturday.

New Scholarship House Home for 43 KS Men

Men's memorial scholarship house will be home for as many as 43 men this semester. The men were selected by the General Scholarship committee on the basis of high academic ability and need for assistance. None hold cash scholarships.

The new scholarship house was formerly the Pi Kappa Alpha house and is located at 331 N. 17th street. Students will do most of their own housekeeping, cooking, and meal serving and are expected to realize a saving of $300 to $400 a year. Any student maintaining satisfactory grades may continue to live in the scholarship house all four years.

With a total capacity of 45, the house will be run much like a fraternity, having its own officers and meetings. Mrs. Lucille P. Little of Manhattan is housemother.

Men selected to live in the new scholarship house:

Warren C. Babcock, Stella, Neb.; Barton L. Bigge, Stockton; Bert R. Biles, Garden City; Merrill E. Bishop, Mulvane; Donald

Duane R. Engle, Abilene; Dennis L. Esslinger, Clifton; Gabriel R. Faimon, McDonald; Richard A. Hanson, Galena; Kenneth M. Heatherman, Kingman; Gregory K. Henry, Lyons; Earl W. Hoffman, Centralia; Karl R. Kelsey, Garnett; Michael D. King, Shady Bend; Jimmy J. Krob, Cuba; Harley

R. Macklin, Hutchinson; William R. Mahieu, Parsons; Alfred J. Mannebach, Hoxie; James J. Mathias, LeRoy; Larry Miller, Phillipsburg; Jerry J. Minnis, St. John; Gerald H. Oordt, Hospers, Iowa; Lery K. Pickett, Randolph; Keith D. Pugh, Dodge City;

Jerry L. Rathbun, Tescott; Roger L. Riggert, Preston; Clyde A. Roberts, Kansas City; John M. Rueck, Gardner; Larry Runyan, Pittsburgh; Garfield C. Schmidt, Larned; Maurice P. Schrag, Kingman; Allen E. Taylor, Arkansas City; Frank R. Toman, Wilson; Louis J. Vallas, Toeka; and Kenneth A. Wolf, Abilene.

New Course On Animals Being Given

Natural History of Animals is a new course to be offered by the Department of Zoology during the first semester of 1958-59, announces Dr. Donald J. Ameel, head of the department. The course will carry three credit hours and will have one three-hour laboratory and two recreation section each week.

The course may be used to meet part of curriculum requirements in biological science.

The new course allows students a three-hour course in zoology instead of the present five-hour General Zoology.

Natural History of Animals will not serve as a prerequisite to advanced courses offered in the Department of Zoology. Therefore the course cannot be taken in place of General Zoology by biology major or minor students.

The course will stress the place of animals in the physical world and their relation to man.

Dr. Whan Named New Speech Head

Dr. F. L. Whan has been appointed head of the K-State speech department replacing John Keltner, who recently resigned as department head.

Dr. Whan has been in charge of radio and television training here the past five years.

A graduate of Manhattan high school and Kansas State, Whan received his master's degree at the University of Illinois and his doctorate in speech at the University of Iowa.

Prior to joining the K-State faculty in 1953 he was head of the speech department at the University of Wichita 15 years.

Stickers To Be Required On Student Cars Monday

Students who plan to operate cars at school should have identification stickers on their vehicles by Monday, according to Roger Ward, director of safety and traffic. Tickets will be placed on all cars without stickers beginning Monday.

Ward pointed out that these stickers are to be put on the back window except on convertibles, where they are to be put on the right-hand corner of the windshield.

There will be sticker checks in which cars driven by students will be stopped on the street. Those not having stickers on their vehicles will be issued tickets.

"If the owner of any car is associated with the College in any way, and if the car is housed anywhere in the county, he must have an identification sticker," emphasized Ward.

Staff members have a new parking lot this year between the agricultural engineering and industrial engineering shops.

Students who own motor scooters and motor bikes now have the first ramp next to the Union to park.

"Students should learn the rules and start obeying them at the first of the year in order to avoid future trouble," concluded Ward.

Artist Series Price Halved for Staters

A 50 per cent reduction in ticket price for K-State students is being offered by the Manhattan Artist Series this year, according to Professor Luther Leavengood, head of Manhattan Artist Series. This means that the regular season ticket price of $3 to $7.50 is being cut to fit students' budgets. Season tickets are now on sale in the music office in the College auditorium.

A variety of artists are on this season's agenda. Vocal soloist Sarah Fleming will appear November 10, and will be followed by Paul Badura-Skoda, Viennese pianist, January 13; the Robert Shaw Chorale, February 21; and the St. Louis Philharmonic orchestra, March 10.

Since its conception in Manhattan in 1943, the Artist Series has enabled townspeople and K-Staters to enjoy "live" popular music.

In 1943, the Series was carried entirely by townspeople through ticket subscriptions. Three years ago, however, K-State's Student Governing association, feeling it to be worthwhile for college students, agreed to underwrite the Series for a specified amount each season.

Associated Women Students, beginning this year, is initiating an extensive ticket-selling campaign. The campaign is tentatively slated to begin in October and will run approximately one month.

Many K-Staters Receive Scholarships for '58-59

Donald L. Schick, AH Sr, has been awarded a $250 scholarship by the Manhattan Wholesale Meat company.

Gary Wendel Nelson, a freshman in the School of Engineering and Architecture, has been awarded a $200 Berry Memorial scholarship.

Four $250 electrical engineering scholarships have been awarded to Arlin Raedeke, EE Fr; Jerry Douglas Spencer, EE Fr; Dennis Zitterkopf, EE Soph; and Billy Dean Matthews, EE Soph. The scholarships are presented by the Kansas chapter of the National Electrical Contractors association.

Ronald Arthur Havenstein, ChE Soph, is the winner of the $300 Murray Wilson scholarship in engineering this year.

Karen Sue Fields, HE Fr, has been given a $300 scholarship provided by the Stanley Lions club and the East Oxford Home Demonstration unit of Stanley.

Larry D. Gilmore, IE Sr, has been awarded a $200 Muehnic Foundation scholarship for the year.

Larry Eugene Bennett, ME Fr, and John M. Gaffney, CE Fr, are winners of $200 scholarships provided by employees of Servis, Van Doren, and Hazard, Engineers, Topeka.

Ruth Ann Proctor, HT Soph, and Edward Mitchell Eddy, ME Fr, have been awarded $300 Dr. J. E. McManis Memorial scholarships for the year.

Alvin Gottschall, NE Sr, and Millard Ray Edwards, NE Jr, are recipients of $300 scholarships for the year. The scholarships were established anonymously by a K-State faculty member for students in nuclear engineering.

Greta Lee Johnson, DIM Fr, and John Allen Thomas, Ag Fr, are winners of $250 Kroger scholarships.

Richard G. Pannbacker, Ch Fr, Sheila Kay Taylor, Ch Fr, Lawrence G. Wilson, Ch Fr, are receiving scholarships worth $100 created in a trust fund established by the late Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Van Winkle as a memorial to their son, Richard James.

Joy Allen, HT Sr, and Barbara Gilliland, HT Sr, are winners of $100 Hazel Buck memorial scholarships.

John G. Saylor, Ag Fr, is the recipient of a $225 Sears Roebuck Foundation scholarship.

Keith Lyle McCoy, Ag Fr, has been awarded a $100 scholarship by Tau Sigma Delta, national scholastic fraternity for architectural and architectural engineering students.

Lyle Eugene Clum, EE Jr, has been given the $200 Blue Key scholarship.

Annual Housing Pinch Hits Women, Couples

K-State is in its annual housing pinch as the school year begins with women and married students finding it difficult to get located, according to A. Thornton Edwards, housing director.

"So far we have had no difficulty placing single men, but we are short on apartments for married students, and a little short on housing for coeds," Edwards said.

The four women's dormitories now have about 50 more coeds than the normal 650 capacity.

Although houses and apartments for married students are still available, Edwards said it is difficult to find ones which fit into the married student's college budget.

For the Jardine Terrace development there were still 20 on the waiting list this fall, with 45 on the list for the spring term and 20 for the fall of next year.

Recreational Area Planned for KSC

A 360-acre Kansas State college recreational area on the Tuttle Creek reservoir is being planned by the K-State Endowment association.

Kenneth M. Heywood, director of development at K-State, recently announced that an option has been taken on a site just west of Garrison and a contract was signed with Schwab, Eaton, and Associates, a Manhattan consulting engineering firm, for survey and engineering studies.

Although plans are indefinite, Heywood said College officials hope the area eventually will have a lodge and facilities for events such as music and science camps. A golf course may also be included.

The Endowment association is planning as part of the development a residential area with lots available for sale to K-State faculty and staff members. This area will be separate from the recreational facilities at the site. If studies progress as Heywood hopes, the lots may be available for sale early next year.

Heywood, in a survey of faculty and staff opinion this summer, found overwhelming enthusiasm for the project, and a number showed interest in not merely purchasing a lot, but possibly establishing a year around home.

The Endowment association first became interested in assisting K-State in developing a recreational site on Tuttle Creek early in 1957, when the first steps were being taken to have the reservoir established.

In addition to an east shoreline, the site has a north shoreline which faces a deep inlet. The land is presently owned by O. M. McAninch, a 1902 graduate of K-State.

K-Staters Can Apply For Part-Time Jobs

Students who are interested in part-time employment for the coming school year should apply as soon as possible at the Placement center, according to Roland Swaim, assistant director of placement.

Approximately 1,000 students are expected to register for part-time employment assistance at some time during the year. At the present time, 750 calls for jobs and 450 placements are expected, Swaim said.

Job opportunities available at the present time range from that of bookkeeper to warehouseman. Students who wish to make an application for part-time employment are asked to report in the Placement center to Miss Marie Weinman, receptionist for part-time employment. It is necessary that students fill out an application blank that will be left on file in the office.

Swaim stressed the need for the prospective student employee to know his class schedule and telephone number. "Both on the campus and downtown, many times employers won't talk to students applying for work unless he has his definite class schedule," he said.

Since the number of jobs available is exceeded by the number of students seeking employment, the members of the Placement staff urge students to look for jobs on their own rather than depending on the Placement center alone.

"We emphasize that the student should not stop after placing an application in our office," Swaim said. "The student should take the initiative in finding his own job. Students should check both downtown and on the campus depending on qualifications and experience."

Catalogs Now on Sale

For students who desire a personal copy of the General catalog, the latest edition is on sale at the Union information desk. This is the first year the catalog has been made available for purchase by students, according to Ellsworth M. Gerritz, registrar.

New System Hikes Grades

All K-Staters will have higher grade point averages this semester as the new four-point grading system goes into effect.

Each credit hour of A will earn four grade points, each hour of B three points, each hour of C two points, each hour of D one point, and each hour of F no points.

Students' new cumulative grade averages will be figured by adding the total number of credit hours to the number of grade points earned prior to September 1, divided by the number of hours.

For instance, if a student has 87 credit hours with a total of 174 points, his grade average would be the sum of 7 and 174 —251—divided by the number of credit hours, 87.

"The four-point system is probably the most prevalent one used in colleges and universities in the U.S., says Dr. Gerritz, director of admissions.

A new honor system will go into effect with the grade point change. All students with a 3.25 or above average for the semester will be recognized as honor students, according to Dr. Gerritz.

The change also ups the graduation requirement from 700 to 1,700. The fact that this is slightly below a C average is because failures are counted as zero in the grade point average even after a student has taken the course over and received as passing grade, explains Dr. Gerritz.

Under the new system the basis for probation and drops will be cumulative grade averages rather than percentage failures as previously. A freshman with below a 1.5 average for his first two semesters will be placed on probation or will be dropped if below a 1.3 average.

A sophomore with below a 1.5 cumulative average will also be placed on probation or will be dropped if below a 1.4 average. Juniors and seniors will be on probation if below a 1.7 average; juniors will be dropped if below 1.5, and seniors will be dropped if below a 1.6 cumulative average.

Students Hit 6,568 Mark In Enrolling

K-State's enrollment climbed to 6,568 as 49 more students completed registration yesterday, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions. Total enrollment is expected to reach about 6,750.

Official tabulation of the enrollment figures at the close of formal registration Wednesday revealed that K-State has more women and fewer men this year than in the fall of 1957.

The 1,574 coeds registered is a five per cent increase over last year and is the largest number of coeds attending K-State in history. The 4,945 men represent a one per cent decrease.

By classes, there are more freshmen and graduate students.

The Graduate school has 97 more students for a gain of near 21 per cent. The freshman class is about 69 larger, for a gain of about five per cent.

Assemblies Will Begin On Monday

The first assembly of the year will be presented at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the College auditorium with President James A. McCain scheduled to speak. He will discuss some of the problems facing students and how students may best adapt themselves to meet them.

Professors who are new to the campus and any newly-appointed department heads and deans or other administrative officers will be introduced by the President.

Monday morning classes will be shortened 15 minutes each. The first hour is scheduled for 8 a.m. to 8:35 a.m., the second will run from 8:45 a.m. to 9:20 a.m., the third will begin at 10:30 a.m. and end at 11:05 a.m., and the fourth begins at 11:15 a.m. and ends at 11:50 a.m.

Little Rock Integration Ordered by High Court

Washington, Sept. 12 (UPI)—The Supreme Court today ordered the Little Rock School board to proceed with integration at Central High school.

The High Court did so by upholding a decision of the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court had overruled a 2½-year delay in integration granted by Federal District Judge Harry J. Lemley on June 21.

Main Purpose of SGA Is Representing Students

"A SOUNDING BOARD for student opinion—this is the SGA," says Chuck Wingert, His Sr, whose job as Student Council president is to co-ordinate the Student Governing association.

The basic purpose of SGA, according to Wingert, is to represent the students before the administration and to obtain as many student desires as are feasible and practical.

The basic structure of SGA is much the same as that of the federal government. The legislative branch is represented by the Student Council; the executive branch by the Student Council president; and the judicial branch by the Tribunal.

Student Council is divided into numerous committees. These committees cover everything from health insurance to athletics. Outstanding among these are the Apportionment board, SGA book exchange, and the Flashcard committee. Possibly the most important at the present time is the KSU Name Change committee.

ELECTIONS ARE HELD on school-wide basis each spring to decide the personnel for the two main organs. The Student council members are chosen by the various schools which they represent while the Student council president is chosen by the entire student body. Candidates for these offices are nominated in primaries by the two existing campus political parties, the Integrity party and the United Staters party. Tribunal members are selected by the Council president and President McCain.

"Student government is a quarter million dollar business," explained Wingert. The Apportionment board, which will soon be meeting, will distribute this money among the various groups on campus.

New innovations this year are a suggestion box and a bulletin board that will be in the Union starting next week. The bulletin board will display minutes of Student council meetings, the committee structure, and current projects of SGA.

"Student government is the job of all the students," Wingert added. "The system will be weakened if only a few take part in the spring election and the rest sit back to reap the benefits."

Playboys May Disappear As Enrollment Goes Up

AS THE 1958-59 SCHOOL YEAR gets into full swing, a strange attitude is being formed by responsible persons throughout the country that may soon bring an end to that example of American democracy known as the college playboy.

The rah-rah boy in the fur coat which arose earlier in the century has become a symbol. Although this cat has changed his costume several times—the latest being Ivy league—he may be at the end of his tail. Like the cowboy, the flapper, and the Brooklyn Dodger fan, the college playboy may become a vanishing American.

People, serious thinking people like college and government officials, figure it's about time to stop taking education lightly. Slowly but surely the vise is beginning to turn. By and by, in order to obtain a college diploma, people are going to have to shed more sweat.

Why?

THERE ARE TWO OBVIOUS reasons. One is the little Russian thing that keeps circling the globe going "beep beep" all the time (at least that's the way we heard it goes). Despite the fact that the United States has thrown several grapefruit size objects into orbit and several mice into the Atlantic ocean, the pressure is still on us. It didn't take long to realize that our success in the future rested with the citizens of the future. Education, rigid education, is needed for survival of our way of life.

Then there is the problem of numbers. Although college enrollment has been on a steady and managable rise, the shock absorbers are being readied for that group which has caused trouble in elementary and secondary schools—the war babies.

A few of them are starting to come in now and in 1960 enrollment figures will begin a continual increase to which no end is in sight. An estimated 15,500 students will be attending K-State by 1972.

Already there are signs of what is to come. A wave of construction on the campus in an attempt to keep a jump ahead of the increased enrollment, the rejection of some 300 out-of-state applicants by the college, the increase in the number of scholastic scholarships and the attention being given those who have shown potential as future leaders (as exemplified by the Honors program here) are such signs.

ACCORDING TO A RECENT survey of college educators across the nation, steps are being taken to hike the entrance requirements at many institutions. Land-grant universities, although following their state laws in admitting graduates from state high schools, are making it tough on the coasters. Those students who gain admittance into colleges but ride along on low grades may find themselves out in the cold at mid-term.

Perhaps the most drastic proposal for solving the lack of college educational facilities was made by Philip Ward Burton, professor of the School of Journalism at Syracuse university. Burton suggested that the number of women allowed to go to co-educational schools be cut down.

Wrote Burton in an article appearing in the February 9 issue of This Week magazine: "... there are two good reasons why women students will need to be sacrificed—Men need the college degree more than women need it, and most women have less sensible, or less demanding, reasons for a college education.

Ye Gads! Come to think of it, not only is the playboy's position jeopardized, but the coed may have to go too. Now that would be a real vanishing American.—GEM

Chinese Communist Bombardment of Quemoy Continues, North Korean 'Volunteer' Troops Prepared for Fight

Compiled from UPI
by CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Taipei, Formosa—Communist China warned today that the Chinese "volunteer" troops now being pulled out of North Korea were fully prepared to go "any place to fight against the aggressors," including the Quemoy area.

Communist China sent perhaps one million "volunteers" into North Korea to aid North Korean Communists fighting United Nations forces. They are being withdrawn into Manchuria and "are closely watching the situation in the Taiwan Straits area," Peiping radio said.

Reports from Quemoy said Nationalist frogmen there were removing underwater obstacles in hopes of carving out an emergency landing beach but that Red artillery was bombarding the island almost without letup.

The Communists drove back four Nationalist supply vessels yesterday with a record barrage that continued through the night and morning. The defense ministry said more than 60,000 shells hit Quemoy between 4 p.m. yesterday and 7 o'clock this morning.

Question Child's Story

New York—Police investigated a new lead today that could disprove eight-year-old Melvin Dean Nimer's thrice-told story that it was he who killed his parents.

As the child underwent psychiatric tests at Bellevue Medical Center, police looked down "an avenue foreign to the boy" in their investigation into the stabbing deaths of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Nimer the morning of September 2.

Deputy Chief Inspector Edward W. Byrnes said late yesterday, shortly after the boy was committed to Bellevue, that detectives had been sent "out of town" to investigate new leads.

The boy was remanded to Bellevue by Justice Charles E. Ramsgate after he purportedly told police on three separate occasions that he stole into his parents room and stabed both in the abdomen with a bread knife.

A medical examiner's report released last night said it was possible for the four-foot, slightly-built child to have committed the crime.

Feds Eye Little Rock

Little Rock—The Department of Justice got set today with a force of imported deputy U.S. Marshals and four of its top lawyers to enforce integration at Central High School if the Supreme Court orders it to admit Negroes.

Few persons expected the Supreme Court to let Central open Monday without Negroes. Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he certainly does not.

KS Campus Gets New Look

By LARRY MEREDITH
Kansas State still has the same name, but returning students have found several changes on the campus.

R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical Plant, explained that buildings all over the campus are being rebuilt or are gaining new additions, and that several altogether new buildings are under construction.

Most students have noticed that the old student health building is gone and a new one under construction. The ground is now being excavated and by next fall a new building is expected to be in use.

A new housing project for married students is under way north of the campus. Eleven buildings with 24 apartments will be constructed.

The new men's dormitory is taking shape, and by the fall of '60 the building will be ready for use. The dormitory will house 600 men and will be six stories tall with a basement.

Home economics majors will be pleased to learn that their new building will soon be ready for use. Gingrich said that between February and July of next year it will be completed.

The new Ag Engineering wing is now in use but a few final touches are necessary before final inspection.

By the middle of October plans for the Kedzie addition will be sent to the contractors. The new building will have classrooms and offices in the top floors and printing equipment in the basement.

A new elevator for the storage and handling of grain is nearing completion. There will be two bins with approximately 5,000-bushel capacity. Three more bins are planned for the near future.

Eisenhower hall will gain a new addition soon. Near the first of the year, plans will be drawn and the new addition housing classrooms and offices will be under way.

A working design for the rehabilitation of East Waters hall and for a new milling laboratory is now on the boards. This new laboratory will be east of the new feed technology building.

Agriculture students will also be glad to note that preliminary plans for a dairy poultry unit of the Animal Industries building are under way. Also a new Physical Science building is being planned.

KS Gridders Show Depth In Yesterday's Scrimmage

K-State displayed three evenly-matched grid squads yesterday afternoon in a 34-minute game condition scrimmage in Memorial stadium. Each of the first three units scored one touchdown.

All three touchdowns climaxed sustained scoring drives. Halfback Ben Grosse, playing on the second team, scored the first six-pointer, against the varsity, early in the second quarter. He then booted the extra point.

Sophomore quarterback John Solmos led the third team to a touchdown against the red-jerseyed first-stringers with one minute remaining in the first half, scoring on a quarterback sneak. Sophomore guard Ed Harr converted.

A third quarter drive by the first team, with quarterback Kent McConnell leading the attack, hit pay dirt on a short pass from McConnell to letterman end Jim Luzinski. McConnell then ran for a two-pointer on a quarterback keeper.

"I thought it was a pretty good scrimmage," said Head Coach Bus Mertes. "They looked a little better—at least offensively. The quarterbacking was a lot better, and Solmos was passing real well."

Mertes also singled out end Joe Vader, halfbacks Max Falk and Ben Grosse, and fullback Terry Lee as standouts.

The Wildcats will have a light workout this afternoon, and will have a full game scrimmage in the Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Loop Drills Continue; Injuries Hurt OU, NU

By UPI

Nebraska's hopes for football glory—at least this year—took a severe setback yesterday with two veterans sidelined for the season because of injuries.

Lineman Don Olson, a junior tackle from Grand Island, Neb., and sophomore center Bob Daniels of Wichita, are both lost to the squad for the entire season, Coach Bill Jennings said mournfully.

Shoulder and rib injuries sidelined Olson, who was one of the top players last year, and was in more action than any other Husker. Daniels is suffering inflammation of the heart muscles. Gerry Marchbank, a Wichita Falls, Texas, junior at Oklahoma university, fractured a wrist in Sooner grid drills yesterday and it was not known how long he will be out of action.

Iowa State's varsity stumbled into the second half before they revitalized to a 42-6 win over the freshmen in a closed session. The varsity led at halftime 8-0.

Coach Clay Stapleton said the freshmen looked tremendous, "especially since this was their second day of practice."

The Missouri Tigers yesterday spent an afternoon on their new practice field, but planned to move back to Rollings field pending completion of dressing rooms at the new location. The Tigers went without contact yesterday and faced a light workout today.

Kansas Coach Jack Mitchell sent his team through a rugged two-hour scrimmage and called it the best drill this season.

Colorado's only contact work yesterday was a 20-minute pass protection drill. More of the same was scheduled today and a two-hour game scrimmage will be held tomorrow.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Mertes Has Pick Of Many KS Halfbacks

On a team that is lacking depth in many positions, a bright spot is the situation at halfback, where coach Bus Mertes has nine prospects from which to pick.

"We have good depth, and halfback speed is pretty good. They are as willing a bunch as we have ever had, too. But, gee, are they green," said Mertes.

The only senior in the group is 5-9, 176 pound Ben Grosse, who shows the most experience, already owning two halfback letters at Kansas State. Rated the top punter on the squad, Grosse is one of the finest field goal kickers in K-State history, giving him extra value. Although sidelined by a head injury in spring drills, he is back at full strength and appears ready to hold a spot on K-State's first string.

Another returning letterman is George Whitney, 5-7, 163 pound junior, who has proved to be the steadiest performer so far this fall. Whitney averaged 5.2 yards in 35 attempts last year.

Max Falk, who trades on speed, played only briefly last year due to a knee injury which hobbled him. The 6-1, 180 pound junior rated as top 'Cat blocker and defensive man.

The other returning letterman is Tony Tiro, who earned a monogram at fullback last year. Tiro, a rugged "go for broke" type runner, averaged 3.2 yards a carry from the deep slot last fall. Mostly on quick kicks, the chunky junior averaged 37 yards on punts. He has been slowed down somewhat by injuries this year.

First unit left halfback in yesterday's scrimmage was John Marcoline, 5-9, 164 pound junior, who has seen a lot of action this year.

Somewhere among these candidates, or the four rookies,

Mertes must find the bulk of K-State's rushing for the new season. The four top rushers of last year are missing—three of them halfbacks.

Like many other positions on the Wildcat roster, much of the depth is in sophomores. Heading the list of sophomore halfbacks are Dale Evans, speedy defensive ace who has also been seeing action at quarterback, and Bill Gallagher, another sprinter, who may match Keady's pass catching ability.

Other sophomore candidates are Billy Rich, 6-1, 160 pounder, and Larry Janssen at 5-11 and 180 pounds. Mertes was especially pleased with Rich's performance in scrimmage yesterday.

Yesterday's scrimmage saw Marcoline and Whitney running with the first unit, Grosse and Falk on the second unit, and Evans and Rich running third string.

"When you add it all up, our halfback prospects don't look bad," Mertes sums up. "But then you remember the way Pfeifer used to rip and tear, and how fast Wilson was—how dependable for that clutch yardage—and you wonder if we can match last year."

Cat Gridder Injures Knee During Drill

Ron Praglowski, sophomore guard who has been alternating between second and third string this fall, injured his knee in yesterday afternoon's scrimmage.

Praglowski was carried off the field on a stretcher following the injury which occurred on a kickoff on which he was a downfield blocker. The extent of the injury was not known, but coach Bus Mertes said Praglowski would probably be out of action for ten days. He was taken to Riley County hospital where he spent the night. X-rays were taken this morning.

Also injured was third-string right tackle Ralph Peluso, who received a bruised left knee. The 5-10, 213 pound junior is expected to return to the pads soon, however—possibly by tomorrow.

Student Union Open House To Be Tomorrow Evening

Kansas State students will have an opportunity to look over extra-curricular activities at the Student Union open house and Activities carnival tomorrow evening.

The affair will begin at 7 p.m. and last until midnight. More than 50 student activity booths, Union committee booths, and an informal dance will be features of the evening.

Every corner of the Union will have some attraction. The activity booths will be set up in the main ballroom; the movie, "Kis-met," will be shown in the little theater, and the various Union committees will each have something different to present.

Beginning at 9 p.m., "Big Bob" Dougherty and his band will play for the informal dance in the main ballroom.

DANCE, BE HAPPY. K-Staters swing to the music of Big Bob Dougherty and his combo Saturday night in the Union ballroom. The dance followed the Union open-house and activities carnival. About 2,000 people attended the carnival, which featured booths of 12 union committees and 55 clubs.

New Department Has Problems, Says Kimel

Lacking furniture and a telephone and having a secretary with an office in another building are a few of the problems facing Dr. William R. Kimel, head of the new Nuclear Engineering department.

The department was created July 1 with offices on the second floor of Seaton hall. Prof. Kimel's secretary has a temporary office in the chemical engineering building.

A curriculum in nuclear engineering was created in 1952. With the growing importance of instruction and research in nuclear engineering, the department was established and more than 100 students are enrolled.

In addition to Dr. Kimel, the department has two full-time instructors and three part-time instructors. Dr. S. Z. Mikhail and Robert Clack are full-time instructors.

Dr. Mikhail came to K-State this fall from the University of Cairo, Egypt, and Clack had been an instructor in the Mechanical Engineering department here.

Clack was a delegate to the Atoms for Peace conference in Geneva, Switzerland, and returns to Manhattan today.

The part-time instructors: Richard C. Baile of the Chemical Engineering department, Dr. Louis D. Ellsworth of the Physics department, and Dr. Charles A. Halijak of the Electrical Engineering department.

All of the department instructors have had special training at Argonne National laboratory of the Atomic Energy commission in Lemont, Ill.

"We plan to build two sub-critical nuclear reactors this year," Dr. Kimel said. "One of the reactors will be financed by the Atomic Energy commission under a grant given to the College, and K-State will finance the other."

The two reactors will provide K-State with one of the most complete nuclear laboratories in the country, according to Dr. Kimel.

Students Amiss, States President

"The vast responsibility assumed by American colleges in this period of crisis should prove both sobering and challenging to their students," President McCain said this morning at the first assembly of the year.

"In most of the world's other major nations university students are a dynamic force in public affairs," McCain said.

He pointed out that the French union of students has manifested a strong interest in the Algerian question, Greek students in the Cyprus crisis, Spanish students, often at considerable personal risk, in problems of social justice. In contrast, American students are too often completely absorbed by the restricted life of their respective campus communities, he said.

"It would be interesting to know how many students in Kansas institutions this fall could even name the three state referendum measures to be voted on in the November election, or could carry on an informed discussion of issues as vital to their own future as the crisis in Lebanon or Quemoy," McCain said.

"With the advent of the space age, America's colleges and universities have assumed a new dimension of importance. To the traditional goals of higher education has been added a new and overwhelming responsibility—guardianship of our national security.

"The American people have made it unmistakably clear that they expect our colleges to insure us a safe margin of superiority over the communists in science and technology. Simultaneously, there has been a renewed public acknowledgement of the vital importance to the national welfare of all aspects of our educational system."

McCain said the enormous appropriations made by Congress for the purpose of strengthening our schools and colleges is evidence of the national reliance on education.

"The aid to Education bill enacted during the closing days of the Congress made almost a billion dollars available for a variety of high school and collegiate programs. Funds for the National Science foundation to support research in colleges and universities were increased $60 million.

McCain said that students must realize that the concept of college as either a country club or an ivory tower is as outmoded now as the raccoon coat and the Stutz Bearcat roadster which symbolized collegiate behavior in the roaring twenties.

"This enlarged role assumed by higher education demands a renewed dedication to scholarship. There is no longer room on the campus for the 'good time Charlies' whose ambitions are restricted to barely passing grades.

"Valuable as are many of the organized activities of the student body, they must be properly subordinated to the main business at hand, the work of classroom and laboratory," he said.

KSC Meets New Heads

K-State's new administrative officials were introduced this morning at the first all-College assembly of the year.

The new members include Donald F. Hoyt, director, student counseling center; Dr. Forest Whan, head of the Department of Speech; Dr. A. B. Cardwell, head of the Department of Physics; Dr. Brewster Rogerson, director of the Honors program; Col. Gordon K. Stallings, head of the Department of Air Science; Col. Carl F. Lyons, head of the Department of Military Science; and Dr. William R. Kimel, head of the Department of Nuclear Engineering.

Coed Heads For Berkeley

Mel Eaton, EEd Sr, left her home in Harper Friday night to participate in the 1958 Miss Football contest at Berkeley, Calif., September 16 through 21.

Miss Eaton was 1957 St. Patricia, 1957 Interfraternity Pledge council queen, Miss November on the 1957 Miss Wildcat calendar, and Miss December on the 1957 Engineer's calendar.

Mel's last words before she left were, "Do you know who won the Miss Football title last year? It was Mary Ann Mobley of the University of Mississippi—the new Miss America. I'm coming back to K-State right away."

McCain To Address SC On Name Change Action

President McCain will attend this evening's Student Council meeting to bring members up to date on the proposed name change to Kansas State university.

The meeting—at 7 p.m. in room 207 of the Student Union—will be open to the student body.

SC Open for Engineer

Applications for the vacant Student Council position as a representative of the School of Engineering are now being accepted by Bill Harrison, NE Sr, at the Chemical Engineering department. Applications should be in by September 22.

It will be a "get-going" session for the Council, according to Larry French, BA Sr, and Council chairman.

French said he did not expect the Council to accomplish much in this meeting. However, there are some "administrative matters" which he expects will be taken care of. The Council will also discuss membership for some of its committees.

Student Council members arrived from Topeka late yesterday afternoon after a weekend retreat at the Kiwanis Youth camp on Lake Shawnee. "We feel we got quite a bit accomplished in setting up some policy we'd like to see changed. Everybody got acquainted with each other, too, and that was the main purpose of the retreat," French said.

New Ticket System Beneficial to Students

One of the most discussed topics during this early part of the school year is the $5 student season ticket for home football games.

The price of these tickets is of no small concern to students, especially those upperclassmen who remember the privilege of attending football and basketball games by paying only the activity fee (which amounts to $33 a year).

But this new system, no matter how distasteful to some, should benefit the student body in the long run. It will be a shot in the arm for the Athletic department, small campus groups asking for apportionments, and the sports fan himself.

Although this matter was hashed and rehashed last last spring, perhaps it would be a good idea to review this activity fee change for the benefit of those who are not acquainted with it.

In the past the Athletic department was apportioned a certain percentage of the student activity fee to help support its program. Last year, for instance, the Athletic department received $61,753 ($8.80 from each student).

Early in the spring term Bebe Lee, K-State athletic director, offered a new ticket plan by which those students wishing to see football and basketball games would have to buy $5 season tickets for each sport.

In turn the Athletic department agreed to ask for less of the student fee. The Student Council finally passed the proposal and a tentative apportionment of $36,375 ($5.50 a year for each student) was approved for athletics.

This enabled small groups to receive more apportionment money. For instance the Religious Co-ordinating council was given a tentative apportionment of $1,215 compared to $560 received in 1957-58, the Arts and Sciences council was given $700 compared to $200 the year before, and the Marching Band trip and Music Trip fund received $1,500 each as opposed to $500 each the year before.

Then there is the assistance that the Athletic department will receive by this new setup. Assuming that concern over the new ticket plan is shown only by those who are interested in sports, let's get into the subject of "big-time" athletics. It takes money to develop a successful athletic program and up to now the school has not been successful.

Lee has pointed out the fact that the K-State athletic department has received the smallest amount of money from the student body than any other school in the Big Eight conference. Not only is the enrollment the smallest, but the portion received from each student activity fee in the past was the smallest.

Now the Athletic department can move more freely in attempting to improve itself. As an example, Lee said an added $8,300 over last year's total is being used for scholarships in sports other than football and basketball this year.

Last but not least comes the interest of the students. Those who do not care for sports can at least feel satisfied that less of their money is going to the Athletic department. And those who are interested in sports can now feel free to go to a game without having to worry about standing for the whole game or being buried behind non-students who borrowed or bought activity tickets from students who never attended games.—GEM

Governor Closes All 4 Little Rock High Schools; U.S. Marshals, City Police Training for Action

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER
Little Rock—All four Little Rock high schools close today at 8 a.m. under orders of Gov. Orval E. Faubus. The closing order takes effect one-half hour before the schools had been scheduled to open for another year of court-ordered racial integration.

The opening of classes at strife-torn Central High and three other high schools already has been delayed two weeks.

Faubus said he ordered the closing because he feared opening the schools on an integrated basis, as the U.S. Supreme Court decreed, would invite violence.

The Justice department is expected to go to court today with an action to counter the closing order. The first litigation probably will be a petition to perfect the government's status; that is, making it a direct party to the integration action.

So far, the legal dispute has been between the NAACP and the Little Rock School board. The government has taken the position of a friend of the court.

NAACP officials declined to send Negro students today to test the forces of Faubus' order.

All police days off and vacations were cancelled today, so that a full 150-man police force would be available. City manager Dean Dauley disclosed that the police had been training at the Little Rock Pistol club with tear gas grenades and projectiles.

A force of 150 Special Deputy U.S. Marshals continued their training program in the Federal building yesterday but newsmen were not allowed in the classes or permitted to talk to the trainees. The training will continue, said Stephen C. Bransdorfer, Justice department spokesman, until the situation clears up.

Quemoy News Cut Off

Taipei—The United States and Nationalist China imposed a news blackout today on the besieged Quemoy islands where their combined efforts have failed to break a Communist artillery blockade.

The Nationalists announced earlier a new convoy was speeding toward the Quemoy islands in hopes of running the blockade but there was no word on whether it had managed to deliver the sorely-needed supplies.

Four out of six convoys have been turned back and those which got through delivered only a meager amount of supplies.

At the same time there were reports in reliable quarters that the United States had begun a major military buildup on Formosa with 1,000-mile-per-hour planes, guided missiles and giant cargo planes.

The U.S. Taiwan (Formosa) Defense Command, highest American military headquarters on Formosa, and the Nationalist Defense Ministry issued a communique barring all newsmen from the Quemoy, Matsu and Pescadores Islands for "reasons of military security."

Wunderlich Says Poultry Theft Joke Ruins Experiment

Several chickens were stolen recently from a Poultry department control group and thrown on sorority lawns after being killed.

This prank has forced experimenters to start their study over again. It was hardly funny enough to be worth the trouble it caused, was it.

Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich said the college will take drastic action if such an act occurs again and the participants caught. He said that if students realized the seriousness of such an act they might see the school's side of the problem.

RUNNING WITH DETERMINATION, Bill Gallagher, 21, tries to turn the corner and avoid first string halfback George Whitney, 40, during the varsity full game scrimmage Saturday afternoon in Memorial stadium.

'Cats Show Offensive Punch in Drill; Other Big Eight Squads Defeat Subs

K-State's varsity football squad displayed a lot of good offense in Saturday's full-game scrimmage, but the defense suffered accordingly. Coach Bus Mertes commented, "We'll have to work a lot on pass defense this week to be ready for the Wyoming game this Saturday."

The purple-jersied first team, behind 14-6 at the half, rallied to win, 30-20. The Purples tied it up 14-14 in the third quarter on a quarterback sneak from the one yard line by Les Krull, and Krull passed to end Jim Luzinski for the two-point conversion.

The third unit assisted the first stringers, when Billy Rich ran 18 yards, for a touchdown and Larry Janssen ran for the two-pointer to give the Purples a 22-14 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Kent McConnell sneaked over from the one yard line to bring the Whites back into the game 22-20, but the attempted conversion was stopped short of the goal.

Terry Lee dived over the goal line in the fourth quarter for the final touchdown, and a Krull to Vader conversion pass gave the Purples the 30-20 win.

The Missouri university Black squad, composed of the top 30 players, pounded out a 61-0 victory over the White squad, the next 24, in a game condition scrimmage Saturday.

The first and second units of the Kansas Jayhawks rolled over the third and fourth teams 43-0 Saturday in K. U.'s third full scrimmage, but were unimpressive, according to Coach Jack Mitchell.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton admitted yesterday that the greatest weakness on his football team at the present is a lack of good team timing.

Stapleton made this observation after watching films of Thursday's game scrimmage, in which the varsity routed the freshman, 42-6.

The first and second teams of the Colorado Buffaloes scored 48 points and held the third and fourth units scoreless in a full scale football scrimmage Saturday.

Coach Dal Ward said the offense, though scoring seven touchdowns, was poorly coordinated. He felt no one did an outstanding job on offense.

Frosh Football Squad Starts Fall Workouts

Wildcat Head Football Coach Bus Mertes calls the frosh group "the best-looking freshman squad at K-State in the four years I have been coach here."

The young 'Cats open their two-game schedule October 24, when they host the Kansas university frosh. They then journey to Lincoln, Neb., to meet the Nebraska university yearlings on November 7.

Dissinger calls the squad a "pretty fine group" and says prospects are "real high" for a successful season. He is being assisted by Corky Taylor '55, in the backfield and Tommy O'Boyle '54, in the line.

The squad will practice two hours a day Monday through Friday. Regular practice will continue until the Nebraska game, after which the frosh may be worked in against the varsity, according to Coach Dissinger.

NY Ices Pennant, Downs A's Twice

By UPI

The New York Yankees mathematically clinched their ninth pennant in ten years under Casey Stengel yesterday when they beat the Kansas City Athletics, 5-3, and 12-7, in 14 innings. The first-game victory was enough to mathematically eliminate the second-place Chicago White Sox and the long nightcap only delayed the cork-popping.

K-State Dairy Judgers To Open at Hutchinson

The senior intercollegiate dairy cattle judging team opens fall competition today at the Hutchinson state fair, competing against teams from South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Colorado.

Coach G. B. Marion named Dick Dunham, DH Sr; Chester Peterson, DH Sr; and Stan Smith, DH Jr, to represent K-State at Hutchinson. Gene Harter, DH Jr, will serve as alternate.

Band

Anyone interested in playing in the K-State band should contact Jean Hedlund in Nichols 5 as soon as possible. Hedlund says the band is particularly short of brass instruments.

Today is the last day for anyone interested in twirling to apply. One more twirler is needed and interested persons should apply in Nichols 5, according to Hedlund.

1500 Persons Attend Frosh Talent Show

Over 1,500 students attended the Freshman Talent show Friday night in the Auditorium.

Eighteen frosh gave performances that included twirling, modern dancing, ballroom dancing, reading, comedy skits, saxophone, and popular singing numbers.

Receiving the biggest reaction from the crowd were Ernie English, MAV, who sang "All the Way" and "Blue Moon", saxophonist Ben Dow, PrV, with two numbers, and Linda Ate, Sp, who did modern jazz and exhibition ballroom dances.

An unscheduled attraction came when a pair of dogs made their presence known by a bark from the rear of the Auditorium and again when they appeared on stage in the middle of an act.

The show was sponsored by the Campus Entertainment committee and the K-State Players.

McCain Tells SC About KSU Action

President McCain told Student Council his views on the proposed name change from Kansas State college to Kansas State university at the year's first regular meeting in the Union last night.

McCain said that the Board of Regents had deferred action on the name change to a meeting this Friday from an earlier meeting, and that a decision on it was likely this time. Next step in changing the name will be legislative approval—provided the Board of Regents votes in favor of the switch.

The President thought that approval was likely. He said he had talked with all of the nine members of the Board, and that they all seemed to favor the change. The only issue seems to be what the change is to be.

The student body accorded the name, "Kansas State university," overwhelming approval last spring, and McCain said that he had never officially negotiated about any other name. The Faculty Senate and Student Council have also officially approved the three-word name.

However, some feel that Kansas State would be better off with the name, "Kansas State University of Agriculture and Applied Science."

McCain said that Chancellor Murphy of Kansas university had written a letter to the Board of Regents saying the University had no objections to the change—however, he suggested that it be to the longer title.

The reason Murphy gave for his action was that KU had some bequests which are granted to them under the name "Kansas State university."

President McCain flatly said, "I favor the shorter title." He said that he felt the name was similar to what would be the trend among land-grant institutions within five or ten years.

The "Agriculture and Applied Science" title is redundant, he pointed out, since agriculture is an applied science. The K-State executive said that he had sent a letter to the Board saying that he, personally, favored the short "Kansas State university" title.

Both McCain and Murphy will attend the meeting of the Board of Regents Friday at Topeka.

The Council will meet at President McCain's home on campus next Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. Student Body President Chuck Wingert, His Sr., also announced that his cabinet will meet this Friday in the activities center.

A Student Body President's Cabinet is something new at K-State. Wingert said that it would be composed of the Student Council officers and the presidents of the five school councils and Jr. AVMA. It will meet once a week, and its purpose will be to "better co-ordinate the various functions of student government."

K-State Music Groups Attract Many Students

Though only in its second year, K-State's varsity men's chorus has proved so popular that it has been organized into two choruses this fall.

An 82-man varsity chorus is being created by Director Morris Hayes, who is filling out last year's group with top men auditioning this fall. A second chorus of around 50 members will feature others who passed the auditions.

Other K-State musical groups are also crowded. William R. Fischer will have a 70-member cappella choir and 80 girls are out for the girls' glee club.

All curriculums on campus are represented in the singing groups and only a small per cent of the students are music majors.

The annual Christmas Vespers program by the cappella choir December 7, and the traditional presentation of the Messiah, a joint effort by all vocal groups and the College-Civic orchestra December 18, are among the highlights of the year.

The Fine Arts Festival in November will feature a program by the cappella choir, while the women's glee club and the men's choruses will combine for two concerts next spring.

Fischer will direct the K-State Singers (a select group of a dozen singers) in a Gershwin program this fall, a concert on March 1, and also in a number of engagements scheduled in the coming weeks.

Under the direction of Luther Leavengood, the College-Civic orchestra starts rehearsals tonight. Membership is open to college students and faculty members, Manhattan area residents, and Fort Riley personnel.

Musicians from Manhattan, Fort Riley, Leonardville, Alma, Randolph, and Morganville played in last year's orchestra.

The College-Civic orchestra will open the 1958 Fine Arts festival here November 15, with a concert of contemporary music.

String players are especially needed, according to Leavengood. All persons interested in playing in the orchestra are invited to call the music office or report at the first rehearsal tonight in the Auditorium.

Indian Educator To Visit Here

A prominent Indian educator will be a visitor on the Kansas State college campus Thursday through Monday. He is D. S. Reddy, vice chancellor of Osmania university at Hyderabad, India.

Reddy's post is the equivalent of the presidency of an American college, and Osmania university has around 7,000 students.

Kansas State College has had a team of technical experts in India for the past two years, and the team headquarters has been at Osmania university.

In addition to conferring with K-State officials concerning the work in India, Vice Chancellor Reddy also will study operations of a land grant college.

New K-State Mail Setup Established

POSTMISTRESSES Pearl J. Clark (left) and Gladys Erichsen are the two full-time employees on duty at the College postal center.

Campus mail is now being handled by contract service. The main difference under the new system is that the Manhattan post office sorts the mail and delivers it to the various campus buildings. Under the new system, out-going mail is picked up at each building and in-coming mail delivered.

In the past, college employees had to sort all the in-coming mail. This required four full-time workers plus student help. Only two employees plus some student help are needed now.

To most students, the only noticeable difference will be that the post office will be open throughout the day from 8:30 a.m. to 4:50 p.m. Money orders will also be sold now.

Independents May Sign For Yearbook Pictures

All students living in independent organized houses who want their pictures in the Royal Purple should come to the student publications office in Kedzie 103A before September 24 to make arrangements.

Vocalist Ella Fitzgerald To Appear on Campus

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson trio will present an afternoon concert here September 28 in the Kansas State Animal Industries pavilion. The K-State Jazz club is sponsoring the concert.

Miss Fitzgerald previously appeared here in 1955 before an audience of about 3,500. She received a standing ovation for her jazz and blues singing.

Miss Fitzgerald has consistently filled night clubs and concert halls across the United States and recently drew larger crowds at New York's Carnegie Hall than pianist Van Cliburn.

After she finished her one-woman show at the Hollywood Bowl, drawing 10,000 people, a critic said she was "probably the only woman singer who could do this with the possible exception of Maria Callas."

After more than twenty years of singing, Ella has reached the place where she can now do a one-woman show. An afternoon with Ella Fitzgerald promises, however, an additional bonus in the person of the Oscar Peterson Trio.

Ella will be doing her favorites from the Cole Porter, Rodgers and Hart, Irving Berlin and Duke Ellington song books, and Peterson will play old-time favorites.

This should be one of the rare occasions when a "pop" afternoon concert promises to be a delight for the jazz purist as well as the popular music fan.

Arts and Sciences Curriculums Being Emphasized at Last

HERE IS AN ITEM which should be of interest to those Arts and Sciences students who have that "de-emphasized" feeling because of the attention being given to the engineering and science curriculums.

A current evaluation of the United States educational system made by a group of school administrators yielded the opinion that scientific education is not the only need of America today.

IN A BOOKLET "The Contemporary Challenge to American Education" written by the Educational Policies commission (of the National Education association and the American Association of School Administrators) it was declared that fully as important as progress in science are the promotion of American democracy and the preservation of peace.

Wrote the commission: "Survival in this age may be staked on science but the building of peace calls for knowledge, insights, and abilities of many kinds. Thus, the philosopher, the historian, the social scientist, the student of language and literature, share with the scientist the promise of the future.

"THE SUCCESS OF democracy rests on wise citizen participation in public affairs and on respect for the individual wherever his talents lie. American belief in the dignity of the individual must not be diluted by contemporary anxieties. "The real need is for those qualities of mind and spirit which will enable the American people to survive in times of tension and to achieve their own ideals. The preservation of democracy, the building of a lasting peace, and the guarantee of respect for the dignity of each human being, all demand an education of such scope and diversity as to enable every American to rise to his own best potential."

Window-Peekers Already Taking in the Sights But Alert Iowa State Women Spy for Police

By Jane Butel

PROWLERS ARE ALREADY starting to haunt coeds at Iowa State, according to the Iowa State Daily. One was found looking in the third floor window of the Sigma Kappa sorority house, but the neighboring A D Pi's sighted him and alerted the chief of police, who nabbed him before he had a chance to enter . . . so all ended well. It seems though, that Iowa State is bothered with a scourge of prowlers every year about this time. They reportedly have evil intentions . . . $800 was absconded last fall alone.

JOURNALISTS DOWN Oklahoma way are about a giant step ahead of us here in the hallowed halls of Kedzie. They moved into their new building this fall. Sounds kinda nice . . . air conditioning and all. Wonder how they'd like to make an even trade.

BAND STUDENTS HERE ought to consider themselves rather fortunate. According to the Indiana Daily Student, their marching hundred has all ready stepped off some odd 3,150 man hours. The catch is—they came to school two weeks early and put in some pretty long hours.

Nationalists Resupply Quemoy; U.S. Strengthens Air Defenses

Compiled from United Press International

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Taipei—The Defense ministry announced today Nationalist ships and planes broke through Communist artillery fire today to stage the biggest resupply operation in the Quemoy in more than a week.

The breakthrough was announced shortly after Premier Chen Cheng told the nation that the war in the Formosa strait would spread to the China mainland if the Communist blockade of the Quemoy islands was not ended soon.

"We have absolutely no intention of idly sitting by and letting the more than 100,000 civilians and military personnel on Quemoy and its adjacent islands be besieged without taking effective methods for their reinforcement," Chen said.

"I am firmly of the opinion that should the enemy persist in sealing off Quemoy completely, it would mean extending the war."

The National Assembly yesterday adopted a resolution requesting the United States and Nationalist armed forces to "take immediate and effective measures of bombing the mainland coastal areas and thoroughly destroy the Communist gun positions."

The United States has moved a contingent of the vastly-improved F-100D Supersabre jets from the Philippines to reinforce an American unit of F-86 Korean war style Sabres.

U.S. officials disclosed that atomic-capable Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missiles are on the way to the western Pacific, presumably to Formosa. Matarador guided missiles already are in firing position from which they can reach at least 200 miles inside Communist China.

The F-104A holds the world record of 1,404 miles an hour and the altitude of 91,000 feet. Its speed puts Red China within five minutes reach from Formosa.

The exact number of Starfighters deployed on Formosa was not revealed, but a squadron usually numbers about 25 planes.

School Solution Sought

Little Rock—The Little Rock School board cast about today for a stopgap means of teaching 3,470 students unable to attend classes because all four of Little Rock's high schools are closed by the integration crisis.

The School board considered lessons taught on Little Rock's three television stations and study assignments they can complete at home or in the public library.

Gov. Orval Faubus closed the schools yesterday, because, he said, opening them integrated, as the Supreme Court ordered, would provoke almost certain violence.

A cross with an effigy of a Negro strapped to it was burned last night near the entrance to Little Rock's War Memorial park. Firemen put out the fire that wreathed the five-foot-high cross and took the remains of the effigy to headquarters. They were unable to find out who burned it.

Faubus said yesterday the schools, of which Central is the main one at issue, may not open until after a special election on the integration question.

Tragedy Toll Mounts

Bayonne, N.J.—A huge floating crane today attached slings to the second of three Jersey Central railroad passenger cars that, with two engines, plunged through an open drawbridge into 50 feet of water in Newark Bay. They hoped to raise the car before noon.

Twenty bodies had been recovered by early today and the death toll threatened to rise as high as 40. At least 40 persons were injured. The bodies recovered included seven picked up shortly after the tragedy yesterday and 13 found in a passenger car raised by the crane early today.

Cat Picture Encouraging At Fullback

As K-State enters its final week of practice before meeting Wyoming university Saturday, a five-man list of fullback hopefuls gives the Wildcats encouraging hope at the position.

Heading the list at present is Terry Lee, 5-10, 182 pound senior, who ran at fullback and halfback the two previous seasons. According to Coach Bus Mertes, Lee looked real good in scrimmage last Saturday. "He blocks well and runs real hard," stated Mertes.

Craig Jones, another top prospect, has been hampered by an injury most of the year. In 14 carries last season, the 5-11, 196 pound senior never failed to dent the enemy defense, and ended up with an impressive 5.6-yard average.

Fastest of the group is Bill Gallagher, who has been moved over from halfback. Mertes feels the 5-11, 190 pounder's speed gives him a good chance to make the grade.

John Winchester, sophomore prospect who has been running with the second and third units thus far, and Dick Scott, a former end, are the other contenders.

"We are looking for the best blocking we can get at fullback," Mertes explained. "And we want speed and alertness on defense, in addition to good running ability. We think we have pretty good potential at the position."

SENIOR TERRY LEE currently holds down the No. 1 fullback spot on the Wildcat 11. He carried only once last year, but that was good for a touchdown against Brigham Young university.

Defense Gets Test In Cat Grid Drills

Coach Bus Mertes' crew worked overtime on defense yesterday in preparation for the Wyoming university game this Saturday.

While the tackles on the squad worked on blocking drills, the ends, centers, guards, and the backs on the first three units worked on pass defense against the Wyoming patterns. The team concentrated on a seven-men-back defense against the expected Cowboy passing attack.

The Wildcats then worked briefly on defense against Wy-

Mertes commented that the team still needs work on all phases of defense, blocking by halfbacks, tackling, and goal line offense. He said a regular schedule of practice would be followed this week until Friday, with a minimum of scrimmage. Friday's workout will be only 40 minutes long.

Porky Morgan, K-State's trainer, announced yesterday that Ron Pragowski, sophomore guard who was injured in Thursday's game scrimmage, had torn ligaments in his left knee, and would definitely be out for the season.

Ducats Selling In Union Booth

A booth is set up in the main lobby of the Union today and Wednesday for the convenience of K-State students who have not yet purchased season football tickets at $5 for the five home games.

Season tickets for students' wives will sell for $7.50, according to Frank Mosier, K-State ticket manager, while faculty season tickets will sell for the same price.

Mosier reported that approximately half the students had purchased the new season tickets now being offered.

The deadline on the sale of tickets is Thursday, September 18, at 4 p.m., just two days before the Wildcats open the 1958 football season against Wyoming university.

Closer League Race Seen by Cat Mentor

When questioned about the probable outcome of the Big Eight football race this season, it came as no surprise when Coach Bus Mertes predicted Oklahoma university and Colorado university to finish at the top. "They've got the most power," he commented.

"Kansas university and Missouri university should be fighting for third spot," he added, "with the rest of the league right behind."

"But," went on Mertes, "I feel that this year any team can beat any other team in the Big Eight on a given day. We're all getting closer together—the conference is evening up. I know it's a lot tougher league all the way to the bottom than it was five years ago when I began coaching at K-State."

"Remember that K-State held Oklahoma to fewer points last year than any other team in the conference has done in four or five years. So it could be a lot closer race than anyone expects," he concluded.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Today begins my fifth year of writing this column, and what an eventful five years it has been! What things have these old eyes not seen! What great discoveries have rocked the world—the anti-proton, for instance, and the anti-neutron, and high-low split, and Brigitte Bardot!

In these five years it has also been discovered that American smokers like two kinds of cigarettes—filter and non-filter. The Philip Morris Company makes both kinds. I mention the Philip Morris Company because they pay me to mention the Philip Morris Company. They sponsor this column. I write it and then they give me money. Then I take the money and pay my grocer, my butcher, my gardener, and my four madrigal singers. In this way full employment is maintained and we avoid a repetition of the Panic of 1873 when bread riots killed over 98 million people in Muncie, Indiana, and millions of others were reduced to ghost-writing Ph. D. theses to keep body and soul together.

But enough of gloom. Let us get back to cheerful subjects, like the products of the Philip Morris Company. For those of you who wish filter cigarettes there is Marlboro, which now, more than ever, gives you a lot to like—a brand new improved filter and a wonderful flavor that comes breezing right through. For those of you who wish non-filter cigarettes, there is Philip Morris, a mild natural blend, flavorful, fresh, and thoroughly agreeable. For those of you who can't decide between filters or non-filters but have an affinity for packages, I should like to point out that both Marlboro and Philip Morris come in both the crushproof Flip-Top Box and the good old-fashioned Soft Pack, and you will surely want several of each for your collection.

Speaking for myself, I smoke both Marlboro and Philip Morris in both packs. What I do is make kind of a fun thing out of it. In my bedroom I have four signs, one on each wall, which say in turn: "PHILIP MORRIS—SOFT PACK", "PHILIP MORRIS—FLIP-TOP", "MARLBORO—SOFT PACK" and "MARLBORO—FLIP-TOP". When I get up in the morning I put on a blindfold and then my faithful cat Rover spins me around six times and then, with many a laugh and cheer, I walk forward with my finger outstretched and the first sign I touch is the cigarette I smoke that day!

This little game has been a great source of merriment...

As you can imagine, this little game has been a great source of merriment to Rover and me, except for one untoward incident one morning. I was stumbling around in my blindfold and fell out the window right on top of a man named Fred R. Timken, a census taker, and broke all his lead pencils. He was cross as a bear, and though I offered him both Philip Morris and Marlboro in both the Flip-Top Box and Soft Pack, he refused to be mollified. In fact, he refused to put my name down in the census, so when you read population figures of the United States, will you please add one?

But I digress. We were speaking of Philip Morris and Marlboro who will bring you this column throughout the school year. In this space I will take up vital aspects of undergraduate life, like high-low split and Brigitte Bardot, and it is my fondest hope that the column will be half as much fun for you as it is for me.

© 1958, Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro and Philip Morris welcome you to another year of fun and games from Old Max, and another year of good smoking from us. Filter or non-filter, pick what you please—and what you pick will please you.

K-State Players To Meet; Collegian Classifieds

All students interested in any phase of drama are invited to attend the first meeting of the K-State Players tonight at 7 on the third floor of the Student Union. Everyone is eligible for membership, according to Earl G. Hoover, supervisor of drama.

"Inherit the Wind," "Mary Stewart," and "No Time for Sergeants," are the three major productions which will be presented this year. There will be two sets of laboratory theater shows, a fine arts presentation this fall, and a children's theater production this spring.

Production and tryout times will be announced at the Tuesday night meeting.

YWCA

The annual YWCA membership drive is in progress this week with booths in the Union and in Anderson hall, according to Barbara Huff, Gvt Jr, membership chairman.

Membership is open to all coeds. The fee is $2 a year. The first of the monthly meetings will be Tuesday, September 23.

YWCA, a religious organization, has several service projects during the year as well as guest speakers. In addition the club sponsors the International Y-Mart sales day where products from other nations are sold.

Judging Team

K-State's senior dairy cattle judging team finished sixth among seven teams at the inter-collegiate dairy judging contest at the Hutchinson state fair yesterday.

The top team, and winner of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture trophy, was Iowa State college, and Iowa State also took the F. W. Atkeson trophy as the high team on oral reasons. Oklahoma State university finished second to Iowa State in both areas.

Orchestr

Tryouts are tonight at 8 for Orchestral, modern dance group, according to Barbara Light, HT Sr, president. Tryouts will be in Nichols gym.

Pre-law Smoker

Pre-law students will have a smoker meeting tonight at 7:15 p.m., room 205 in the Student Union.

Whi-Purs Officers

Jean Keane, BS Fr, was elected president and Genia Mangelsdorf, EEd Fr, vice-president of Whi-Purs Monday afternoon. Next Monday at 5 p.m. in Willard hall the remaining officers will be chosen.

Placement Meetings Planned for Seniors

Placement orientation meetings have been scheduled for all 1959 graduating seniors, according to Chester E. Peters, director of placement. The meetings are designed to help the prospective graduate plan his job getting campaign. Discussion will center around the operation of the Placement center, interviewing techniques, salaries, and the outlook on future employment.

Business administration and accounting seniors are urged to attend placement orientation meetings today at 4 p.m. in Waters 231. Engineering seniors will meet Thursday at 4 p.m. in Engineering lecture hall.

Prospective elementary and secondary teachers will meet Tuesday, September 23, at 4 p.m. in the Engineering lecture hall. Discussion will be led by Roland Swaim, director of teacher placement.

Geology seniors will meet Wednesday, September 24, at 4 p.m. in Thompson 211. All arts and sciences seniors not scheduled in other groups will meet Monday, September 29, at 4 p.m. in J15. The meeting for home economics seniors will be Tuesday, September 30, at 4 p.m. in Calvin 101.

Report Reveals KS Grads Get Above Average Wages

K-State graduates are receiving above average salaries for college graduates, according to reports at the Midwest College Placement association in Prince Lake, Ind.

This was pointed out by Dr. Chester Peters, placement director, who recently returned from an association meeting.

The number of students recruited from colleges by industry will be about the same as last year's recruiting, reports at the meeting showed.

The meeting was held for the main purpose of preparing a 1959 job survey and a salary expectation report. It is expected that the salary increase for graduating college students will be two per cent higher than it was last year.

The average salary paid to graduates of all the colleges and universities in the Midwest last year was $469 a month, while K-State graduates earned an average monthly salary of $482.

Last year 500 interviewing visits were scheduled on campus and over 750 personnel men conducted the 8,000 interviews. Over 650 graduates were placed in business, industrial, liberal arts, and teaching positions. In addition to the graduates over, 665 alumni registered for placement assistance.

Over 1,000 students registered for assistance in finding part-time jobs last year. Although these jobs were rather scarce, students who really desired to work to stay in school were able to locate some kind of work.

Wages for part-time employees varied from 50 cents an hour for switchboard operators to $2 an hour for laboratory work. Odd jobs ranged from 75 cents to $1.25 an hour.

Summer employment dropped last summer due to the recession, which caused many firms to cut their summer hiring programs. About 1,000 students registered for summer employment but many of them met with difficulties regarding union policies and problems of some firms.

This year the center plans to develop a system of dormitory and organized house placement assistants through which placement information can be distributed.

Also it is planned to develop leaflets for each curriculum, listing job opportunities, qualifications, degree specifications, local and national firms who hire these majors, and general information.

There will be approximately the same number of interviews scheduled as there were last year. The selection of applicants will be very critical and scholarship will be an increasingly important factor in job opportunities.

"It is a known fact that a student cannot neglect any part of his individual development and still expect to pull down top jobs," Dr. Peters said.

GOP Figure To Talk Here

Alfred M. Landon, former governor of Kansas, will be a speaker at the All Faith chapel at 7:30 p.m. September 24.

Landon, Republican nominee for president in 1936, will speak on constitutional amendments which are to be voted on in the November 4 election.

A prominent figure in both state and national politics for over 25 years, Landon is planning to visit several cities in Kansas to arouse interest in the proposed amendments.

Arrangements for his speech here are being made by the Political Science club.

State High School Bands To Play at Grid Opener

Thirty-four high school bands—numbering nearly 2,000 musicians and twirlers—will be here Saturday for the annual Band Day activities as K-State opens its 1958 football season against the Wyoming Cowboys.

The pre-game show in Memorial stadium will feature the combined bands playing the National Anthem under the direction of Jean Hedlund, K-State band head.

At halftime the K-State band will form a lyre in honor of the visiting musicians. The lyre will be animated as the band plays "Say It with Music." The second number will be "Seventy-six Trombones," with the K-State trombone section and trombone players from visiting bands being featured.

The band will then form a large K and play "Black Jack March" as visiting twirlers perform on the field. The playing of "Wildcat Victory" will conclude the halftime show.

A parade, scheduled for 10 a.m., will start at the corner of 3rd St. and Poyntz avenue, continue west on Poyntz to 11th. From there the route goes north on 11th to Leavenworth street and continues west on Leavenworth to the City Park.

Jere England Struck by Car

Jere Bruce England, Ch Jr, suffered bruises and abrasions yesterday when he was struck by a car driven by Mrs. E. L. Kenworthy, 420 Laramie, at the intersection of 17th street and College Heights road. He was treated at Student Health and released.

England was crossing 17th street at the pedestrian crossing west of Seaton hall when he was struck by the northbound vehicle. Mrs. Kenworthy said she had stopped for some other pedestrians but did not see England.

Almost a University, Will Regents OK It?

FRIDAY THE STATE BOARD of Regents will meet in Topeka. It will probably vote on whether to authorize the College to seek action by the 1959 State legislature to change the name of this institution.

The student body, Faculty Senate, Student Council, and a large majority of the alumni groups have given approval to the proposal that the name be changed from Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science to Kansas State university.

Up to now the sailing has been smooth, but complications have arisen.

The Board and President McCain feel that a name more easily distinguishable from the University of Kansas would stand a better chance of passing than Kansas State university.

They are probably right.

OF THE SIX LAND-GRANT colleges which have changed their names to include "university" since 1954, five have kept "agriculture and applied science." Only Colorado State has dropped it.

However, such confusion has arisen between the University of Colorado and Colorado State university that the Kansas State alumni group in Denver voted strongly against the proposed name change for fear the trouble would occur here also.

Already it has been found that certain of the University of Kansas' endowments are carried legally under the name "Kansas State university." Thoughts of this and the possibility of many more mixups could cause some balking on the part of the legislature.

The Board could recommend any one of several variations—Kansas State University of Agriculture and Applied Science, Kansas State University at Manhattan, or perhaps just Kansas State University of Applied Science.

CHANCES ARE THAT ONE of these could get through.

President McCain feels that in five or six years all these schools which currently changed their names but kept the "Agriculture and Applied Science" will cut off the accessories and go by the straight "university" tag.

Rather than take a chance on having the change turned down completely, he believes it would be better to try for the longer name in hopes that it can be shortened in a few years.

This is probably all fine and dandy. But there are two things which make us feel rather uneasy about the current situation.

FOR ONE THING the students, the Faculty Senate, the Student Council, and the alumni didn't vote on changing the name to "Kansas State University of such and such." It was the short name which was approved enthusiastically.

Then there is this "legal endowment" bit being voiced down the Kaw. This seems like a weak argument, but it is one of many which can probably be brought up, if necessary, to alter this name change proposal.

One thing is almost certain. If the Board of Regents votes in favor of the shorter name there will be a strong resistance movement started by the University of Kansas alumni (a faction which throws a lot of weight in Topeka.) But this gang would probably okay the longer name.

It seems to boil down to this: We probably can be called "Kansas State University of such and such," which seems to brand us as being almost a university—but not quite.—GEM

Last Decade Shows Steady Drop In Agriculture School Enrollment

By GARY VACIN

ENROLLMENT IN THE SCHOOL of Agriculture at K-State has continued to decrease for the second straight year, according to Director of Admissions E. M. Gerritz. Figures show 760 ag students out of a total enrollment of 6,750, or a percentage of only 11.1.

Since 1948 the number of students enrolled in agriculture has decreased steadily, with the exception of 1952 and the two-year span from 1955 to 1956. Last year the enrollment was off 8 per cent while this year a drop of 12 per cent was registered.

"Most of the reduction is in the sophomore class," reported Peairs Wilson, director of the School of Agriculture. "This is our smallest sophomore class since before the war."

Wilson added that the number of freshman students is down only slightly from last year, and expressed hope that the decrease will soon level off.

THE CHIEF REASON for the decrease, according to Wilson, is the trend to larger farms, which means fewer farms and farmers. In 1950 there were 131,000 farms in Kansas, but by 1960 this number is expected to shrink to 107,000.

Assuming that no farmers leave the farm during the period from 1950 to 1960 excepting those who die or retire at the age of 65, only 7,100 new openings will be available for young men to move into. During this period there will be over 40,000 farm boys reaching the age of 20. In other words, only one farm boy out of six will have an opportunity to start farming.

"This emphasizes the point that farming is one of the most crowded occupations," observed Wilson. "Farm boys are looking for opportunities in non-farm jobs."

Wilson feels the reason for fewer farms is that they are now becoming highly mechanized, with fewer man-hours needed to produce food and fibre. His statistics show that from 1940 to 1957 the output per man hour on farm increased 100 per cent.

MOST OF THESE 7,100 NEW farmers during the period from 1950 to 1960, according to Wilson, should go to school and study agriculture, because tomorrow's farm will be highly mechanized, requiring knowledge in the sciences of chemistry, biology, and engineering in application to farming.

Wilson added that farming is a big business these days, requiring a very large capital investment and a large operating capital. To be prepared for successful farming operation, a young man needs a college education.

"IN KANSAS ONLY ONE out of six farm boys have an opportunity to begin farming," Wilson said. "The remaining 83 per cent will have many job opportunities in agriculture other than farming. Among these are managing businesses which buy, process, and sell farm products and those that sell farm supplies and services to farmers. In addition, opportunities in research, extension, and other governmental services to farmers require trained personnel."

Wilson feels that farm boys have the background, and with proper training they have an advantage in these jobs. He says most people think of agriculture as only farming, when it really includes many additional businesses and services.

Virginia Judge Lets 4 Negro Students in School

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIER

Alexandria, Va.—Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan today directed the Arlington County School board to admit four Negro pupils to all white schools at the beginning of the next semester in January.

Bryan upheld the school board rejection of the application of 26 other Negroes for transfer to white schools. But he said refusal of the applications of the remaining four "is not justified in the evidence."

"In the judgment of the court it would be unwise to make the transfers as late as that in the term," he said. "The decree, therefore, will be made effective at the commencement of the next semester, January, 1959."

Thus a show-down on the issue of racial integration in the Washington, D.C., suburb apparently was postponed for almost four months. It had appeared originally that Arlington county would be the scene of the first test of Virginia's "massive resistance" laws to desegregation.

Adams Decision Soon

Washington—A White House decision is expected very soon on whether Sherman Adams will resign as President Eisenhower's

"Chief of Staff," according to highly-placed Republican sources.

These sources said the White House has been warned to expect a sharp increase in public criticism of Adams from GOP congressional candidates.

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your courageous defense of the new athletic fee program. Something of this sort has been needed for years. However, it is our fear that your crusading zeal may end here while one other malignant growth still exists. Since, as Mr. Lee has pointed out, the athletic program and the school's athletic reputation will be enhanced; and in addition to these heroic achievements, previously less fortunate activities will find their coffers enriched by this program, we feel it deserves our commendation. Once again though, we do not think that this is the time for the fearless, crusading editor of the Collegian to rest on his laurels. It is our earnest desire that this other malignancy be treated also.

This cancerous growth spreading decay from within appears in the form of the student-activity-fee supported Student Publications—publishers of the Collegian, the Student Directory and the only All-American more famous than Bob Boozer to many K-Staters, the Royal Purple.

We submit for study a plan which would apportion $6 per semester away from Student Publications and allot this to other deserving activities. Student Publications would then be allowed to charge $1 for the Student Directory and $5 for each Royal Purple. In this way, two dissatisfied groups would be appeased: (1) Those students who, being husband and wife, are forced, through payment of the activity fee, to pay for two Collegians, two Student Directories and two Royal Purples; (2) Those students who are unalterably opposed to this ruthless exploitation through the loss of their fundamental freedom of choice.

We hope that your crusading zeal will not be dimmed simply because the Collegian is a publication of the activity we would alter.

End Prospects Show Height, Should Assist Passing Attack

With four big men heading K-State's end strength this year, Coach Bus Mertes has high hopes for a better Wildcat passing game.

"With targets that size, our quarterbacks should gain confidence in passing," explained Mertes. "Those four men all can catch a football, too."

Jim Luzinski, 6-3, 210 pound senior, led K-State in pass receiving last season as he caught nine aeriels for 117 yards, despite favoring a bad ankle. The big letterman underwent an operation last spring for removal of a bone chip in the ankle. "Jim is one of the strongest defensive ends in the league," Mertes said.

Lining up opposite Luzinski will be 6-3, 211 pound junior Joe Vader. Long on hustle, Vader scrapped his way to the second unit last season, playing behind Don Zadnik, all-Big Eight end.

Taller yet are the Cat wingmen ticketed for reserve duty. Sophomore Ced Price is 6-6 and 206 pounds. John French, who saw limited action last year, is 6-4, 195 pounds.

Filling in the end corps are sophomores Ray Kovar and Lou Leusler, Vern Osborn, a transfer from Compton, Calif. junior college, and Oree Banks, an unlettered senior who was shifted to end in spring drills. These four, although untested, show enough promise to cause the K-State coach to label the position as "not bad at all."

"We could have the best end strength we have had in four seasons, considering depth as a big factor," Mertes said. "Loss of a man like Zadnik hurts, no question of that. He was a real fighter and easily deserved his all-conference honors. But we have always been short on numbers and size at end. This year could be different."

Wildcats Work Inside, Prepare for Cowboys

The K-State football team worked inside yesterday afternoon due to the rainy weather and drilled two hours at half speed on offense and defense for the Wyoming game.

"We're just going over and over the same things every day now until we know them well—the same thing that all the other teams are doing," commented Coach Mertes.

Tomorrow the team will do "a lot more of the same"—50 minutes on offense and the same time on defense. "We hope we can get outside to practice," added Mertes. "The boys need the outdoors work."

Mertes named a starting backfield as of yesterday. At quarterback was Les Krull, at left halfback was Ben Grosse, George Whitney was at right halfback, and Terry Lee was at fullback. Mertes stressed, however that this was not necessarily the lineup that would start Saturday.

Greeks Plan New Houses, Expand for Needed Room

Four fraternities and five sororities have announced plans for new homes or additions in the near future. One fraternity and one sorority have already moved into new residences.

Pi Kappa Alpha has already moved into its new home which is located at 2021 College View road. The house cost approximately $190,000 and has two floors of rooms which will accommodate 66 men.

The Pi KA's red brick house was finished last August, but there's still some landscaping to do along with finishing the parking lot.

Ground has been broken for Kappa Sigma's $215,000 house which will be started this fall on a lot near the AGR house. The plans call for a two story building which will house from 69 to 85 men. Study rooms will hold four men and their sleeping quarters. The first floor will contain a sunken living room.

Delta Upsilon has moved to a new location before building its new home. The temporary home which is at 413 N. 17th street, was previously occupied by Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Delta Sigma Phi began a new addition to its home the middle of last June. The $63,000 addition should be finished between November and December of this year. It will provide living quarters for 16 men and the housemother.

Lambda Chi Alpha owns a lot near the new Gamma Phi house on Todd road but does not plan to build soon.

Gamma Phi Beta moved into its new home at 1807 Todd road last January. The two story house of native stone contains 15 study rooms and houses about 50 girls. A recreation room is planned soon for the basement.

Plans have been drawn for a new $175,000 Alpha Chi Omega house which will be built on Todd road near the Gamma Phi house.

It will be constructed of redwood and limestone with sliding doors throughout the first floor so it can be opened into one large room.

The second floor will have study rooms and two dorms which will extend over the back yard patio. A large double fireplace is planned for the living room. Construction should start in about two months.

Alpha Delta Pi has purchased the present Alpha Chi Omega house and lot, but plans are indefinite as to the use that will be made of them.

The Tri Deltas own the lot east of their house and eventually plan to build an addition.

Pi Beta Phi owns a lot near the Gamma Phi house but does not plan to build soon. Kappa Delta has a lot across from Delta Tau Delta and contemplates building within the next two years.

Dignifying Queens Task Of Associated Women

Associated Women Students—in an attempt to put campus queen contests on the level of dignity—has drafted several new rules covering the contests.

These rules cover all queen contests. Houses, however, should not be asked to submit candidates for more than the following queens without permission of AWS:

Royal Purple, American Royal, Pledge, Homecoming, Pershing Rifles, Derby Darling, Flush

Bowl, Military ball, Air Force, Barnwarmer, Miss Football, Olympiad Queen, Pretzel bowl, and Chaparajos.

A woman may be a candidate for a queen contest as many times as she wishes. A new rule, however, makes her ineligible for further competition during for the school year if she wins a major contest. These major contests include Royal Purple, Homecoming and Military ball.

Another new rule requires all candidates, with the exception of first semester freshman, to have a two-point over-all grade average to participate. Grades will be checked by the AWS Queens committee through Dean Lahey's office.

Students Give Up Meal for Russian

Did you ever expect to see students who would rather study than eat? One group of K-Staters and their professor, Dr. Donald F. Munro, have given up their lunch hour this semester in favor of studying the Russian language.

An unexpected enrollment of over 30 students at first threw the Modern Languages department into a flurry of last-minute preparations. The course, Russian I, was to be offered on an appointment basis, and times had to be worked out when each of the 30—in addition to Dr. Munro—would be able to meet.

Now, half of the students meet with Dr. Munro at 11 a.m., and half at noon—on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Dr. Munro also has a class at 1 p.m., so this means he eats at 10 a.m. or at 2.

"This came as a shock to me," said Dr. Fritz Moore, head of the Modern Languages department. "Five or six used to be a big class. We felt sure we could find a common meeting schedule during regular class hours."

Moore is not at all unhappy at the large class. He on the other hand had anticipated it. Russian III and IV next year if enough students are interested.

The large enrollment in Russian helps to account for an increase of 170 students in modern languages.

Why the sudden interest in Russian? Are the Sputniks the cause? Dr. Moore hopes not. He hopes students are beginning to have a desire to understand the Russians as people, not merely as Communists.

Holiday's language expert, Mario Pei, in a recent article on the Russian language says some 300 million persons throughout the world can be reached, directly or indirectly, with Russian.

Professor Pei indicated that Russian is spreading quickly. More than half of Russia's 200 million people speak Russian and it is compulsory instruction in the satellite countries of Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Albania.

Russian courses are flourishing in most colleges and universities where it was once practically unknown.

Professor Pei said Russian is tough but no more difficult to master than Latin. Russian uses the Cyrillic alphabet developed by the 9th century Greek bishop, Cyril, who converted the Slavs to Christianity. Pei also said the language would take longer to master than French or Spanish.

1,000 Students Buy Insurance

Approximately one thousand Kansas State Student Accident and Sickness Insurance policies have been sold this year, according to Gene Johnson, Mutual of Omaha insurance agent.

The plan will cover all insured full-time students and dependents 24 hours a day from September 1, 1958, for the nine month school year including in-term vacations.

Coverage may also be taken for 12 months, to expire September 1, 1959.

This plan pays benefits for accidental death or dismemberment, sickness, accident, maternity coverage, and college infirmity accident and sickness expense.

This policy requires that all students in order to be eligible for benefits utilize the facilities of Student Health, and any additional treatment that might be necessary must be authorized by Student Health.

This Saturday is the deadline for taking out the policy.

'Inherit the Wind' Tryouts Scheduled for Next Week

Tryouts for the first play of the year will be next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, announces Jim Johnson, Sp Jr, president of the K-State Players. Monday and Wednesday nights the tryouts will be in the Auditorium, and Tuesday night they will be in Holton 206. There will be 35 parts assigned, according to Johnson.

The play to be presented is "Inherit the Wind." It was written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. It will be directed by John Robson, professor of speech, and presented October 23 and 24.

The play is about a trial held in 1925 to determine whether or not Darwin's theory of evolution should be presented to a high school class. A teacher had done this and was being tried. William J. Bryan and Clarence Darrow, two famous men of the period, decided to take opposite sides.

This trial, called the Scopes trial, took place in the Rhea County courthouse in Dayton, Tenn. In the play only a few lines are taken from the actual court record. The characters are the same as those in the original trial.

Scientists Say Thinking Is Easy; Best Work Done in Sitting Position

SCIENTISTS PROBING the mysteries of the human brain at various colleges and universities have come up with some surprising new conclusions, reports the October Reader's Digest.

Researchers at the University of Pennsylvania found subjects engaged in solving difficult problems used virtually no more energy than others who were sound asleep. They concluded that most of the brain's energy is used in just "keeping the circuits open." It takes just a little more effort to use the circuits.

Dr. Hugo Beigel of Long Island university, testing subjects in different postures, discovered thinking is more complacent lying down. Associations are freer and ideas have wider range. Stand up, and thinking becomes more energetic; decisions come faster. If you want to take advantage of the tendencies of both positions, you can merely sit down. It's an effective compromise.

A UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS psychology professor suggests that the extent of our "conversations" with ourselves may determine how intelligent we are. Verbal cues are commonplace, he says, though they may not be audible. How much we use those cues influence the extent of our learning and the power of our reasoning.

Here's something which should not come as a surprise to students who become tense while cramming for exams. A Lehigh university psychologist found that during concentrated mental effort, tensions flow over the muscular system in waves.

MUCH COMMENT HAS BEEN made on the OU campus, according to the Oklahoma Daily, on the misspelling of "didn't" on the 82 by 6 foot Will Rogers mural in the Student Union. The original error was "did'nt" and it drew so many remarks that it was decided to spell the word "dident" as Will Rogers spelled it in his autobiography and correspondence.

Talking about the Sooner Union, it has a new service window in the cafeteria for customers wanting carryout orders. Some difference from the K-State Union's jammed-up coffee lines in the State room! And on top of a winning football team at Oklahoma, the Sooners have top-notch entertainment in the music field.

This year they will listen to Count Basie, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Carmen McRae, the Dukes of Dixieland, Erroll Garner, and the Hi-Lo's—all six performances for only $12.50.

Lebanon Student Says Insurgents Powerless

By CHARLOTTE CHASTAIN

IN THE WEEK that Mufid Abila, CHE Fr, from Lebanon, has been here on the Kansas State campus, he has experienced many things surprising and strange to him. Most of these experiences have been pleasant, however. "I feared I would find everything in America very strange and would feel lonely," said Mufid, "however, I found all Americans so willing and helpful that I do not feel like a stranger. I like the friendliness of these Americans at K-State!"

Mufid has relatives from Lebanon who have lived in this country for 30 years. They live in Kansas City and Wichita. He stopped to see them before he came to Manhattan, and while with them, he acquired the nickname of "Mike."

Twenty years old, "Mike" has education equivalent to that of a college junior, although he graduated from high school in Lebanon last spring. Thus, he has quizzed out of several of the elementary courses in his Chemical Engineering curriculum in which he plans to get a PhD degree.

BEFORE WORLD WAR I Lebanon was under Turkish rule for 400 years, but was afterwards taken over by the French. Not until 1943 did his country become independent and gain the Republic form of government under which it now functions.

As to the revolt taking place in his country, "Mike" says that it has definitely been put down except for a small minority of insurgents who receive orders directly from Nassar. These people continue to inflict some damage with their minor acts of sabotage. "However," he said, "the coming of the Marines immediately after the rebels dethroned the king of Iraq, the revolt in our country was put down. Soon the remaining insurgents will be put down, but there will always remain in Lebanon a split between those of us for the West and those for the East." He explained that about 70 per cent of his people are pro-Western with only a remaining 30 per cent leaning toward Nassar and Eastern ways. ABOUT ONE AND A HALF million people live in Lebanon where Mufid will return after obtaining his PhD. "The Americans have been a tremendous help in building us up." "Mike" still has to take his chances on what he is going to eat since the words on the menu at the Student Union are unfamiliar to him. Thus, just as Mufid is becoming accustomed to his nickname of "Mike," he is also getting used to the ways and means the K-State campus and the United States.

U.S. Jet Fighters Ordered To 'Attack and Kill' Red Aircraft; Permission Granted To Pursue MIGs to Mainland if Necessary

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Taipei—American jet fighters have been ordered to "attack and kill" Communist planes pouncing on Nationalist supply planes in the Quemoy area, a U.S. military spokesman disclosed today.

Informed military sources said Nationalist and Communist Chinese warships fought a naval battle today. Confirmation of the sea engagement could not be obtained immediately from the Ministry of National Defense.

The new U.S. air warning was accompanied by an announcement that a squadron of 1,100 mile per hour F-104 Star fighters took to the air today for their first patrol of the Formosa strait.

"The U.S. planes might just follow the MIGs to mainland China bases and bomb those bases," Marine Maj. R. G. Martin, spokesman for the U.S. Taiwan (Formosa) Defense command, said.

But he emphasized American jet planes would not strike out from the Formosa strait into Red China unless "provoked."

Private Schools Planned

Little Rock—The Little Rock Private School corporation meets today to elect officers and decide when and how to go about reopening the city's four high schools as private, segregated institutions.

The corporation will first have to get the permission of the Little Rock School board to lease the buildings, but that was not expected to present any difficulty.

The school board takes the view that it is a creature of the state legislature, which made the laws under which the schools can be reopened as private institutions, and must obey it.

Justice department officials indicated privately in Washington they believe reopening the schools as private institutions is unconstitutional.

They said such a move could be challenged in federal court on the ground that it is a dodge to avoid obeying the Supreme Court's order to open the schools immediately to Negroes.

UAW Gets Contract

Detroit — The United Auto Workers, having gained a "non-inflationary" contract from Ford Motor Co., prepared today to turn its famed "whipsaw" on General Motors and Chrysler.

Ford and the UAW agreed to a three-year contract yesterday about six hours after Ford workers at 86 plants and parts depots throughout the nation walked off their jobs when the negotiators were unable to agree before a strike deadline.

The settlement, expected to set a pattern for 600,000 auto industry workers, gave the union pay hikes totaling 24 cents an hour, improved unemployment benefits, pensions and job security.

Grad Students Can't See Ticket Benefits

Dear Sir: In your editorial of September 15, you claim that the New Ticket System is beneficial to the students. A number of graduate students have asked me to point out that they fail to see how. For the student who can afford to buy tickets it results in an increase of $10 a year. For the student who cannot afford to buy tickets the increase is worse. Formerly he received $10 worth of tickets for $8.80—a real bargain! Now he must pay $5.50 and receives nothing.

While the non-athletic groups are benefited to the tune of $24,378, if we estimate that 3,000 students buy tickets, the Athletic department benefits by $30,000 and about 3,000 more empty seats to sell to the public which would at least double this figure.

Is KSC's answer to President McCain's statement that "Valuable as are many of the organized activities of the student body, they must be properly subordinated to the main business at hand, the work of the classroom and laboratory?"

Isn't it enough that graduate students must pay full enrollment fees? Other schools such as Iowa State only require a fee of $24 for graduate students with any kind of staff appointment.

Yours truly,
Antonio A. Sandoval

K-Stater Goes 'Round West In 26½ Days—Via Thumb

Move over Phileas Fogg—make way for Terry Price. Fogg, the adventurer who made a trip around the world in 80 days, must now share the limelight with K-State's Terry Price, CE and Geo Sr, who made a trip around the West in 28 days.

Terry's trip actually took 26½ days, but unlike Fogg, who traveled by balloon, boat, train and even elephant, Terry used only his thumb. He hitch-hiked almost all the way.

The only things Terry took on the trip were a suitcase, a sleeping bag, a mess kit, and a camera.

In addition to these, he carried a large sign, "Terry Price's Around the West in 28 Days." Since so many people picked him up because of this sign, Terry called it his ticket.

Terry left home with $100 in travelers' checks. His actual living expenses were only $31.05, and he spent an additional $15 on film, for a grand total of $46.

Terry left Manhattan at 11:15 a.m. August 6, and got as far as Garden City where he spent the night in the city jail. Two more days' travel took him to the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico.

During the next two days he visited the Painted desert and the Meteorite crater, and spent a night at Flagstaff, N.M., with some friendly travelers. From there he proceeded to the Grand canyon, Bryce canyon, and Zion national park.

Terry's next stop was at Las Vegas, Nev., where he visited several gambling casinos. At first he planned to gamble $10, but finally decided to patronize the nickel slot machines and ended up a $2 winner.

He arrived at Burbank, Calif., and went to Yosemite national park. There he spent the night on a golf course. After touring the park the next morning, Terry went to Reno, where he visited Harold's club.

After traveling through Salt Lake City he arrived at the Grand Tetons where he got a 35 cent shower which he said "was worth every cent of it."

From there Terry went to Yellowstone national park. By now, he says, his "mooching ability" had greatly improved and he was often invited to eat meals with interested tourists.

From Yellowstone Terry proceeded north to Bozeman, Mont. Here he was interviewed on a tourist show by a mobile microphone crew from station KBMN in Bozeman. The show gave Terry a plug and he easily got a ride into Helena, Mont., that night.

The next morning Terry was picked up by a band of gypsies from Wichita. He said these were the happiest, most care-free people he had ever seen.

After leaving the gypsies, Terry hitch-hiked to GGreat Falls, Mont. He spent the next two days in Glacier national park. This ruined his record, for it was the first time he had spent two nights in the same place.

At the Canadian border, Terry found the officials rather strict, but upon showing them an article on his trip from a Summer Collegian and a letter from Dean Wunderlich, he was allowed to proceed. He went as far north as Calgary before returning to the U.S.

Terry traveled through Idaho and then Washington, where he was informed by the police that there was a law there against hitch-hiking, but he was able to find rides anyway. In Washington he visited Mt. Ranier, Tacoma, and Olympic national park.

Terry's luck was still holding up, and he rode with a Texan who took him from Bend, Ore., to Cheyenne. He spent the next night behind a filling station in Mule Creek Junction, Wyo., and he later learned that the place was infested with rattlesnakes.

Terry then visited the Devil's Tower and Rushmore memorial near Rapid City, S.D. After spending the night in Arlington, S.D., Terry was determined to make it back to Manhattan the next day, and after getting several more rides, he arrived here at 3:35 a.m. Tuesday, September 2.

Sports Column

By Don Veraska

The new two point option on the try after touchdown—the first change in football scoring since the touchdown was raised from five to six points in 1912—could be the cause of a lot of nervous pacing by college coaches.

The rule is simply this: on the try after touchdown, with the ball on the three yard line instead of the two, the team may either go for one point by kicking, or for two by running or passing.

Tim Cohane, sports editor of Look magazine writes: "If a team trails, 7-0, and scores a touchdown near the end of the game, the chances are the coach will be criticized, no matter what he does. If he goes for the one point by kick and misses, he'll be told it serves him right for not having gambled for the two points and victory. If he goes for the one point and makes it, there will still be some . . . who will decry him as an arrant coward. If he gambles for the two points and misses, he'll be scorned as a fool who should have played it safe and settled for a tie. The only way he can win over both opponents and critics is to gamble for the two points and make it. If he wins, 8-7, he'll then be hailed as a genius—pro tem.

"Of course, if his team is trailing, 8-0, and scores, the coach's decision is ready-made. That poses the question of whether the coach who scores first will go for one or two points. It will be a tough first guess. . . ."

Statistics might prove interesting in determining which to try. Last year's K-State football team scored 17 touchdowns, and made 14 of the 17 extra point tries, for a percentage of 82.

In rushing, the Cats in 577 tries, gained a net total of 2,262 yards. This averages 3.9 yards a try. In 115 passing attempts, a gain of 527 yards was made for an average of 4.6.

Of course, these are only averages, and could easily be misleading, since a man could gain 30 yards in one play, and be stopped nine straight at the line of scrimmage, and still have a 3 yard average.

At any rate, the new ruling should make for interesting games, with a maximum of second-guessing—even if it does shorten coaches' lives.

Cats Polish Grid Game, Three Direct First Unit

"There's not too much you can do now," commented Coach Bus Mertes yesterday. "You just go over your game and try to eliminate the errors."

That's what K-State did yesterday. The Cats worked two hours on a little bit of everything. Short drills were held on general offense and defense, goal line offense and defense, and the kicking game, with the exception of kickoffs and kickoff returns.

The three quarterbacks—Les Krull, Kent McConnell, and John Solmos—took turns directing the first string. "We mixed them up today in order to give them all a chance to work out with each unit, since they may have to do so in a game," Mertes said.

"Any or all of the quarterbacks could play Saturday. I have a lot of confidence in all three of them."

Bill Gallagher, halfback recently turned fullback, was lauded by Mertes. "He's still second behind Terry Lee, but he's playing well and will probably see plenty of action Saturday."

"The boys are looking good and are anxious to play," concluded Mertes. "But of course there's no way of telling how they will do until I see them play against Wyoming—especially since there are so many sophomores on the squad."

The team will hold a regular practice today and will work in Memorial stadium in a light drill Friday.

KS Matmen To Organize

All K-State men interested in trying out for the varsity or freshman wrestling teams are invited to an organizational meeting to be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the wrestling room of the Ahearn gymnasium, according to Fritz Knorr, wrestling coach.

Knorr said the meeting is the first activity of the year in wrestling, and is for the purpose of getting acquainted. He urged all K-State wrestling candidates to attend.

FRIDAY NIGHT

SEPTEMBER 19

7:30 TO 11:30 P.M.

A TOP BACKFIELD PROSPECT for the Wyoming Cowboys is Jerry Hill. The 5-11, 170 pound sophomore is from Lingle, Wyo.

Lettermen Guards Are Lost But Coach Is Still Optimistic

Despite the loss of three top prospects at the guard spot, this position still continues to be one of the strong points in the K-State line, according to the Cat coach.

Coach Bus Mertes, who had counted on five lettermen guards to return for the 1958 season, felt secure about the position. The K-State coach then received word that Don Miles, a junior who started the last five games last year, was transferring to South Carolina university. Miles' athletic scholarship at K-State had been rescinded for disciplinary reasons.

It was discovered later that Bob Schmidt, who played second unit guard last season, was a victim of low grades. Then as fall practice opened Mertes learned that Jaydee Stinson, who started five games in 1957, would enter the army.

A series of personnel shifts was designed to fill the guard gaps. Squad captain Gene Meier, who ran at tackle last spring, was shifted back to his old guard spot. Meier, a 210-pound senior, has running speed which, according to Mertes, will be a big help in K-State's winged-T offense in which the guards pull out to lead interference.

Filling the other first unit guard spot is Don Martin, who played fullback in spring drills. He has been shifted back to guard where he played in 1956, before a back injury sidelined him from last season's play. A 192-pound junior, Martin, too, has good speed afoot.

Behind these two lettermen, however, the Wildcats come up short on experience. Dave Noblitt, stocky 5-8, 205-pound former high school all-stater, presently holds down one second unit guard slot. Playing opposite him is Chester George, who transferred here from Emporia State, where he was a fullback.

Tryouts for new members of Frog club, synchronized swimming group, will be from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, in men's and women's pools in Nichols gym. Anyone who cannot try out at the scheduled time should leave his name in the women's Physical Education office and a time will be arranged.

Sears Scholarships Worth $3,300 Go To Home Ec and Ag Schools

Two Sears Foundation scholarship checks totaling $3,300 were presented to K-State officials recently by W. O. Rehschuh, local store manager, in behalf of the foundation.

Doretta Hoffman, dean of the School of Home Economics, received $800 for home economics scholarships, while Arthur D. Weber, dean of the School of Agriculture, received $2,500.

The Sears Foundation program, inaugurated on the K-State campus in 1937, was the first big scholarship program of its kind. In the past 21 years, the foundation has contributed $73,100 in scholarship money, which was divided into 502 scholarships.

K-State To Battle Jinx Tomorrow

By DON VERASKA
Collegian Sports Editor

K-State's football debut of 1958 is at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, and the opponent is a team that has assumed the role of a perennial jinx team—Wyoming university. The Cowboys have beaten K-State in four of five meetings, and own a three-game winning streak over the Wildcats.

The battle, on K-State's annual Band Day, shapes up into what could become an aerial dogfight. Wyoming has always been known as a passing team. Last year's Cowpoke quarterback, Larry Zowada, passed for 862 yards and three touchdowns. Zowada has graduated, but junior letterman Jerry Wilkinson, who played behind Zowada last year and passed for 126 yards and two touchdowns, should keep the passing institution alive.

K-State is expected to take to the airways more often this year than in past seasons. Coach Bus Mertes has three quarterbacks, all of whom he describes as "good" passers.

Coach Bob Devaney, former Michigan State university assistant, has installed the Michigan State multiple offense at Wyoming. This system consists of an unbalanced line with split T, winged T, or single wing backfield.

Coach Mertes expressed concern over the Cowpoke offensive formation. "They can come at you from a hundred different ways.

We'll face a similar offense three more times this season—against Colorado, Missouri, and Michigan State. This is the first one, though, and we're nervous about it."

Mertes, therefore, has concentrated on defense this week. The squad has spent a large portion of each practice session working on defense against the Wyoming system.

Thirty-Eight Are Ticketed At After-Dark Road Block

By LINDA FITCH

"My mother put the identification sticker on the wrong window, now what am I supposed to do?" asked a bewildered member of the student body at one of several road blocks set up by the campus police to check identification stickers last night. Some 38 student and staff tickets were given out.

Various questions were raised about stickers. (The answers are in a booklet which is handed out to all students and staff upon registration of motor vehicles.)

"I just don't park on campus!" objected one irate K-Stater. All motor vehicles, including motor scooters, motorcycles, and motor bikes, operated by students and staff, must be registered and identified with decals of current issue. At the time of enrollment each student filled out a registration card regardless of whether or not he possessed a motor vehicle. If he stated that he possessed or had the use of a car, he was issued, at no charge, an identification decal.

If the owner of any car is associated with the College and if the car is housed anywhere in the county, he must have an identification sticker.

"I don't have a decal; no, I didn't register my car. I don't remember signing a yellow IBM card during registration stating that I didn't have a car." This was another explanation offered. (Failure to register and/or to place the identification decal on the vehicle as required in the rule previously stated, constitutes a misuse violation.)

"It's supposed to be in the middle, is it?" (All decals must be fastened to the glass as directed on the envelope. Decals must be applied promptly after issuance.)

Other students and staff members said the decal was at home in a drawer, or that they had lost the decal.

Roger Ward, director of safety and traffic, warns there will be more blockades similar to the one last night. Students and staff are advised to obtain, learn, and obey the rules.

Jamboree Is This Evening In Aggieville

Free refreshments, $2,000 in prizes, dancing, and a pep rally will be on tap tonight at the annual Aggieville jamboree in the stores and on the streets of Aggieville from 7 until 11 p.m.

The refreshments and prizes will be furnished by local businessmen. Several of the Aggieville stores will hold drawings and guessing contests for the prizes.

The street dancing will begin at 8 p.m. with Matt Betton and his band playing for social dancing and a western band playing for those who wish to square dance.

Head football coach Bus Mertes will introduce some of his varsity gridders and give a short talk at the pep rally at 7:30 on the eve of K-State's football opener with Wyoming university.

SORRY BUDDY, you've got to have a registration sticker on your car or else. Campus patrolman Roger Ward issues one of 38 tickets given to staff and students last night.

Mel Eaton

Mel Eaton Wins Title

Mel Eaton, EEd Sr, was crowned "Miss Football of 1958" in Berkeley, Calif., last night. Twelve girls representing colleges throughout the South, Midwest, and West were competing for the national title.

Tonight she will ride in a parade through Berkeley to Memorial stadium where she will be presented at the half-time ceremonies of the California-College of Pacific game. Mel will reign over the two-day festival which ushers in the fall collegiate football season.

In a telephone conversation last night, Mel said, "I'm so thrilled and happy I don't know what to say. I never believed this could happen to me. You don't know how anxious I am to get back to K-State."

Mel is planning to fly back to Manhattan Monday. When she comes, she will bring with her a huge trophy along with many other prizes.

The new "Miss Football" took the crown from last year's winner Mary Ann Mobley who went on to win the "Miss America" title this year. Mel is from Harper and a member of Gamma Phi Beta.

Director Says Union Is Human Relations Lab

AN ARTICLE POINTING out the merits of the Kansas State Student Union appeared in the September issue of College and University Business magazine. It was written by Loren V. Kottner, Union director.

Following are excerpts from the article which we thought would interest students.

(1) "a major policy decision that confronted the governing board was use of the building by faculty members. The students, the faculty, or even the college president could not have arrived at a solution of this problem alone. However, a careful study of the points of view of all factions involved resulted in a satisfactory solution.

"Students believed that they were paying for the building and that other members of the college family, viz, the faculty, should also pay for their use of the Union.

"CONTRARILY, THE FACULTY believed that its use of the Union would be limited to facilities for which members would be paying a commensurate amount, e. g. food services, games area, and the like.

"A final solution developed only when the governing board fully realized that a union building should be all-inclusive. Once it had arrived at this point of view, the board was willing to welcome faculty in the Union, the net result being a closer tie between students and faculty."

(2) "... the Union has indeed belonged to the students. Greek and independent students alike meet for morning coffee, for afternoon meetings, or for evening social programs.

"THEY FEEL A pride in their Union and its programs. For approximately 200 positions available on Union committees, there are consistently between 400 and 500 applicants."

(3) "Perhaps the most significant achievement of the K-State Union is its acceptance as an integral part of the total educational program.

"STUDENTS (AND FACULTY) agree that the Union represents a laboratory in human relations offering them the opportunity to practice what they have discovered in the classroom.

"The training that these students absorb in the Union prepares them in a very real way for future professional and community responsibilities."

* * *

TOMORROW AFTERNOON the K-State football team opens the season against Wyoming in Memorial stadium. About 4,000 students have purchased season tickets for the five home games.

We hope the Wildcats can give the students the kind of showings they deserve for their money.

Congratulations to Mel Eaton, winner of the Miss Football contest of 1958 and the world's worst predictor. Just before she left, Miss Eaton, feeling she would be eliminated quickly, said she would be returning to K-State right away.—GEM

A Mile a Day . . .

Stamford, Conn.—Postal officials in Stamford have proof that a brisk walk every day keeps a man healthy.

Postman Edward O'Connor, 69, retired after having walked an estimated 120,000 miles over his route in almost 50 years. He left with a year and a half of unused sick leave to his credit.

Chicago—The Illinois State Toll Highway Commission figures that if the 6,800 pre-stressed girders used in 265 bridges on the new tollway were placed end to end they would reach from Chicago to Milwaukee, a distance of about 90 miles.

Sexy Brigitte Bardot Goes Comedienne; Latest Movie French, Funny, Frank

"LA PARISIENNE," now playing at the Campus theater, bills theirs as the "frankest, Frenchiest, funniest Brigitte Bardot ever." Though apropos, we can't take the risk of adding another adjective—fleshiest. Intimating that BB would be 4-F in any situation is unthinkable.

Flanked by comedians Charles Boyer and Henri Vidal, Miss Bardot pouts prettily in and out of every situation. She hankers after Vidal and wins him after he's caught with not one but a pair of night-gowned women in his room. Follows a shot-gun wedding Parisian style.

Once she's got him, BB must find a way to hold her "man of many mistresses." She drinks milk before bedtime, a departure from the time-honored tradition of wine-drinking "Parisiennes," but that doesn't do it. A lover is the only way to get even and bring her tomat home.

C of C Special Weeks Slated For National Trade Boost

By TERRY KNOWLES

K-STATE STUDENTS ARE probably unaware of the number of special weeks during the year which have been designated by the National Chamber of Commerce. These various weeks are set aside for the benefit of trade promotion.

During the month of September, National Better Breakfast Month occurs with a special emphasis on early morning meals after the summer vacation. From September 21-27, National Dog Week and National Tie Week will be observed over the United States, while National Sweater Week will be September 22-28. The latter will give K-State coeds an opportunity to display their new array of light sweaters. A special note for coal miners is this area—September 15-21 will be National Anthracite Week.

The month of October brings a flock of special events, a few of which may seem to be a little out of place. On the lighter side, there is National Lath and Plaster Week, National High Fidelity Month, National Newspaperboy Day, National Wine Week, Save the Horse Week, National Macaroni Week, Father-in-Law Day, Cleaner Air Week, Pass the Laugh Week, National Honey Week, National Letter Writing Week, and Certified Washable Week.

A few of the more celebrated events during the month include International Pizza Week, October 6-12; National Popcorn Week, October 26-November 1; National Apple Week, October 23-November 1; and National Pretzel Week, October 26-November 1.

During November two specific events occur which will probably be celebrated on the K-State campus—National Long Underwear Week, November 16-23, the International Cat Week, November 2-8. The latter is not too clearly defined.

OTHER INTERESTING sidelights that occur during November include National Contact Lens Month, Raisin Bread Sales Month, National Save a Wife Week, Equal Opportunity Day, Holiday Egg-nog Time, and National Cage Bird Week. It is probably desired by most of the K-State students that one of their tests is scheduled for Equal Opportunity Day, November 19.

Only a few special events are scheduled for the month of December. National Prosperity Week, Holiday Butter Cookie Time, and Pan American Health Day are scheduled promotions during December.

Other interesting events which have already occurred in 1958 include Bachelor's Day, National Arithmetic Week, National Smile Week, Honey for Breakfast Week, National Noise Abatement Week, National Mothproofing Month, National Golf Week, National Cherry Week, National Expectant Father Day, National Clown Week, and National Laugh Week.

Faubus Has Plan To Open Schools

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Little Rock—Gov. Orval E. Faubus' stand in a September 27 special integration election in Little Rock was plain today. He wants the people to vote to reopen four high schools segregated.

Faubus disclosed his attitude last night in a television-radio speech.

He also urged the Little Rock School board to lease the schools after the election to a private group that will open them with whites and negroes separated.

"A bona fide private school system appears to be the only answer to the government's order to integrate at any price," he said.

This is how Faubus' school reopening plan is supposed to work:

—After the special election, which he expects anti-integrationists to win, the schools can then be considered officially unused.

—Under an 1875 law, the school board can lease the buildings to a private group which can open them segregated.

—A law which a special session of the legislature passed three weeks ago makes it possible for the state to pay the tuition of the students.

"This plan is within the law," Faubus said. "Even the Supreme Court, in the so-called integration cases, has not ruled to the contrary. This plan is based upon our state constitution, written and adopted in 1874, and the Arkansas statutes enacted in 1875."

Reds Make Peace Offer

London—Communist China has offered a cease fire in the Formosa straits in return for immediate evacuation of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, informed diplomatic sources reported today.

The sources said the United States has told Communist China that a cease fire must come first. In return, the diplomats said, the offshore islands might be neutralized.

This was held to imply that the United States would try to persuade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to cease using the islands as a base for raids on the Communist Chinese mainland.

The diplomatic sources said these openposing stands were taken by the United States and Communist China respectively at the ambassadorial talks in Warsaw which opened earlier this week.

The source said neither side has budged so far from its stand but that further negotiations may show whether the Peiping regime is prepared to make some concessions to end the Formosa crisis.

HOOPING IT UP—Paula Pangburn, HEN Soph, sways into the latest American craze of doing the hula in a "hula hoop."

Hoop Is Latest Aid For Coed's Reducing

One of the hottest selling items in the country today is a toy called the hula hoop. The hoops are made of plastic, and can be purchased in two varieties: smooth for those adept at using them or ribbed for those who need assistance in manipulating them.

The object involved in using a hula hoop is to keep it going in a circular motion around the body without letting it fall to the ground. Actually the motion is a backward-forward one, but it appears circular to the on-looker.

According to Paula Pangburn, HEN Soph, the hula hoop is an aid to reducing. She first became acquainted with one when her small brother received a hoop from their mother.

Paula said "I started playing with it and had so much fun that I bought one for myself. I brought it to school with me, and now most of my friends have one, too. We think it's the most enjoyable way to lose weight that we know."

After you learn to keep the hoop going steadily around your waist, you can advance to the more difficult stages. These consist of gradually working the hoop down to the thighs, to the knees, to the ankles, and then back up again. The hoop must be kept in motion all the while. The ability to perform this little feat is the goal sought by all avid users of the hoop.

Everyone, according to the ads, can operate a hula hoop. The beginner may have some sore muscles in attempting to master a hoop for the first time, but he will have a lot of laughs. Just keep in mind the hoop-users motto: "Join the group; buy a hoop."

Cat Injuries Not Severe, Says Coach

"Football is the only college game where contact is legal," noted Bus Mertes. "You ask a kid to hit and get hit."

Injuries are a part of the game that cannot be avoided, and the Wildcats have had their share. Mertes feels, however, that injuries were not unusually severe this year.

"The injury situation isn't too bad, with the exception of losing Praglowski and Riechers. We've had several injuries, but most of them are minor. The worst thing is that they keep the boys from practicing."

Praglowski, second string guard, and Riechers, first unit tackle, were both put out of commission earlier by injuries.

Another man out for the season is Rodney Thomas, sophomore end from Compton, Calif., junior college, who was injured even before his name was put on the roster.

Ron Blaylock, junior halfback who started two games last year, injured his knee last week, and won't suit up Saturday. He could be ready in time for the Colorado game, however.

Art Grob, sophomore tackle, Ralph Peluso, letterman tackle, and letterman fullback Craig Jones are now all on the recovery list, and should play Saturday. Tony Tiro, letterman halfback, could also see action Saturday.

"There's been a lot more knee injuries this year than usual," commented Mertes. Riechers, Peluso, Blaylock, Grob, Praglowski, Tiro and Thomas all had knee injuries. Jones alone had a leg injury.

"Other teams get this many injuries and come out of it all right, and so should we," said Mertes—unless a lot more men get hurt. Most teams get quite a few injuries during the season unless they play touch football," Mertes laughed.

Parr Shines In Pro Drill

By UPI

Jack Parr, former K-State all-American basketball player, sparkled yesterday at the first heavy workout of the Cincinnati Royals pro basketball team in Columbus, Ohio.

Coach Bobby Wanzer singled out Parr for noted action in the workout saying, "Parr looked real sharp. I was really impressed."

Parr said that he feels better now, although he was pretty tired after yesterday's drills. He arrived in Columbus late after driving the 765 miles from Topeka, where he worked last summer.

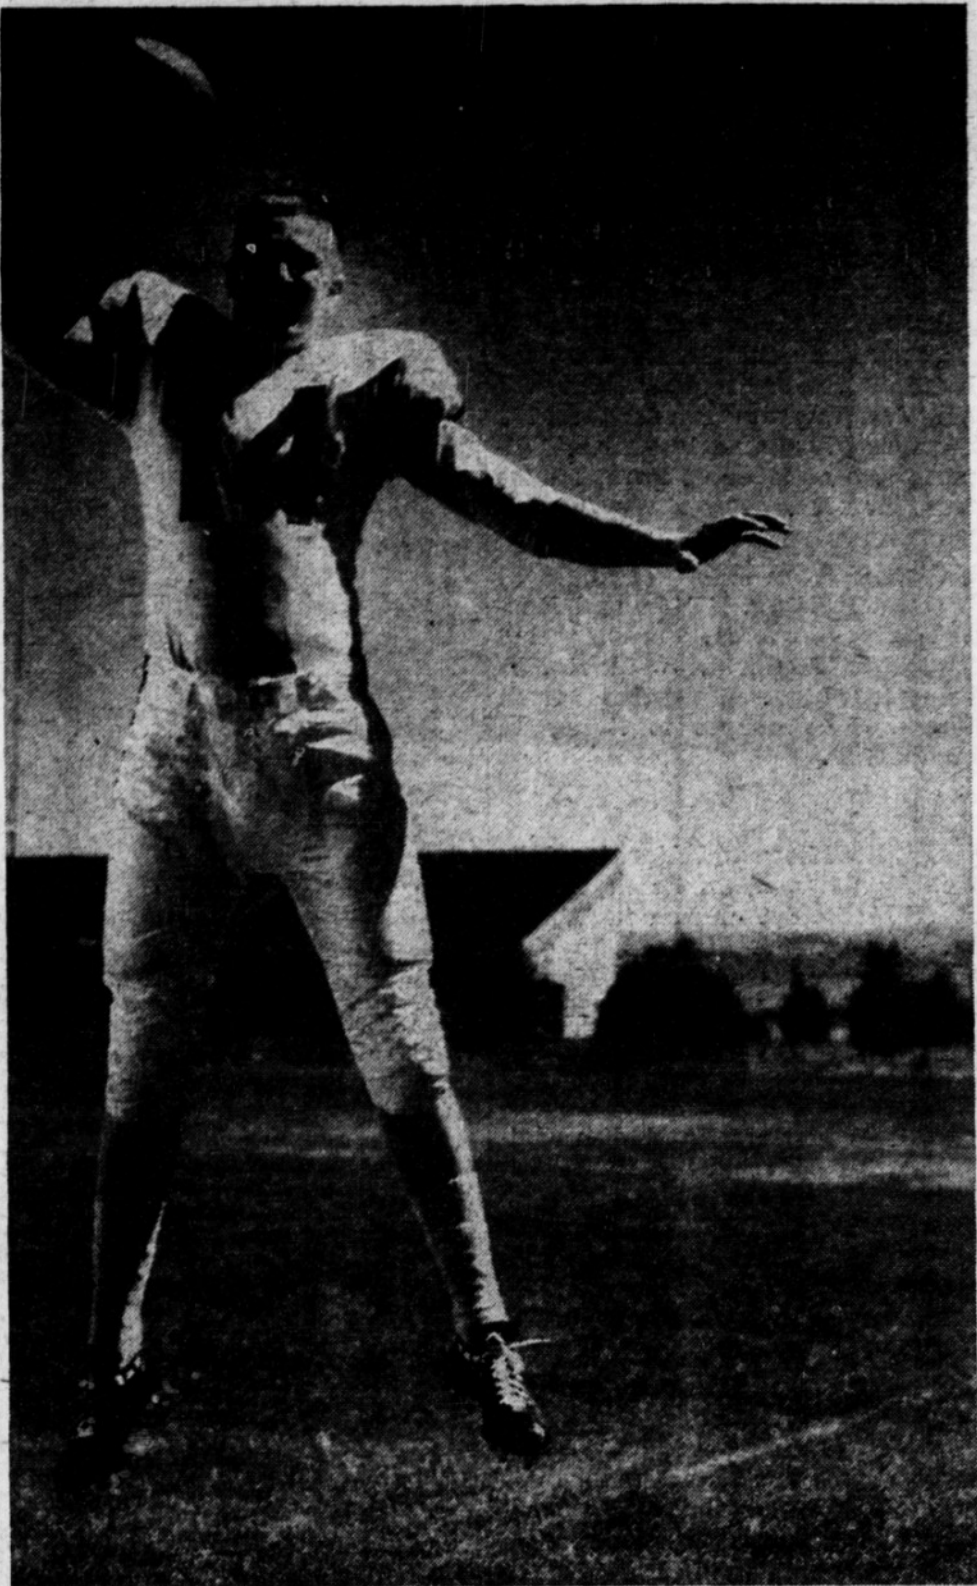

"It will take a little while, but I'll get my legs in shape," Parr said. "They didn't get much of a workout last summer."

It was announced just last weekend that Parr had joined the Royals, although they picked him up in the player draft months before.

Deadline Is Extended For Football Tickets

The K-State athletic ticket office has extended the deadline on the sale of football season tickets for students, according to Frank Mosier, ticket manager.

"Since the system is new, we want to cooperate in every way we can to give every student the opportunity to have one of the special season tickets," explained Mosier. September 18 had previously been set as the deadline on the sale of student season tickets.

Mosier added that the tickets would be on sale at the regular ticket office in Ahearn gymnasium until Saturday noon. The tickets may be purchased from then until kickoff time at the East Stadium ticket booths.

Two Linemen from Chicago Bolster KS Starting Eleven

A pair of juniors from Chicago are expected to start at tackle when the referee blows the whistle tomorrow as the Wildcats open the 1958 football season.

These two are John Stolte and Ralph Lambing. Lambing, a 6-2, 210-pounder, earned a letter at this position last fall. At 6-3 and 235 pounds, Stolte, a transfer from Dayton university, is the heavyweight of the K-State squad.

Coach Bus Mertes pointed out that the big problem at tackle is lack of experience. "We have just one senior, and two of our tackles are sophomores."

Playing behind the first tackle twosome are Buddy Cataldo, 5-11, 208-pound sophomore, and Jim Speight, a 5-10, 190-pound senior, who lettered at guard last fall.

Ralph Peluso, a blocky 209-pound junior, has seen limited action lately because of an injury. Peluso, who lettered on the second unit last fall even though being sidelined by a broken arm at midseason, "may see a little action tomorrow" according to Mertes.

Completing the tackle corps are Paul Siirila, a 6-0, 225-pound senior who transferred here from junior college in Hibbing, Minnesota, Jimmy Goodmiller, a 200-pound junior who played tackle but missed lettering last season, and Don Darter, a 6-0, 218 pound sophomore.

Gene Meier, who ran at tackle in spring drills, was shifted to guard as fall practice began to help cover unexpected vacancies at that position.

The Wildcat tackle depth received a severe jolt when Harold Reichers, 6-2, 214-pounder, injured his knee and was lost for the season. A letterman last year, Reichers was figured to be one of the top Cat linemen this year.

McBride, Political Figures Top Spring Assembly Slate

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Mary Margaret McBride, and Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee will highlight the spring semester assembly schedule according to A. L. Pugsley, dean of Academic Administration.

Lodge, a former senator from Massachusetts, U.S. representative to the United Nations, and representative to the Security Council since 1953, will appear February 19 in Ahearn fieldhouse.

A graduate of Harvard university, he is the recipient of honorary degrees from many institutions. Before entering politics, Lodge was employed as a journalist by the Boston Evening Transcript and the New York Herald-Tribune.

Mary Margaret McBride, television and radio star and syndicated columnist, will be featured at an assembly April 23. Miss McBride is being sponsored by the Home Economics Hospitality Day committee.

Governor Clement of Tennessee will conclude the spring assembly schedule May 5 when he will appear at the annual Leadership assembly. Senior leaders will be recognized during this assembly.

Governor Clement served as keynoter to open the last National Democratic convention. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt university and at 38 is one of the youngest leaders in the United States.

He served as a first lieutenant in the Army during World War II, was named outstanding young man of Tennessee by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1948, and was selected as one of the United Nations' ten outstanding young men by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1953.

A lawyer by profession, Governor Clement was with the FBI from 1941 to 1943, was chief counsel for the Tennessee State Utilities commission from 1946-50; and has been governor of Tennessee since 1953.

President James A. McCain will open the spring semester assembly schedule February 6. He will discuss the important changes which came about during the past year and the program for the coming year.

Satirist Stephen Potter, will present a humorous lecture February 23. The topic of his lecture will be either "Lifemanship" or "The Art of Getting Away with it Without Being an Absolute Plonk." This will be his second visit to the United States and his second to K-State as an assembly speaker.

Details for the annual Engineers' Open House and Easter assemblies are not yet available. The Open House assembly is set for March 10, and the Easter assembly March 25.

"Seeing Things" is the title of a speech by John Mason Brown to be given April 8. Brown, author and lecturer, is a permanent panelist on the TV show, "The Last Word." He has written 18 books and is considered to be one of the country's top lecturers. Brown has appeared at New York's Town Hall more than 60 times.

Students May Apply For Fulbright Grants

Seniors and graduate students interested in Fulbright grants for 1959-60 should apply at once to the office of the Dean of Graduate students in Fairchild hall. Applications must be in by October 16, says Dean Howe, Fulbright adviser.

Applications are reviewed by a committee on Fulbright, Rhodes, and other off-campus scholarships. Of the eight persons who applied last year, two received the grants.

Eligibility requirements: United States citizenship, a college degree or its equivalent at the time the award is to be used, sufficient knowledge of the country's language to carry on the proposed study (for languages not widely taught in the United States, allowances will be made), and good health.

Selection of students is made on the basis of personal qualifications, academic record, value of the proposed study or research, and suitability for placement in an institution of higher learning abroad. Preference is given to students who have not lived or studied in the country for which they are applying.

Dorm Directors' Aides Named for School Year

The women's residence hall staff for the 1958-59 year is now complete, as is the list of upper-class coeds who will be resident assistants in the freshman dorms. There are two new dorm directors and two new assistants.

Kay Wilson of Westminster, Colo., who recently received her MA degree from Syracuse university, is the director for Northwest hall.

Karen Skiver Swenson of Manhattan, will be assistant director in Northwest hall, and Rita Peddicord, a former Wamego teacher who will be working on her master's degree in guidance, will be a part-time assistant.

Mrs. Hugh Riddell, a former Kansas State teacher, has been appointed director of Van Zile

Janice Bates, HEJ Jr; Sharon Kay Blankenship, HT Soph; Sandra

Jo Burge, FCD Soph; Nancy Deem, HE Jr; Judy Drilling, HT Soph; Kay Gardner, BMT Soph; Jeanette Hamilton, PEW Jr; Janet and Joan Lytle, both HEM Sophs; Janice McClenahan, EED Soph; Deanna McKinnie, EED Soph; Judy Mai, HE Soph; Mary Jo Mauler, HEJ Soph; Ruth E. O'Hara, HEJ Sr; Kay Randel, HDA Soph; Mary Ann Rosebrook, HE Soph; Jeanette Shepherd, EED Soph; Joyce Struss, HT Soph; Deanna Swift, HEN Soph; and Ladora Young, EED Soph.

Staters Obtain Loans To Pay Education Cost

"Increasing costs of a college education, as reflected in rising tuition and living costs, coupled with a strong demand for college graduates, has brought a swift increase in use of credit to pay college expenses," according to a report filed last summer by former chairman of the student loan committee Charles Jacot.

Five years ago the student loan funds were virtually untouched and standing idle. A recent check showed over $150,000 outstanding in student loans—or 43 percent of all money available for this purpose.

"In the years ahead many students will be financing higher education on the installment plan—in the same manner that the American public has been purchasing other things they want," Jacot said.

Emergency loans, made to students who wish to borrow small sums for short periods of time, are made from the Emergency fund without an interest charge. During the past year more than 600 loans, averaging $75 each, were made from this fund. The total amount borrowed from the Emergency loan fund was $46,000, which means that the money in the $6,000 fund turned over seven and a half times during the school year.

Do You Think for Yourself? (TAKE THIS TEST AND FIND OUT!*)

Do you believe you could fool a lie-detector machine if you put your mind to it?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Do your emotions ever lead you to do something that seems unreasonable, even to yourself?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you believe society should adopt new ideas at the expense of old traditions?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you try to plan ahead rather than make snap judgment decisions?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Are you completely at ease when people watch you at work?

YES ☐ NO ☐

If your roommate suddenly inherited a million dollars, are you sure your relationship would remain the same?

The Man Who Thinks for Himself Knows...

THINKING MAN'S FILTER...
A SMOKING MAN'S TASTE!

One more question: Do you think about the filter cigarette you choose or just smoke any brand? If you're the kind of person who thinks for himself ... you use judgment in your choice of cigarettes, as in everything else.

Men and women who think for themselves usually smoke VICEROY. Their reasons? Best in the world. They know the difference between fact and fancy. They know that only VICEROY has a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste.

THE END OF THE LINE AFTER A TEN YARD GAIN—Kansas State quarterback Kent McConnell (10) starts to fall as he is hit by Wyoming guard Pat Smyth (61). Cowboy's Herb Taylor (82) and Bob Houser (76) and Wildcat Jack Marcoline (far left) watch the action in Saturday's game in Memorial stadium. K-State won 17-14. Story and picture on page 3.

Number of A&S Students Increase with BA Offer

For the first time freshmen entering K-State can register in a curriculum leading to a bachelor of arts degree in the School of Arts and Sciences.

For upperclassmen the change took place last year, according to Paul M. Young, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences; as students were allowed to transfer to this curriculum. The BA curriculum requires 132 credit hours for men and 128 for women.

The new curriculum has markedly affected the enrollment in the School of Arts and Sciences, Dean Young said. The school has the largest increase of any on the campus and the new curriculum accounts for 171 enrollees. Ninety-two of these are freshmen.

Class enrollment has also been greatly affected. All advanced courses in English have increased in size, said Dr. Earle Davis, head of the English department.

A class in Chaucer has 35 enrolled. A Philosophy class has tripled and other classes in the department have increased in size, according to Prof. Cecil Miller of the department.

Language classes have swelled by 32 per cent, reports Dr. Fritz Moore, head of the Modern Languages department.

This curriculum is particularly valuable to freshmen who have not chosen a major field and these constitute about one third of all entering freshmen, according to Dr. Ellsworth M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registration.

The first year's study is general enough to allow the sophomore to choose a major field in which all of his freshmen credits may be acceptable toward a degree.

Police Nab K-Staters In 'BB' Theft Attempt

Three K-State students were taken into custody by Manhattan police early Saturday morning as they attempted to steal a poster of Brigitte Bardot from atop the marquee at the Campus theater.

They were caught earlier trying to get the poster and were warned by the police. After a second attempt they were taken into custody. No charges were filed.

Student Council Will Meet At McCain Home Tonight

Student Council will meet at President McCain's home at 7:30 this evening in the year's second regular meeting. President and Mrs. McCain invited the group to meet with them.

Council chairman Larry French, BA Sr, said there probably would be little action at the meeting. He did say, however, that a Student Activities board chairman probably would be appointed.

There probably will be several committee reports; discussion about donations from the K-State campus for the Eisenhower museum in Abilene; discussion about the possibility of an examination for Student Council members and heads of Student Governing association committee chairmen before the spring elections; and discussion of the possibility of joint faculty-student high school visitation groups.

Decision on Name Due in January; A&S Growing Despite Low Salaries

THE STATE BOARD OF Regents has unanimously recommended that the name of this institution be changed to Kansas State University of Agriculture and Applied Science.

Although this long name is not exactly what is desired by the student body, it is a step in the right direction.

The chances are good that the change will meet with the approval of the State legislature when it is introduced in the January session.

If the Board had endorsed the straight Kansas State university tag, the bill would probably have met with resistance, causing a situation similar to that which arose in Michigan a few years back when Michigan State college tried for a name change.

THE SCHOOL BATTLED through three legislative sessions and finally had to settle for the title Michigan State University of Agriculture and Applied Science.

As previously pointed out by President McCain, it is probable that the "Agriculture and Applied Science" can be dropped off our name in a few years.

CONGRATULATIONS TO COACH Bus Mertes and the K-State football team for the 17-14 victory over Wyoming Saturday.

This is the first opener the Wildcats have won since 1954 and we hope it is indicative of a fine season to come.

K-STATE STUDENTS ARE apparently sacrificing the prospects of future monetary rewards in order to pursue careers more to their liking.

Although salaries for liberal arts, business, and accounting graduates have shown little increase the past several years, the School of Arts and Sciences is a growing concern on the K-State campus, being the largest of the five schools and reaping the largest number of freshmen this year.

According to the Placement center's 1957-58 report, beginning salaries for business and liberal arts graduates are staying at about $375 to $380 a month.

Beginning salaries for engineers and scientists are still climbing, moving from $475 a month in May, 1957, to $480 a month in January, 1958, to $496 a month in May, 1958. (These salary figures are exclusive of those for graduates entering governmental service.)

STUDIES BY THE Placement center also revealed that greater emphasis was placed on the importance of good scholarship.

And for the first time in several years, technical personnel still facing military service were met with a cold shoulder unless they had above average capacity.

In spite of the lessened demand, almost every technical graduate was placed at commencement irregardless of service or academic standing. However, some students in the non-technical fields found the going rougher.—GEM

Russia Begins Big Propaganda Blast, Accuses U.S. of Preventing Peace

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Washington—United States officials today predicted a new blast of Russian propaganda trying to identify this country with war mongering in the Far East. President Eisenhower was reported preparing a "sharp" answer to the latest Russian charges.

The Soviets were expected to attempt to capitalize on President Eisenhower's rebuff to Soviet Premier Khrushchev by making it appear America is preventing peace in the Far East.

Diplomatic observers would not speculate on what they believed would be the official Soviet reaction to Eisenhower's rejection of the Soviet premier's note.

They were certain it would be preceded by an all-out propaganda attack charging the United States with deliberately preventing any Far Eastern settlement. They noted the official Soviet news agency Tass already had claimed the United States was unwilling "to listen to the voice of reason."

Tass called Eisenhower's action "a new example of how little these ruling circles consider the demand of the peoples to put an end to the policy of rattling of armament, which is bringing the world to the brink of war, and to enter on the path of a peaceful settlement of unsolved international questions."

Reds Threaten War

Taipei—The top American commanders in the Pacific met today with Chinese Nationalist military leaders to plot strategy in the face of Peiping warnings that war could break out at any time with the United States.

Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander of American military forces in the Pacific, and Nationalist Chinese Vice Premier Chen Cheng headed the groups which met today. President Chiang Kai-Shek joins the meetings tomorrow.

As they conferred in secret, Radio Peiping poured out a stream of warnings that the Communists still were determined to take Formosa and the offshore islands. One broadcast said:

"The United States is kindling the flames of war with the Peoples' Republic of China which might be precipitated at any moment."

Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi said in another broadcast that 600 million Chinese are determined to recover the offshore islands and that "no force on earth can stop them."

Lebanon Faces Crisis

Beirut—A new wave of tension in Lebanon today confronted President-elect Chehab with a test of strength even before his scheduled inauguration tomorrow.

Beirut lay as in a coma, with security patrols enforcing a 24-hour curfew while thousands of armed, undisciplined men on both sides awaited only a pretext for new violence in this revolt-torn country.

All leaves for U.S. forces in Lebanon were cancelled. Only the most essential American military traffic was moving.

A new upsurge of trouble over the weekend appeared to have blasted hopes that the inauguration of Chehab as successor to unpopular President Camille Chamoun would end the rebellion that flared last May.

The kidnapping Friday of Fuad Hadaad, popular anti-Egyptian columnist for a pro-Chamoun newspaper, touched off the new trouble. Rebels and supporters of the government snatched hostages by the dozen, and the insurgents scheduled a 24-hour strike today.

King Condition Critical

New York—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was "only a sneeze away from death" after a Negro woman plunged a stiletto-like letter opener into his chest Saturday, his doctors said today.

The Negro leader of the successful fight to get buses in Montgomery, Ala., desegregated remained in critical condition at Harlem hospital today. It will be two weeks before he is out of the hospital and at least three months before he fully recovers, doctors said.

Mrs. Izola Ware Curry, 42, the domestic who thrust the letter-opener into King as he autographed copies of his new book in the L. M. Blumstein department store in Harlem Saturday was committed to Bellevue hospital for mental observation.

King's condition today was so critical that only his wife, who flew here from Alabama after the stabbing, and other members of his family were allowed to see him. He will remain on the critical list for a couple of days, doctor said.

New York—Wilt Chamberlain, two-time all-America basketball star who withdrew from Kansas in June and signed with the Harlem Globetrotters, will play his first game in New York October 18 at Madison Square Garden.

Chamberlain and the Trotters will meet the Philadelphia Sphas as the first half of a double-header charity program for the free milk fund for babies.

Chamberlain signed with the Globetrotters for a reported one-year salary of $65,000, the richest contract ever given a basketball player. Chamberlain averaged 29.6 points a game for Kansas in 1956-57 and 30.1 last season. He starred for Philadelphia's Overbrook high school before going to Kansas but has never played in New York.

Cole Is Winner In Grid Contest

Winner of the opening Pigskin Prognostications contest was Rodney Cole, Sp Gr, whose prediction of a 19-15 K-State victory was closest to the 17-14 Wildcat win.

Cole was also close in the other departments. He guessed 108 Cat yards passing, 193 rushing, and 14 first downs. The actual figures were 55, 211, and 10.

Winning the honors of most optimistic was one K-State fan who predicted an 82-2 Wildcat victory.

Of the 30 entries received, 20 picked K-State, nine picked Wyoming university, and one foresaw a tie.

Teams Go for Two

By UPI

A UPI survey of 20 major football games Saturday showed that the coaches tried the two-point pass-run conversion 58.2 per cent of the time with a .524 percentage of success. The "safe" one-point kick proved successful 61.3 per cent of the time.

The trend indicates that the controversial new two-point play will become increasingly popular because there is almost as good a chance to get the two points as there is to score one.

By JAY WORKMAN

"We're glad to be able to go after Colorado with a win behind us—they are going to be tough," grid coach Bus Mertes said in the K-State dressing room Saturday after the Wildcats had defeated Wyoming university, 17-14.

"We'll practice this week on all the things we did wrong against Wyoming in preparation for Colorado," the perspiring Mertes continued as he leaned against a wall. "It's easier to correct the mistakes when you win—I'm glad we could make them and still come out on top."

"Colorado will use the same type of offense, but with more single wing plays."

The Wildcats capitalized on two first-quarter Wyoming university fumbles to gain a 14-0 lead, but needed a fourth-quarter field goal by Ben Grosse to gain the 17-14 win over the fast-closing Cowboys.

Wyoming scored on a Wilkinson to Lane pass in the second quarter, and with 4:36 in the game remaining, halfback Jerry Hill scored from the K-State seven yard line, bringing the Cowpokes back into the game, 17-14.

Wyoming kicked off and held the Cats on downs. Terry Lee then punted 53 yards to the Cowboys' 11 yard line.

With 1:16 showing on the clock, George Whitney intercepted a Bennett pass on the Wildcat 45, and it took just three plays to run out the clock.

Cowboy Coach Bob Devaney commented, "Last year we got the breaks and this year we didn't. I think we have as good a team as K-State—the difference was the fumbling. K-State will have to defense Colorado's single wing better than they did us—Colorado has some outstanding players."

"K-State is about as good this year as last except for being a lot more versatile—they have a tougher pass defense, but aren't as good on rushing defense."

"We learned a lot in this game," said Mertes, "and I think we'll improve. Our pursuit was good and the passing helped when we needed it. Our defense was all right after we got over the shock of the first single wing play, but we'll have to work hard on pass defense. We tried to run inside too much. End runs probably would have been our big yardage gainer if we would have used them more."

"We had a hard time handling the Wyoming defense. They switched their defense a lot—sometimes it left a hole, but more often we were stopped at the line of scrimmage. The two fumbles in the second quarter hurt—they came at times when we could have gone on to score."

Mertes remarked that guards Chester George, who had 10 stitches taken in his forehead, and Don Martin, with a minor leg injury, wouldn't miss any practice.

The Wildcat coach had special words of praise for ends Joe Vader and Ced Price, tackles Gene Meier and Jim Speight, and fullback Bill Gallagher. "Gallagher can run at either halfback or fullback. He played fullback Saturday because Craig Jones has a bad leg."

Dr. Newburn Will Head Educational TV Seminar

Dr. H. K. Newburn, President of the Educational Radio and Television center at Ann Arbor, Mich., will head the list of big names in educational television appearing at K-State October 3 and 4 for an educational television seminar.

Newburn will speak at the Friday evening dinner session on the topic, "The Future of Educational Television."

The seminar is being sponsored jointly by K-State and the Kansas Citizens' committee on Educational Television. The latter group has more than 50 representatives of organizations interested in educational television.

Purpose of the seminar is to provide educators and others interested in educational television with information on what is being done in the field, and what are the possibilities for the future.

All sessions of the seminar will be held in the Union, with the opening meeting at 2 p.m. Friday. The second session will be at 9 a.m. Saturday, with a concluding luncheon Saturday noon.

Mel Eaton Returns to KSC With Miss Football Crown

Mel Eaton, SEd Sr, returned to K-State last night with national recognition for winning the "Miss Football" crown in Berkeley, Calif.

She had a suitcase full of clippings and pictures of the contest. Among other things, she brought back a huge trophy topped by a full size golden football, the tiara with which she was crowned, and pearl necklace and earrings.

When asked what made the biggest impression on her, Mel replied, "Aldo Ray! He kissed me three times."

"I was interested in the fact that all the California papers referred to me as being from 'Kansas State university,'" said

Mel. "I thought it showed that we do have reason for working to get our name changed."

She stated that the girls in the contest were only allowed to give autographs at certain times. "Once a little boy came to me and said, 'Will you please autograph my forehead?' When I said that I couldn't, he asked me to sign his arm, his hand, or even a little piece of paper. I had to refuse again. He looked at me and yelled, 'You cheater!'"

Mel tells about the time that all of the contestants went to a very special beauty parlor. Many of the girls had very elaborate hair styles that the hair dressers loved to work with. When Mel walked in with her short, curly hair, she was asked, "Are you here with these other girls?" Mel settled for having her hair washed.

When she was finally pinned down to talking about the contest, Mel said, "We had to give speeches all the time. We never knew what we were going to have to talk about. It seemed as though we spent most of our time answering questions.

"We stayed in a fabulous home where we had maids. We had everything we needed from candy to shower caps. We had three corsages a day. One night we forgot to get a fresh one and the next day we had to wear two at once."

After the crowning ceremony, Mel was hustled off for pictures. "I didn't even have time to comb my hair which explains why some of the pictures look the way they do."

"While I was talking to my mother, 20 photographers were snapping pictures all the time. Life took pictures at two o'clock in the morning. Oh yes, color movies were taken of the whole contest and K-State gets them first."

She had many other stories of her wonderful week. One of the things she didn't mention was the reception she received when she got back to her home in Harper. She was met by a band, given a bouquet, and taken through town in a parade.

KS Improvement Plans Give Campus New Look

Kansas State's capital improvement program is well under way, according to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical plant. Gingrich said there will be work going on this year on buildings all over the campus.

Except for the final inspection, the new Ag Engineering addition has been completed. Classes are meeting there now. The Ag Engineering barracks, which were built in 1918, have been converted into a Physical plant shop.

The plumbing shop in the barracks northwest of Vet hall and the sheet metal shop east of the Physical plant have been condemned and will be disposed of soon.

The carpentry shop in the Physical plant has been moved out to make room for the new pressure water pumps which will supply water for the whole campus.

Gingrich said the paving on Claflin road will be finished before cold weather.

The old meats laboratory north of East Waters has been converted into a hard winter wheat laboratory. The conversion will include reconstruction and installation of new equipment

The meats lab has been moved to the Animal Industries building.

Plans are to have a new flour milling laboratory and the rehabilitation of East Waters hall finished near the middle of January.

Remodeling has been scheduled for the east portion of the old Vet hospital. There will be new classrooms, laboratories and research rooms. One wing will include isolation rooms with separate ventilation for the study of certain diseases.

SC Votes To Start Library Campaign

Student Council voted last night to begin a campaign to obtain student and faculty support for the Eisenhower library to be built in Abilene. According to Larry French, BA Sr, president, the campaign will be conducted October 1, 2, and 3. Financial contributions will be of secondary importance. The emphasis will be on getting a large percentage of the student body to show their support of the campaign by signing a petition.

Max Bishop, ArE Jr, was appointed chairman of the Student Activities board. Bishop was a member of the board last year.

Other appointments included five girls to the Student Governing association secretarial staff. They are Jane Garrison, Eng Soph; Karen Swanson, EEd Jr; Sara Umberger, TxO Soph; Kay Gibbs, BA Fr; and Claudia Beatty, SEd Soph.

A Scholastic Eligibility subcommittee was formed under the Activities board to check the eligibility of SGA officers, presidents of organizations, cheerleaders, managers of Engineers' Open House, Little American Royal, and others.

Students who left books at the student book exchange may pick up their money or their books some time this week. They should present the ticket they were given for their books to Bill Mollohan at the Alpha Kappa Lambda house, 1919 Hunting.

President James A. McCain favors support of the library because of the value it will have for K-State. Since this is the institution of higher learning closest to Abilene, he feels that K-Staters will be able to benefit greatly from the library. Also people interested in studying Eisenhower's papers will probably attend K-State.

Directory Information Due Friday in Kedzie

Presidents of all student organizations on campus must turn in the name of the organization, the president, and the faculty adviser to the Student Publications office, Kedzie 103A, by Friday at 5 p.m. in order to have this information appear in the 1958-59 Student Directory.

Students May Participate At Alf Landon Appearance

Alfred M. (Alf) Landon, former Kansas governor who will speak in the All Faith chapel tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., has written a letter to Louis H. Douglas, professor of history, encouraging audience participation during his appearance.

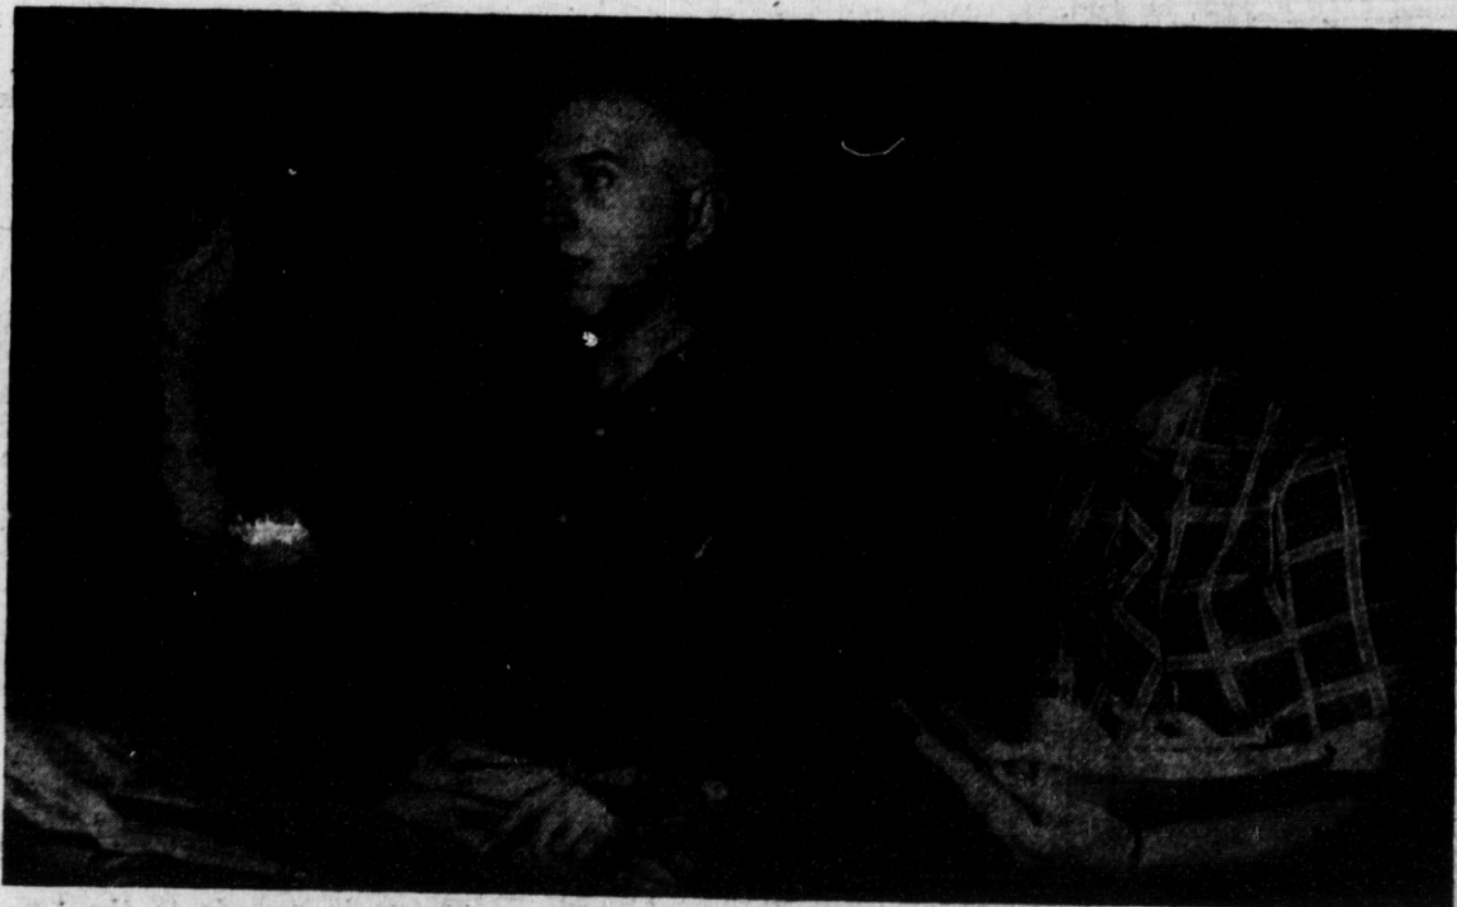

The Republican presidential nominee of 1936 will speak on the three constitutional amendment to be passed on by the people of Kansas in the November 4 election.

Landon, who is making a speaking tour at his own expense, will take his stand on the proposed amendments and the meeting will be thrown open to questions from the audience.

The first amendment he will discuss would give the state the power to engage directly in water conservation works. The constitution now prohibits the state to engage directly in any public works.

Changing the method from popular election of Supreme Court judges to selection by appointment by the governor from nominations made by a nominating panel is the second amendment.

That no one shall be employed or retained in employment because of membership or non-membership in a union is the third amendment to be discussed. This is better known as the right-to-work law.

TRYOUTS FOR "INHERIT THE WIND" were last night in the Auditorium. John Robson, associate professor of speech, instructs hopefuls as student director Betty Crawford, Sp Sr, consults notes. Tryouts will also be tonight and tomorrow.

Required Basic ROTC Program Wastes Kansas State Male's Time

NO OTHER STUDENT wastes so much time and effort for so little reward as that martyr of required ROTC, the reluctant basic cadet who upon enrolling at K-State finds he must spend two years stumbling around the drill field in order to be graduated.

Only a physical defect can keep him from this obligation.

Almost immediately after being introduced to the campus he is hustled off to the Military Science building and is given a uniform, books, and cadet regulations, which he is told to memorize as soon as possible.

HE MAY BE EAGER to please at first, but soon the majority of those unfortunate enough not to like the program fall into a set pattern which provides for a battle between them and the ROTC department each week.

On the day of drill the cadet fights to pull himself out of the sack. He trudges to the window and finds all his suspicions confirmed—the weather is beautiful so a nice big drill is on tap.

He shines his shoes, shaves, and puts on his uniform, making sure every stitch is in place. After inspecting himself closely in the mirror he is ready to take off for the big day.

IF HE IS LUCKY he has drill at the beginning of the day and may not have to parade around the campus in his uniform. More likely, however, he must wait until he has had to sit in a couple of hot classrooms, sweating and making a perfect mess of himself.

About the time his uniform looks like it had been slept in, he is ready for drill.

He walks out to the field, trying to avoid all the advanced cadets and officers for fear he may be "gigged" for having his belt buckle centered on the wrong stitch in his shirt or some other remote reason.

Finally the cadets are told to fall into formation.

Our hero tries to get in the middle of the outfit so as to not appear conspicuous. But invariably he is shoved to the outside and must be under the watchful eye of several advanced "officers" during the whole drill.

AFTER BEING INSPECTED and given three or four demerits for infractions of the "regs" he is marched around the field for the remainder of the two hours, getting only a short break at mid-period to calm his nerves.

Finally, the beat warrior is dismissed, staggers to the street, and falls in his tracks. Who wouldn't be exhausted after marching through mud and rocks, ramming into his cohorts constantly because of the mixed-up commands given by the higher echelon, and walking to the Animal Industries building because the command "to the rear march" was not given loud enough for him to hear.

But why should he worry. The week's drill is over and it will only take 20 hours of study for him to recuperate.—GEM

Are Fraternities Stupid, Or Character Builders?

ARE COLLEGE fraternities worth while, or are they a waste of time? No matter which side of the argument a person takes, he can count on plenty of backing.

According to Sloan Wilson, author of "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," fraternities are "stupid, juvenile, and purposeless." On the other side of the fence is Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins university, and former president of K-State, who calls them "anvils upon which the character of individuals may be fashioned."

The October issue of Holiday magazine contains a discussion by Stephen Birmingham, author of a current novel, on the pros and cons of this question.

In his article, Birmingham, a one-time fraternity man, compares ideas and attitudes of fraternities and finds that they run the gamut from the happy-go-lucky, we-don't-care nonchalance of Dartmouth on the one extreme, to a quiet, civic minded, purposeful life at Gettysburg on the other.

He says, "fraternities can be good or bad, constructive or negative in their influence, depending on the colleges themselves."

"THE GREATEST single truth about college fraternity houses," writes Birmingham, "is that if you have seen one you have NOT seen them all."

He says individual houses vary from Purdue's castles, and Penn State's sprawling country clubs to the "bungalows" of Tulane and the huge "motel" at UCLA.

Birmingham describes the traditional "rush week" which seems to be the same all over the country, as "an intensely serious affair. Inside the houses rushing is a casual standup affair, a little like a diplomatic cocktail party."

The National Interfraternity Conference, the "conscience" of America's fraternities, is an organization which can "scold" but not punish.

HE SAYS ONE OF the main problems of the NIC is that of discrimination. It says that each fraternity has freedom to discriminate if it wishes.

In trying to figure out why fraternities differ so widely from place to place, Birmingham says, "I have concluded that almost always the responsibility for what a fraternity is, does, and means rests with its alumni."

"With these shortcomings and inequities—the most important of which is discrimination, they are growing by leaps and bounds. Right now there are over a million and a half. And at each college in the country, each fraternity chapter continues to mean nothing more or less than each chapter at that college decides to make it mean."

Little Rock's Exodus Reaches 'Significant Number,' Transfer Students Equal 10 Percent of Enrollees

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Little Rock—School Superintendent Virgil Blossom said today that transfers from Little Rock's closed high schools are "becoming a significant number."

He reported that Central high school has lost 102 students, Hall 174, Horace Mann (Negro) school 3, Little Rock Tech 1. The total of 280 is 70 more than last Friday.

A total of 3,480 students is enrolled in all of Little Rock's high schools, so the total of transfers is approaching 10 per cent.

Blossom said most of the transferred students are living with relatives and friends and going to other public schools. The tuition they are paying runs around $300 a year, he said.

U.S. Sets Limits

Washington — The United States has warned Communist China that if Quemoy were about to fall this country would unleash Nationalist bombing raids on Red mainland artillery positions, informed sources indicated.

Should the Nationalist be unable to silence the big guns alone, then American jets would join the attack.

The United States apparently was trying to remove any doubts the Communists might have as to U.S. intentions regarding defense of Nationalist-held Quemoy.

The United States was said to want to establish a definite "point-of-no-return" in the conflict, beyond which U.S. forces would enter the fight on the side of the Nationalists.

Chehab Inaugurated

Beirut—Maj. Gen. Fuad Chehab today became president of this strife-torn Arab Republic, where U.S. soldiers and marines have maintained an uneasy semblance of order since July.

The inauguration of Chehab at the capital formally ended the tenure of President Camille Chamoun, whose hopes of winning a second term were a major issue in the revolt that has been smoldering here since May.

Seaton Denies Rumors

San Francisco—Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton denied reports today that he is a candidate to take over Sherman Adams' job as Assistant to the President.

"Nobody has discussed the matter with me," he said, adding he was "not a candidate" for the position.

"As Secretary of the Interior, I have enough trouble in my present job and I know what the 14 to 16 hours a day in Adams' job means."

Gentlemen,
It has come to our attention that there is an increasing amount of discontentment on this campus, due to the football ticket situation. It is our intention to bring this deplorable situation out into the open.

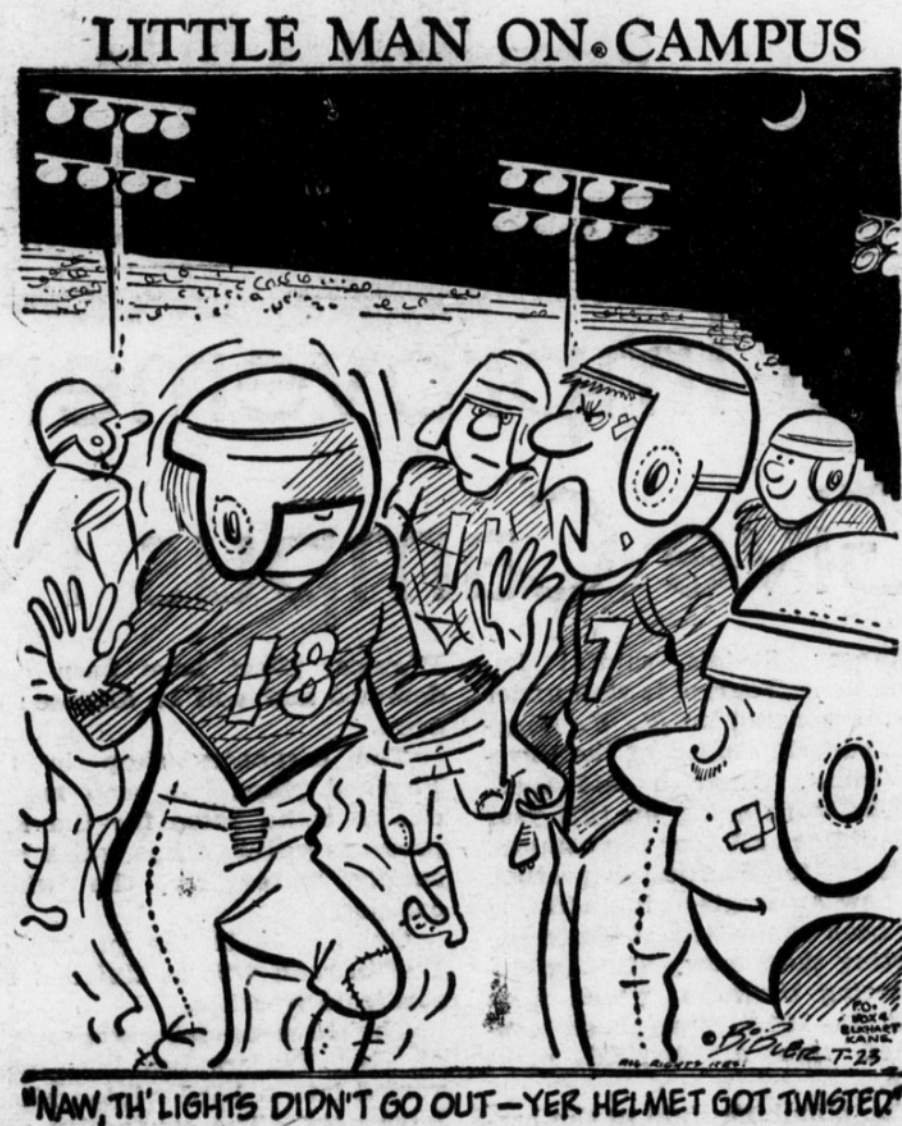

In the first place, the tuition fees have remained the same in order to keep the athletic "barons" in the manner in which they are accustomed. This, of course, is only right if we want good men for a good team. However, due to a degree of student protest in regards to the "required" purchase of activity tickets, it has been decided to charge those persons who exhibit a spirit of loyalty to the school $5 to view the spectator sports on this campus. The purpose of this $5 levee on the spirited element of students and faculty is to kill this rebellious outburst, since it effects only those who wish to be active in the college spirit. Is it just?

Last year our activity ticket covered all sports, and the K-State players' productions. This year we pay extra for football, and basketball. Do you realize what this does to the spirit for sports and other activities?

We have raised a hand for an answer, and we expect one. But before we can get a direct answer we must ask a direct question. Why are all these levees put on us? How about giving us a direct breakdown on the activity fees?

Two Former Fullbacks Vie For No. 1 Cat Center Berth

A pair of former Kansas high school fullbacks are battling for the center position on the K-State squad this fall. Both Wildcat seniors, while not carrying much bulk, have speed and ruggedness working for them.

Currently snapping for the first unit is Dean Skaer, 6-1, 192-pounder who lettered at that position last fall. Skaer started his college career at fullback, but as a sophomore was shifted to the line, and has stuck well enough at center to rate a regular turn this year.

Behind Skaer is Dick Boyd, another letterman, who was running with the first unit before being injured in practice. Coach Bus Mertes tagged him as one of the Cats' most improved linemen in last spring's drills. Boyd, at 5-10 and 177 pounds, is the smallest lineman in K-State's first two units.

"Despite his size, Dick carries a lot of authority," says centers are two untied candidates. Ron Kruse, 6-0, 194-pound sophomore is running third, and another former fullback, 6-0, 195-pound Jim Mechling rounds out the list.

Coach Mertes calls the center position one of the most shallow positions on the squad, and adds that the squad must get full mileage out of these four men or else shift men from other line spots, where they would be hard to spare.

The K-State coach leaves the distinct impression, however, that he is not too troubled by prospects at center as long as Skaer and Boyd are ready for action.

Dick Boyd

Mertes. "He is a scrapper that will stay in there pounding all afternoon. His enthusiasm for jolting football is catching—he could be the big spark in our line this season."

Mertes describes both Skaer and Boyd as "tremendous scrappers with a lot of desire." He adds that both have come a long way since their fullback days.

Iowa State Sets Pace In Big Eight Figures

Iowa State college, while romping to a 33-0 opening-day win over Drake university, set one team offensive record in the Big Eight, and came out with three individual statistical leaders. K-State gridders were in the top five in all but one category—punt returning.

Fullback Bob Harden grabbed the scoring the lead with a three-touchdown, 18 point, performance. Eleven others, including Terry Lee and Bill Gallagher of K-State, trail with six points.

Dwight Nichols, Cyclone tailback, is way out in front in rushing yardage with 124 yards on 24 carries. The Wildcats' Ben Grosse ranks third with 62 yards gained on nine carries.

A pair of Iowa State sophomores, wingback Tom Watkins and end Gerald Winstead, rank first and second respectively as pass receivers. Watkins has caught one for 51 yards, and Winstead snared one for 41 yards. Jim Luzinski, letterman K-State end, has caught four aeriels for 34 yards, and ranks third in pass receiving.

Buffalos Drill For Opener Against Cats

By UPI

Colorado university's Coach Dal Ward put emphasis on touch-down and pass defense yesterday in a short no-contact workout to whip his Buffs into shape for Saturday's Big Eight opener with K-State at Boulder.

Ward said his probable starters will consist of six seniors, two sophomores and three juniors. Quarterbacking the Buffalo first string will be letterman Boyd Dowler, who led the Coloradoans to victory over K-State last year.

Dig In and Hit the Books; It's Later Than You Think

By MARTHA STEPS

Do you always have your assignment ready in plenty of time? If so, fine. If not, and most of us are in this category, perhaps a few suggestions might help.

You only have 24 hours a day, and no matter how hard you try, you can't get any more. By budgeting your time carefully, however, you can accomplish a lot more in the same amount of time. The Counseling center has some handy time charts to aid in budgeting your time. If you don't have enough time to stop and pick up one of these, make one of your own.

For best results, study while you are fresh. Take breaks once in a while. This doesn't mean taking half-hour breaks for every 10 minutes of study. Be reasonable.

Set aside a definite place to study where you can be at least fairly free from distractions. You should be comfortable, but not too comfortable. Sitting with your feet propped on the desk does not aid effective studying. Before you start to work, clear off everything that doesn't pertain to your work.

While studying, concentrate! According to a pamphlet published by the Counseling center, worry is one of the chief causes of inefficient study. Daydreaming would probably rank second.

No discussion on study tips would be complete without mentioning themes.

A little work before you start to write will pay big dividends. Try outlining your material first. As soon as your ideas are on paper in a logical sequence, the actual composition is reasonably simple.

While you are studying during this semester, do some reviewing as you go along. Then when the time comes for a final, you're already on your way to a decent grade. Do your studying as early as possible so that you can get plenty of sleep the night before an exam. You'd be surprised how much a clear head will help.

Frosh Under Par In Entrance Tests

By GARY VACIN

How does the average K-State freshman compare with those at other colleges? This question can be answered by examining the results of the tests given to our freshmen by the Counseling center during the first week of school.

According to Donald P. Hoyt, director of the center, K-State freshmen are very slightly below the national average for four-year colleges in general scholastic ability.

"Our freshmen exceed national freshmen on quantitative reasoning involving numbers and figures," explained Hoyt. "However, our freshmen are relatively weak in verbal reasoning as compared with the average national freshman."

Hoyt pointed out that the average freshman boy at K-State was in the upper 35 per cent of his high school class, while the average freshman girl was in the upper 20 per cent of her high school class.

Hoyt's figures show that the average male freshman at K-State in the upper 30 per cent in scholastic ability when he was a freshman.

The interest test revealed that freshman men, as compared with those of other schools, show more interest in technical and outdoor occupations, such as forest service and farming, and less interest in verbal-cultural occupations like law and writing, and helping occupations, such as social worker or minister.

"Our freshmen identify less closely with high level professional and managerial occupations than do freshmen in other four-year schools," Hoyt pointed out.

About 10 per cent of our freshman women, according to Hoyt, indicate a desire to be "career women." The other 90 per cent express a preference for homemaking as a career, although many of these expect to work at least for awhile. Girls with such a preference often show high interests in occupations such as stenographer, secretary, or office worker.

In the personality test it was shown that the freshman men appear to be less dominant, less confident of themselves, and surprisingly enough, somewhat less interested in the opposite sex than those at other institutions.

In contrast, our freshman women are quite similar to other college women across the country.

"The values test," said Hoyt, "indicate that for about half of the K-State freshman men, the most important factor in choosing a job is the interest in the work factor. Salary and security also rate high."

Hoyt added that our freshman men, in contrast, place little emphasis on such factors as location, prestige, and usefulness in choosing an occupation.

The achievement tests show that our freshmen appear relatively weak in English, averaging in about the lowest 25 per cent of four-year college freshmen. They appear about equally handicapped in reading. Vocabulary, speed, and level of comprehension are all roughly in the lowest quarter of college freshmen across the country.

Honor Program Outlined For Home Ec Students

Home economics students with special ability will be able to participate in an honors program, according to Doretta Hoffman, dean of the Home Economics school. Six freshmen, chosen from the top 5 per cent, will be represented in the honors program.

Qualifying for the program were Walta Lee Hoover, HEN Fr; Sara Hybskmann, HEE Fr; Greta Lea Johnson, HEB Fr; Sherry Mueller, HEN Fr; Kathy

Reeves, HEA Fr; and Carol Walker, HEA Fr.

During the first semester the girls will participate in a program which includes a tour of the campus to meet and talk with persons who know the history of Home Economics at K-State.

They will visit a professional home economist on the job and a graduate student in her home. They will also observe home economics research projects.

The home economics honor program, like the Arts and Sciences honors program, aims to attract, recognize and stimulate students with special ability.

Originated two years ago under the supervision of Dr. Earle Davis of the English department, the arts and sciences program now has a permanent director, Dr. Brewster Rogerson.

A student must maintain a 3.5 (B plus) average in order to participate. The student's program is not shortened but enriched. If he is allowed to bypass a beginning course, he will take an advanced course in the same area.

Special honor seminars will be held for an hour of credit, with groups limited to ten. Students will be encouraged to choose a course not in their chosen field. Special honor courses will be given at the junior and senior levels.

Appoint New SC Member

Carl J. Austermiller, EE Soph, was appointed Student Council member from the School of Engineering last night in a meeting of the Engineering Council.

Austermiller replaces Ron Garlow, who was elected to the position last spring, but did not return to school this semester.

The Engineering Council also selected Bill Mollahan, ChE Sr, and Charles Steichen, NE Sr, for appointment to the Tribunal. These names will be submitted to Student Body President Chuck Wingert, His Sr, who will make the selection.

Alf Landon To Speak

Alfred M. (Alf) Landon, former Kansas governor and the Republican presidential nominee of 1936, will speak at 7:30 tonight in the All-Faith chapel.

Landon will take a stand on the three proposed amendments to the State constitution.

Grad School Enrollment Tops Last Year's Mark

Enrollment for K-State's Graduate School will mark a 19 per cent increase over last year's enrollment, according to Harold Howe, dean of the Graduate School. The present total of graduate students is 640, an increase of approximately 100 over last fall.

About 50 per cent of these students are enrolled in Arts and Sciences with 25 per cent in Agriculture, 16 per cent in Engineering, 6 per cent in Home Economics, and 1 per cent in Veterinary Medicine.

To aid graduate students, approximately 230 assistantships are offered this year. Recipients become staff members employed by the College. Ten fellowships, which represent money-grants without specific work requirements attached, are also offered.

What has caused the increased enrollment in the Graduate School? Naturally, there is an increase because of the increase in the number of under-graduate students. Also, K-State constantly seeks to offer advanced degrees in additional fields of study, Howe points out.

"A factor which must not be underestimated," the Dean observed, "is that the atomic age makes necessary an increasing refinement of skills."

This probably explains why an increasing number of students begin their graduate work soon after graduation, he said.

K-State offers master of science degrees in 67 fields and doctor of philosophy degrees in 16 fields. Additional fields will soon be added. A master's degree requires a minimum of one year of study and a doctor's requires three years. In addition to these, a specialist in education degree is offered, which requires 30 semester hours above the master's degree.

Compulsory ROTC Report In Faculty Senate's Hands

LAST SPRING THE Basic ROTC committee of the Student Council submitted to President McCain a seven page report recommending the elimination of compulsory ROTC at K-State.

In its report, the committee included a synopsis of information from other land-grant schools and a survey of the local situation.

The report represented two years research, study, and correspondence and points out that there are advantages on either side of the question.

But, in order to offer an ROTC program "adequate in quantity, higher in quality, and more desirable to all students," the committee recommended a change to an optional system.

THIS REPORT HAS been turned over to the Academic Affairs committee of the Faculty Senate and should be taken into consideration soon.

We feel that the adoption of an optional system would be the greatest thing that could happen to the ROTC program here.

The continuous battle between the reluctant cadets and the ROTC officers as pointed out in yesterday's Collegian means nothing but trouble for both groups.

The basic cadet takes four scheduled hours of work (plus many more for inspection preparation and study) in order to obtain one hour of credit—an hour of credit he doesn't even want.

TIME WHICH COULD be given to the study of other subjects (which is what the student should have come to school for anyway) must be wasted on two years of activity which can at best give him a slight taste of military life.

For the advanced cadet the present system means extra work in attempting to learn the trade. It is hard enough trying to grasp the fine points of being an officer by drilling basics who are willing and cooperative let alone those who rebel. If only those who planned on going into advanced took basic, it would be a more efficient program.

At present there is a State law requiring this institution to maintain a compulsory ROTC program.

We hope this law can be changed soon. We are not against the ROTC program, but against compulsory ROTC. We say let the choice of ROTC participation be up to the student.—GEM

Nationalists Report Sabrejet Air Victory, Communist Trap Fails To Hold Victims

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Taipei—Thirty-two Nationalist Sabrejets fought their way out of a Communist trap over the China mainland and shot down 11 Communist MIG-17s and probably destroyed six others today in a battle with 100 enemy planes over the Formosa strait.

The Nationalist air force reported no losses among the Sabrejets in the biggest aerial battle of the Quemoy war. There were unconfirmed reports the Nationalists used new American air-to-air missiles to rack up what the government called a "glorious victory."

Maj. Gen. I Fu-En told newsmen the Communist MIGs used new tactics today in an apparent effort to force a Nationalist plane to crash on the mainland where the Reds could use it as "evidence of aggression."

General I said the Communist formations, flying at different altitudes, lured the Nationalist planes toward the mainland. Then the Soviet-built MIG-17s boxed the Nationalists in on three sides, leaving an escape exit open only towards the mainland.

The Nationalists' Sabrejet pilots slugged their way out of the Communist trap in a battle that matched some of the great engagements of the Korean war when American pilots flying F-86 Sabrejets scored a 13 to 1 ratio over Communist MIG-15s.

Private Schools Open

Charlottesville, Va.—The South's first private school system opens today for white pupils locked out of public schools in the integration battle.

About 240 pupils of Venable elementary school, shut down by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. when a federal judge ordered 10 Negroes admitted, were expected to show up for make-shift classes.

Assigned to instruct them were 15 regular teachers from Venable. But their quarters little resembled school rooms. They were hastily-chosen freshly-painted recreation rooms and basements in 15 private homes scattered throughout this university city of 27,000.

NAACP Asks Ruling

Little Rock—The National Association for Advancement of Colored People was expected to ask U.S. District court today to prohibit the Little Rock School board from leasing four public schools for use of private, segregated schools.

The School board asked U.S. District Judge John E. Miller yesterday whether it can lease the school buildings to a private corporation for operation as private, segregated schools.

The petitioners (school board) are willing to lease the school buildings on reasonable terms if by so doing they will not subject themselves to charges of contempt for having violated a directive order of this court," the school board's plea said.

Miller said he didn't know whether he will answer the school board's question before the special election.

If the people vote Saturday for segregated schools, Gov. Orval E. Faubus wants the school board to lease the four high schools to a private corporation to be run as private, segregated schools.

The state would pay the tuition of the students who attend them. Faubus hopes he thus can sidestep the Supreme Court's order to integrate the schools immediately.

Clements Criticizes Ike

Lexington, Ky.—President Eisenhower was criticized yesterday by Gov. Frank G. Clements of Tennessee for not attending the 24th annual Southern Governors' conference here.

"This nation is faced with its most serious domestic problem since the Civil War," Clements said. "Yet the President is up in Newport with Sherman Adams trying to decide how Adams should bow out of office."

Clements accused the President of evading his responsibilities in the South's integration crisis by vacationing at Newport, R.I., instead of being with the southern governors.

Over the Ivy Line Colorful Pep Club Helps KU Football

By Jane Butel

OUR FRIENDS DOWN the Kaw have been busy adding color to their pep clubs, band, cheerleaders, and general student body so they will have more "colorful football shows." The pep clubs have entirely new uniforms, while the student body must wear white in order to sit within the 23 yard lines. Cheerleaders will be wearing blue jerkins until cool weather and the band will be wearing satin capes with a big "K" on the front and a bright red and blue Jayhawker on the back. This new look has been adopted, according to the Daily Kansan, in order to cause a new surge of excitement. Sorry, but the bright colors didn't accompany KU's little experience with TCU Saturday... maybe that explains the loss.

DRIVING K-STATERS shouldn't feel so bad about the campus parking situation. It could be worse. At the University of Oklahoma they have at least two more headaches. Each student has only half the chance of parking K-Staters do (fewer stalls) plus the fact they have to worry about parking meters. Guess we shouldn't feel so bad after all.

ACCORDING TO THE Iowa State Daily, there is a flu epidemic rumored for the middle of October. Here's hoping it'll stay in Iowa, because according to them, last year's shots or even having the flu are no longer protective against this year's flu. Don't think any of us are particularly anxious to get needled again.

THEY SAY MISERY loves company. Well in that case, K-Staters should feel better about the ticket situation. According to school newspapers, students at several nearby colleges have to buy tickets to games. Oakes have to pay $8 and students at the University of Arkansas have to buy theirs separately, before each game. Guess we don't have it so bad after all.

SORORITY RUSH has been changed at KU, according to the Daily Kansan. Rush for freshmen will be held in the spring, instead of the fall as it has been in the past. There will still be a fall rush—for transfer students.

Oklahoma State worked an hour and 40 minutes rushing the passer to sharpen up defenses against North Texas State Saturday.

The Oklahoma Sooners yesterday worked two hours against West Virginia offense patterns.

Iowa State spent a muddy two hours yesterday on dummy offense and defense as it worked out in the rain.

Missouri's Dan Devine sent his Tigers through dummy scrimmages and punt coverage drills yesterday with emphasis on speed.

Kansas university spent a half hour on goal line offense yesterday after a longer workout on dummy offense and defense.

Cross Country Team Has Begun Practice

With only three lettermen returning, K-State's cross country team began practice September 8 for the coming season, according to Coach Ward Haylett.

These lettermen are Duane Holman, Tom Rhodda, and Loren Ray. Haylett said that three promising new men, Robert Groszek, Gene Porter, and Bob Tolar, also bear watching.

"Our team figures to be much weaker than last year," said Haylett. The graduation of Jesse Unruh, Terry Turner, Arlen Stackley, and Roland Elliott hurt us."

Haylett said that the Cat team lacked both depth and balance. "Right now we do not have a seventh man capable of running a decent three miles," he added.

Last year Kansas won the Big Eight cross country competition, with Colorado running second. K-State finished fourth.

Haylett believes that it will be a race between Kansas and Colorado for first place again this year. He added that most schools would not be as strong this year, with the exception of Missouri, which could be considerably better.

K-State opens its cross country season October 11 at Lincoln.

Ten ROTC Cadets Train In Army Flight Program

Ten K-State seniors in the advanced Army ROTC program have begun a program of flight training. The flight training, which is offered to senior cadets only, is a supplement to the regular ROTC program.

The Army aviation program trains students in basic ground and in-flight fundamentals of pre-solo, solo, and cross-country flying, and meets minimum requirements of the Civil Aeronautics administration. The students receive a private pilot's license upon completion of the program.

To qualify, candidates must pass physical examinations, then spend 71 hours in flight training. Instruction is conducted in Cessna 140's under contract by Manhattan Municipal airport.

The Ag Barnwarmer, which will highlight Ag Week activities, is scheduled for October 11 in Nichols gymnasium.

Queen candidates for the Barnwarmer have been announced by all women's houses except Northwest and Southeast halls. Selection of the five finalists will be October 2, when the candidates are to be introduced to the School of Agriculture during an ag seminar.

The finalists will display their talent at a "Chore Day," which will be either October 8 on the lawn east of Anderson hall, or October 10 in the Animal Industries building. Complete details have not yet been settled.

Among the tasks assigned to the finalists will be such chores as driving a tractor, riding a horse, building a hog trough, and maybe even hog calling.

Cut Rights to 223; Privileges Revised

High scholarship during the spring semester has qualified 223 K-State juniors, who maintained at least 2. averages, for optional attendance at classes this fall, according to Ellsworth M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

The fall semester is the last semester this system will be followed. A recent revision of semester scholastic honors regulations by the faculty Senate will make it possible for all seniors, juniors, and sophomores to have optional attendance privileges if they have a 3.25 grade average or better. This new system, not extended to freshmen and first year architecture students, will go into effect during the spring semester.

Juniors who have optional attendance privileges this fall are:

VOLUME 65

Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, Thursday, September 25, 1958

NUMBER 11

Spirited Talk by Alf Landon Draws Attack from Heckler

By SANDY WILSON
Associate Editor

Approximately 250 students, faculty, and townspeople attended a spirited session at which former Gov. Alf Landon expressed his views on three proposed Kansas constitutional amendments to be voted on November 4. The 1936 unsuccessful presidential candidate spoke in the All-Faith chapel last night.

At one point during the session, Landon's "heckler from Ohio," and another earnest inquirer got into a heated argument and shook fists at each other. Landon interjected, "If you fellows want to make speeches, go hire your own hall."

The heckler has been identified as Dave Molthrop of Toledo, Ohio, who said he represented the Committee on State Sovereignty, Washington, D.C. He is in favor of right-to-work legislation proposed in Amendment No. 3. He attacked Landon for what he felt was a contradiction. The former governor urged selection of the State Supreme Court justices by the people, but thought the question of right-to-work provisions ought to be left up to legislators.

Molthrop joined Landon at his first stop in Junction City this morning and followed him to Clay Center, Washington, Marysville, and Manhattan.

Landon said Amendment No. 1, which would make justices appointive rather than elective, contradicts the basic concept of responsible citizens who can and should choose the justices. He called it a limitation of democratic process similar to that found in the Russian system of government.

Landon gave his support to the second amendment, saying it would "enable Kansas government to get at the problems of water resources and flood control in a constantly changing and expanding economy."

He went on to say that just as the second amendment would untie the hands of the Legislature, No. 3 ties its hands.

"We should trust the legislators to work out the problems confronting it. The Legislature, Landon insisted, already has the authority to effect right to work provisions.

Landon called the problem of industrial relations the most important issue confronting us today. However, he said, "State government should be left free to meet changing conditions. We can't attempt to settle for all time issues that the world has never been able to settle."

"The problem is a fluid one, Landon asserted, "and it's just good sense to leave this changing problem to our elected representatives in the legislature."

Registration Nears 6,700; More Expected To Enroll

At the end of one full week of classes the total number of students enrolled at Kansas State was 6,690, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar. At this time last year there were 6,680 students enrolled.

Approximately 170 have enrolled at K-State since the close of the college's formal registration period Wednesday night, September 10. Several more late comers are expected to enroll within the next few days.

Final tabulation of total number of students by classes and schools will not be available until around October 15, Dr. Gerritz said.

High Grades Necessary To Cut Next Semester

A CONFLICT APPEARS in the making between the Student Council and the administration.

Under a new system in effect next semester, all sophomores, juniors, and seniors with a 3.25 or above semester average (using the 4-point system) will be entitled to optional attendance.

Last spring the United States party platform advocated the abolishment of required class attendance for students after their freshmen year.

We favor optional attendance for all students except freshmen, feeling that if any student comes to college he should be mature enough to handle himself by the time he is a sophomore.

The student and/or his parents are, in most cases, paying for his education. If he wants to learn the opportunity is here for him. If he wants to cut classes and play around he is only hurting himself and both he and his parents should be aware of the consequences.

PRESIDENT McCAIN, HOWEVER, has several good arguments for allowing only those with high scholastic averages to have optional attendance.

The President pointed out that in this country, where everyone is given the opportunity for higher education, college administrators are committed to accept many freshmen "risks."

Many young people leaving home for the first time are immature. Consequently, the institutions are obligated to adopt a policy of wet nursing. Parents expect the colleges to mature their children through a gradual nursing program.

"This is the only country in the world where a college student has to take a year of his own language," the President said.

"IN OTHER COUNTRIES the students not having a grasp of their language would not be admitted to colleges. Here we assume they can't read and write before they enter college."

McCain said that each year 35 per cent of the freshmen could be washed out by stricter entrance requirements. As it now stands, 33 per cent of these usually drop out anyway. The remaining 2 per cent are salvaged by paternalism on the part of the college.

"Those students who have manifested the responsibility for themselves can have optional attendance," McCain said. "We have found that almost all students wanting optional attendance were those who weren't doing too well in class.

"It seems to me that regulations covering class attendance, graduation, and re-admittance are entirely under faculty jurisdiction. We will, take into consideration any study made by the Council on this subject."—GEM

Coeds Elect Favorite Bachelor On Indiana University Campus

By Jane Butel

STUDENTS AT INDIANA university are electing a favorite bachelor of the year, however their method is somewhat different than ours for selecting the Favorite Man on Campus. Instead of the men's organized houses nominating and campaigning for their favorite, the coed's organized groups do all of that work, while everyone can vote. Also, no posters are allowed on campus. . . . I wonder if they miss them.

ACCORDING TO THE Daily Texan, students at this Lone Star university have an optional blanket tax . . . but don't be fooled, it isn't what it sounds like. It is an assessment for ALL college functions, including tickets to out-of town games for only a dollar.

TWO STUDENTS ENROLLED at Arizona university are making a comeback to college life after being out for several decades. Both have degrees, but are taking some brush-up courses and working toward advanced degrees. A 69 year-old grandfather is just now taking freshmen economics courses. Gee, wonder what school would be like 40 odd years from now?

UPPERCLASSMEN at Arizona U. have a rugged day reserved for freshmen annually, called "A" day. The freshmen have to wear old clothes, beanies, blue and red socks and hair ribbons. The festivities begin at 12:30 p.m. when they are coached on college yells, and then marched through town. The university band greets them halfway through town and escorts them the rest of the way up a big "A" on a nearby mountain, where they have to paint it. Freshmen, how does that sound for a day's entertainment?

STUDENTS SITTING in the flash card section at KSC are quite privileged. Their only requirements are than they have to come early and wear something white. But at OU, the 50 yard line position is merely a dream . . . they sit between the 20 and 35 yard lines. Also at Arizona U., students must pay $1.25 to sit in the section. However at the end of the season, the dollar is returned and the quarter is used for maintenance of capes and cards.

THE DRAKE TIMES-DELPHIC, says ten Drake men had no worry about traffic jams enroute to the Drake-Iowa State football game at Ames last Saturday. They traveled the hard way . . . on foot. They are members of the cross-country track team.

Activities Cash To Be Doled Out

THE APPORTIONMENT board will meet at 4 p.m. today to decide on final apportionments to 27 student organizations for the 1958-59 school year.

Yesterday the board heard four appeals from organizations requesting more than the tentative apportionments called for. Last spring tentative apportionments were based on an expected enrollment of 7,000 students. Apportionments will possibly be cut because enrollment failed to reach the estimated number.

The activity fee was set at $16.50 a semester from each student's fees last spring. Largest tentative apportionments were earmarked for the Athletic department, $36,375; Student Union, $64,500, and Student Publications, $64,500.

Integration Crisis Erupts into Racial Violence; Little Rock Police Keeping Crowds Dispersed

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Little Rock—Tension over the mounting Little Rock integration crisis showed signs today of building up to a dangerous level.

Police, who had orders to allow no crowds to gather, reported three incidents yesterday. The worst involved a clash between "15 or 16 Negroes" and three white youths with duck-tailed haircuts. The white boys were beaten by the Negroes, who carried cleated football shoes. None of the victims was hurt seriously.

In another incident, motorcycle patrolman P. A. Malone was struck on the leg by a rock, which came flying out of a crowd of Negroes who had attended a Negro football game last night. The officer was not hurt.

A police dispatcher said his switchboard was flooded with calls reporting racial incidents. He said most of them turned out to be baseless. Police did not arrest anyone involved in the incident in which whites were beaten with football shoes. But it was the most serious fracas reported so far in this year's integration crisis here.

School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom said the matter would be taken care of by principals of the junior high schools the Negroes and whites attend and by juvenile authorities.

Rival Factions Battle

Beirut—A new gun battle broke out between rival political factions in Beirut today, in defiance of shoot-to-kill orders given to Lebanese military patrols.

The Christian Phalange and Saeb Salem's rebels fought across the rooftops in the mixed Nasra quarter while Lebanese troops, backed by U.S. marines and soldiers, guarded the streets below to prevent a new civil war. The Lebanese soldiers had orders to open fire on all armed civilians.

Sports Column

By Don Veraska

Are you students who are returning to K-State this semester grimly expecting another losing season on the gridiron? Have you freshmen and new students heard that for basketball K-State is great, but for football... well... Cheer up, sports lovers. The pendulum has swung, the tide has turned.

Now that we've seen the Wildcats play, we feel obligated to make a prediction on the season's outcome. No wishy-washy "maybes" here, no glum forecasts of doom. We may substitute a certain amount of optimism for realism, but at least we rationalize well.

K-State will win, repeat, WIN, six games this season. That's in football alone, skeptics!

Chalk off one win already. That's our handicap just for being so presumptuous. Five to go. K-State will win over Utah State, Iowa State, Kansas, and Nebraska university. There's five, and it leaves only Michigan State, Colorado, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Oklahoma State.

Just one win out of this bunch, and we'll have reached our quota. We'll pick Colorado as the most likely.

"Colorado??" you scream. "Why Colorado?"

A note from the Colorado Daily: "... The latest report says he (injured guard Jim Howell) will be ready for Kansas, the Buff's second game and first tough one."

It seems that Colorado has already written K-State off. So it turns, it gives us a certain amount of satisfaction to write the Buffs off and to predict a Wildcat win.

Cat Drills Continue For Colorado Tilt

K-State gridders participated in their next-to-last practice session before the Colorado university contest Saturday, and the Cats again worked on a little bit of everything.

They worked short periods on the K-State offensive running plays, passing, punting, and field goals. It was a dummy practice, with the exception of the ends.

Only two gridders will be absent from the starting lineup Saturday. Ron Blaylock, 5-10, 170-pound sophomore quarterback, and Art Grob, 231-pound sophomore tackle are both out with injured knees. Blaylock could possibly be back in shape by the Utah State game October 4.

Two gridders, however, will be back in action this weekend after missing the Wyoming game. Tony Tiro, 200-pound junior halfback, and Ralph Peluso, 213-pound junior tackle should add to the Cat strength against the Buffs.

A Talented Toe

Ben Grosse, as a sophomore in 1956, kicked three long-range field goals to rank second in the nation in field goal kicking. His first and longest was a 35-yarder against Nebraska which earned a 10-7 victory. He hit one from 31 yards against Wyoming, and notched a 30-yarder against Michigan State.

Manager Is Needed For Gridiron Team

K-State's freshman football coach, Ed Dissinger, has invited applicants for the job of freshman student manager.

Men who are interested should contact him immediately, he said. The manager would work daily with the freshman team, and would travel with the squad to the Nebraska frosh game, November 7.

Knorr Has Had Wide Variety In Cat Coaching Positions

By LARRY MEREDITH

One of the busiest men on campus this year is Fritz Knorr, assistant athletic director, head wrestling coach and former coach of three other sports here at K-State.

Fritz says that every day is different and new problems are arising all the time. "I'm not complaining," he says. "That's what makes life interesting."

And Fritz's life has certainly been interesting. In 1927 he entered K-State as a freshman and, after laying out of school for one semester, graduated in 1932. From K-State he went to a coaching position at Waterville high school where he stayed for five years.

From Waterville, Fritz went to a Kansas City high school for another five years and then returned to K-State as a physical education coach in 1942.

During the war Fritz was head basketball and baseball coach and football line coach. He said that at this time most boys were in the service and his teams consisted of 16 and 17 year olds who were too young to be drafted.

Fritz said that a last second basketball victory over Oklahoma in 1944 was his most vivid memory of this era. He also recalls beating Kansas university in football in 1944. This wasn't done again until 1950.

In 1948 he became the athletic business manager for K-State. His present job as assistant athletic director still entails the same duties.

The jobs which Fritz does are many and varied. For instance, he is in charge of all the playing fields, facilities and equipment. This means covering the fields in case of bad weather, seeing that games are started on schedule, arranging the bleachers, keeping the equipment in tip-top shape and seeing that all the bills are paid.

In the fieldhouse and stadium, Fritz is in charge of the cafeteria, concessions and any maintenance work.

This Saturday, when the football team arrives at Boulder for the game, Fritz will have made reservations for rooms and food and will have baggage trucks waiting to carry all the gear.

All Big Eight Teams Do 'Identical' Work

By UPI

If someone looked at all Big Eight training camps simultaneously, chances are pretty high he would see the same thing.

That must be true because nearly every Big Eight team did such things yesterday as "tried all phases," or "did everything in the book."

If that wasn't the case, there was hardly a coach who didn't give his team drills in "both offense and defense with efforts to polish the attacks for Saturday's battles."

Miss Football of 1958 Receives Queen's Welcome Home

Darryl Heikes

WHEN MEL EATON RETURNED to K-State Monday, the Gamma Phi Beta house became the scene of a wild celebration. Sorority sisters flocked around the pretty coed, congratulating her and asking questions about the exciting week in California, where she was crowned Miss Football of 1958. The secondary education senior was kept busy unpacking; showing newspaper clipping, pictures, and telegrams; talking on the telephone; and displaying the large trophy she won. It was a hectic night for Mel, but probably almost as enjoyable as participating in the contest.

Exchange Functions, Parties Open K-State's Social Whirl

Alpha Chi Omega and Tau Kappa Epsilon had an exchange picnic September 16 at the Teke house.

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Nu had an exchange dinner at the fraternity house September 18.

Pi Kappa Alpha gave a buffet dinner and dance September 12 at the new chapter house in honor of their new pledges. About 130 persons attended.

The Kappa Deltas and the Phi Kappas had an exchange dinner at the Phi Kappa house September 14.

Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have an exchange dessert at the Sig Alpha house tonight.

La Quinta is the new name chosen for the independent men's house formerly known as Hills Heights. The announcement was made by Roger Heller, social chairman.

Residents of Southeast hall entertained relatives and friends at an "After the Game" party, September 20. Assistant directors

Miss Dixie Bullard and Mrs. Guthrie, and Mr. Guthrie were present at the affair.

Members of Farm House and their dates enjoyed a chicken bar b-q September 21 at Pottawatomie lake. Special guests present were Prof. Thomas Avery, Assoc. Prof. and Mrs. Roger Wilkowske, Asst. Prof. and Mrs. Carl Overly, and Mr. and Mrs. Armin Grosse.

An open house and buffet dinner for alumni, parents, and dates was given by Sigma Alpha Epsilon following the Wyoming-K-State football game Saturday.

Chemise Look Seen For Campus Casuals

By MARTHA STEPS

Paris says that the sack and the chemise are dead, but that isn't true at all. They have simply gone to the college campuses. The girl in the tight-fitting sweater and skirt may get some attention, but she will not be fashionable.

The sack look has reached the casual clothes that will be worn on campus this winter. K-State coeds are buying their sweaters longer and their skirts shorter.

Most of the sweaters now being purchased reach to the hipline. Many of them have large, novelty collars of some sort. Crew necks are just as popular this year as they have been in the past. Bulky knit sweaters are rapidly taking over in most styles. One store where many K-State girls shop reported that they don't have a single plain short-sleeved pull-over in stock.

Pleats are the last word in skirts. Both the stitched-down pleats and the loosely-pleated versions are popular again this year. Many straight skirts are being made with the pockets set below the hipline. This is necessary to keep them from being covered by the long sweaters.

Blouses are also longer this fall and are designed to be worn on the outside over the skirt. Many versions are belted at the bottom and have chemise-like fullness in the back.

Other favorites with K-State coeds are cotton-knit dresses and trench coats. Two-piece cotton knits are being seen both in class and in church. The popularity of trench coats seems to be a K-State extra because these are not mentioned in fashion magazines at all this year.

Plaids are everywhere. Skirts, blouses, jumpers, and dresses are coming out in plaids. These are not little dainty designs, either. Large, bright "horse blanket" plaids are the most popular. The word seems to be the bigger and brighter the better.

Red is one of the best colors with cornflower blue getting a lot of attention, too. Champagne, a pinkish-beige, has also sold well to the fashion-conscious K-State coed.

Colorado U Is Rated High, But Buff Coach Has Doubts

The Colorado Buffalos, a team rated high in the Big Eight field by the experts and labeled as over-rated by its own coaching staff, open their season Saturday by hosting K-State.

The Colorado fans will be getting their first chance to see for themselves who is right. Coach Dal Ward locked the gates for the first time in his 11-year reign at Colorado at last Saturday's rehearsal.

Both sides have facts to back up their arguments.

The glowing descriptions of the pre-season predictors are based on six returning regulars from last fall's offensive giants. Among these are such standouts Guard John Wooten, quarterback Boyd Dowler, and half-back Eddie Dove—all candidates for all-American honors. Tackle Bob Salerno and full-back Leroy Clark, slated for regular duty last year before falling victim to injuries, are back in good condition.

The center job has been held by four sophomores in as many weeks this fall. Getting the call against K-State will probably be Bill Scribner. Left halfback is a new problem, but it could be solved quickly by the return to form of veteran Howard Cook, or by sophomore Jim Flowers.

The sophomore left ends are holding their own in practice but have yet to be tested under fire. All of them however, are considered very promising youngsters.

"We have worked awfully hard on defense so far," says the Colorado coach. "I thought the boys had the offense down pretty well and would not need too much work there. But the way they looked Saturday, they need a lot of offensive polishing. But I still think our defense is what needs improvement."

According to Ward, running is the only part of the Buffalo offense that looks good so far. He added that he was pleased with the running, even though it took quite a while to get going Saturday.

The Buff coach, however, is worried about his team's passing attack. "We just did not have much of a passing threat Saturday," he said. "It will have to get lots better in a hurry."

New Wildcat Is 'Wild' Cat

A Wildcat—"Touchdown V"—which has been described as "young and fierce," has become successor to the deceased "Touchdown IV" as K-State mascot. A member of Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity, which rides herd on the animal, commented, "It sometimes takes us an hour just to get this new cat in a cage."

The 14-year-old "Touchdown IV" died of old age this fall after serving as mascot since 1948.

Spanish Instructor Doesn't Dig Rings

"What really seems strange to me in the United States is to see students wearing wedding bands. In Spain it is unthinkable for a woman to go to school or to work after marriage," says Dr. Antonia Iglesias, instructor of Spanish.

In spite of this, Spanish women get as much education as the men, she says. More women than men major in physics and chemistry. Since educated persons marry at about 30 years of age, a woman may have a short career before marriage. During her career, she can be sure that her salary will be the same as a man's in a like position.

Asked what would happen to her career if she should marry, Miss Iglesias answered quickly, "It would be a thing of the past. I would put away my books and devote my time to my home."

Dr. Iglesias was never without a scholarship as a student. However, the scholarships were valued mostly for the honor. Money grants have not been increased since they originated in the 16th century. She studied at one of the oldest universities in Europe, the University of Salamanca in Spain.

Dr. Iglesias arrived by plane September 6 from Newfoundland. She taught Spanish at Memorial university there. Previously, she taught at the Universities of Southampton in England, Cardiff in Wales, and at Westfield college at the University of London.

This is her first time in the United States but the Manhattan area reminds her of home. The climate is similar except that the countryside should be brown at this time of year. Salamanca has wheat as its only crop, she said.

The ideal student of languages is the pre-school child, according to Dr. Iglesias. However, college students retain a great deal of facility for languages. Except for accent, any age person should be able to master a new language.

Miss Iglesias joins Professors Robert E. Pyle and Manuel D. Ramirez in the teaching of Spanish. About 150 students are enrolled in Spanish courses in the modern language department.

Wampus Cats

Newly elected officers of Wampus Cats, men's pep club, are Ray Huebner, EE Soph, president; Jim Allerheiligen, AED Jr, vice-president; Dennis Owen, ME Sr, secretary; Joe Grimes, ME Jr, treasurer; and Jay Huebner, ME Soph, publicity chairman.

Young Democrats

The first meeting of Young Democrats will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in room 208 of the Union.

New officers will be elected and an outline of tentative speakers will be made at the meeting, according to Walt Mayden, ChE Sr.

Gov. George Docking, Lt. Gov. Joe Hinkle, and State Party Chairman Frank Thies will speak to the club during the year.

Union Harmonizers

The Union Harmonizers will meet in SU 207 at 8 p.m. Thursday for music, by a guest quartet, the Four Deltis. This meeting will be open to everyone interested in singing in a chorus or in quartet. The group's plans for the future include a quartet and chorus workshop on October 9, and a parade of quartets November 23.

Twenty-Eight Groups Get Activity Dollars

A total of $200,121 in activity fees was apportioned to 28 student organizations and activities in a closed meeting of the Apportionment board yesterday.

This amount was based on a present enrollment of 6,701 and an estimated spring enrollment of 6,366. The activity fee for each student is $16.50 a semester, $33 for the year.

A total of $204,826 in fees is anticipated for 1958-59 but $4,705 will be placed in an activity fee reserve fund.

This year's apportionment is almost $7,000 less than the $211,383 in 1957-58. Last year $7,590 more was apportioned than received in fees, leaving a debt in the reserve fund.

Despite the cut, a new activity—the Agriculture Open House—has been added and most other activities are receiving larger allocations.

The reduction of the Athletic department's allocation from $61,753 to $34,138 is a major factor in making more cash available for other activities.

The Athletic department is relying on the sale of separate season tickets to football and basketball games at $5 each to obtain additional money.

Each student is paying a fee of $5.50 to athletics this year ($2.75 a semester) compared to $8.80 in 1957-58.

Largest allocations went to the Student Union and to Student Publications—the Collegian and Royal Purple. Both were allocated $10 a student, or totals of $84,500 apiece, according to Chuck Wingert, His Sr, student body president.

Last spring the board tentatively apportioned $206,318. But this figure was based on an expected fall enrollment of 7,000 and a spring enrollment of 6,650.

A complete breakdown of the apportionments appears on page two.

KS Sororities Select Queen Candidates

The candidates for 1958 Kansas State Homecoming Queen have been announced.

Blue Key, senior men's honorary, has decided to announce the Homecoming queen several days before the football game.

Only once or twice has this been done in the past 15 years, despite the fact that most Big Eight and other major conference schools announce their queens in advance of the game.

This is done so that the queen can be properly honored during the week preceding Homecoming.

They are Tammy Abell, Eng Jr, Van Zile; Susie Bissel, BA Soph, Waltham; Kaydene Dashen, EEd Jr, Chi Omega; Doris Geis, PEW Sr, Gamma Phi Beta; Linda Felton, PEW Jr, Alpha Xi Delta; Kay Fitzgerald, EEd Jr, Van Zile; Barbara Howard, EEd Soph, Delta Delta Delta;

Barbara Huff, Gvt Jr, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Judy Mai, HE Soph, Northwest; Becky McMahon, HE Fr, Northwest; Georgia McNeill, EEd Fr, Southwest; Connie Morgan, EEd Jr, Pi Beta Phi; Arnita Otte, HDA Jr, Alpha Chi Omega; Bea Purcell, BA Sr, Alpha Delta Pi; Beverly Sims, ChW Sr, Clovia; Karen Stanley, HEN Fr, Southeast; and Alberta Timm, TxC Sr, Kappa Delta.

Nations Get Top Honors As Parents

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nation of Great Bend, parents of Nancy Nation, EEd Fr, have been selected as K-State's honorary parents. They will be presented to the student body at the half-time ceremonies of the K-State-Utah football game October 4.

When Nancy informed her parents of their selection, all her father could say was, "Is that right!"

When they come next week for the game, they will bring with them their 6-year-old son Bobby John who is in the first grade. According to Nancy, Bobby was more interested in his hula hoop than he was in the honor his parents had been given.

Nation attended K-State himself at one time. While he was here, Mrs. Nation worked in the Business Administration department. Nation is superintendent of the Cooperative Refinery association. One of his major interests is the Great Bend Boys' club association, of which he is president. Politics is another of his interests.

Directory Wants Names of Groups

Presidents of all organizations on campus must turn in the name of the organization, the president, and the faculty adviser to the Student Publications office, Kedzie 103A, by 5 p.m. today for the 1958-59 Student Directory. Organizations not reporting this information will not be included in the Directory.

Fitzgerald, Peterson Trio To Appear

Jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson Trio will present a concert in the Animal Industries pavilion Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m.

The performance, sponsored by the Jazz club on campus, is part of the artists' cross-country tour which opened in Carnegie hall. The group drew larger crowds than pianist Van Cliburn at Carnegie.

Miss Fitzgerald appeared at Kansas State in 1955 before an audience of about 3,500 at a jazz concert with other artists. She received a standing ovation at that time for her jazz and blues singing.

The trio backing the singer consists of Peterson at the piano, Ray Brown on bass, and Herb Ellis on the guitar. Peterson has won almost every award made to a jazz pianist, including the Downbeat and Metronome poll awards.

Miss Fitzgerald will be doing her favorites from the Cole Porter, Rodgers and Hart, Irving Berlin, and Duke Ellington song repertoires. Peterson will play old-time favorites.

ROTC Program No Good Say Interviewed K-Staters

By BART EVERETT
SHOULD BASIC ROTC be compulsory? Forty-four students on the K-State campus were asked this question. Five of these students thought that the basic ROTC program should remain as it is now. The remaining 38 students thought ROTC should be optional.

Most of them argued that the present program is quite comparable to the Explorer Scout program in amount of knowledge obtained. Most advanced cadets who were against the compulsory faction asked that their names be withheld. These are a few of the remarks:

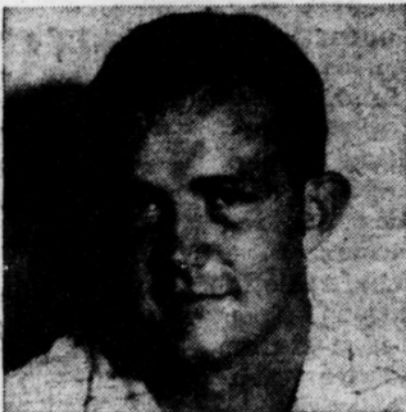

RALPH JONES, IE JR—Both programs have good and bad points, but the optional course would be the lesser of two evils.

BILL DAWE, HUM JR—I am definitely against the compulsory program. The training one gets in four semesters of a basic course which is designed to be easy for the simplest students is insufficient to prepare one for any branch of the service. Besides that it is a waste of time. If the choice were left to the individual there would be no deadwood, therefore the course would be a lot better.

WALTER B. BURLING, AGR SR—I believe the present ROTC program should be continued because an individual can not make an intelligent choice as to whether he wants to enter the advanced ROTC program without first being properly indoctrinated to the program. The basic course most adequately fulfills this need.

JACK BRITTON, AR 01—If a student actually wanted to become an officer he would take ROTC voluntarily.

BEN DOW, PRV FR—No! I don't think ROTC should be required. Your first years of college life are probably the most important. Therefore the less time spent with useless things, the better. Besides ROTC takes too much time for the credit given. Everyone will have to give his time to Uncle Sam, but I think a person should have the choice to wait until after he leaves school.

BUD ANNA, BA JR—Basic ROTC should not be compulsory because it does the student no good unless he plans to enter the advanced course.

NEIL SCOTT, SOC SR—No! The time spent in ROTC by the disinterested cadet is wasted time for himself and a detriment to the program.

Lebanon Revolt Ends; U.S. Troops Leaving

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Beirut—U.S. officials prepared today for the rapid evacuation of American troops from Lebanon, indicating that the four-month revolt has come to an end.

A reliable military source predicted that the last American soldier and marine will be out of Lebanon by October 17, if sufficient shipping is available.

The marines are already loading fuel reserves, ammunition and heavy equipment for their imminent departure. Army units are reported preparing evacuation plans.

The long-dormant Lebanese army is patrolling Beirut under orders to shoot armed civilians at sight, and it appeared that Wednesday's outbreak, in which at least 30 persons were killed, would be the last gasp of the revolt.

The rebels, jubilant over the installation of a government dominated by their leaders, already are tearing down the barricades that isolated their section of the city for months. The army is moving into former rebel areas to take over police duties from the insurgents.

New Premier Rashid Karami, himself a former rebel leader, ordered the removal of the barricades.

Dulles Challenges Reds

New York—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles put the question of war or peace in the Far East squarely up to the Communists last night.

The United States, he said, is ready to negotiate a settlement with Communist China in the Formosa strait.

At the same time, he warned U.S. forces may be used more actively if the Communists step up their attacks on Quemoy and other off-shore islands.

"Although the United States is not prepared to retreat in the face of armed force, our position is otherwise flexible," Dulles said in a speech before the Far-East American Council of Commerce and Industry.

"We are prepared," said Dulles, "in accord with our United Nations charter obligation, to settle the dispute 'by peaceful means in such a manner that international peace and security, and justice, are not endangered'."

Speeches Misconstrued

San Francisco—Harry S. Truman, famed for his no-holds-barred political speeches, protested last night that he "never gave a 'give-'em-hell' speech."

At a Democratic party rally the former President told his audience :

"I never give anybody hell. I'm a good Baptist. The only thing I do is tell the truth about the Republican party—and they think it is Hell."

K-Stater Gains Experience At Dakota Summer Theater

The Black Hills playhouse in Custer State park, S.D., was the summer home of Jim Johnson, Sp Jr. According to Jim "This is the best summer stock theater in the Midwest."

The playhouse began 13 years ago as a touring professional group. Now it is firmly established in the park and is a summer campus for dramatic arts students. It is sponsored by the University of South Dakota.

Staff members are paid by the University, and students pay tuition for the course or attend on scholarships. They receive credit from the University for their work. Jim attended on a scholarship.

There were 55 people at camp, including six faculty members and 32 students. Eleven states and two foreign countries, Canada and Cuba, were represented.

"We had a Christmas party on July 26 where we each dressed to represent our part of the country. I went as a sunflower from Kansas. We gave each other corny presents that didn't cost over a dollar. One boy who muffed a line in a play got a trophy with his scrambled line printed on it."

The theater building was completed in 1956 and has a seating capacity of 350. The students build all their own scenery and make their own costumes. They gave six plays in all. Each play usually runs about two weeks.

Jim appeared in the lead of the musical "Brigadoon" and directed "Fumed Oak" by Noel Coward. He also appeared in "Legend of Devil's Gulch" and a passion play in Spearfish, S.D.

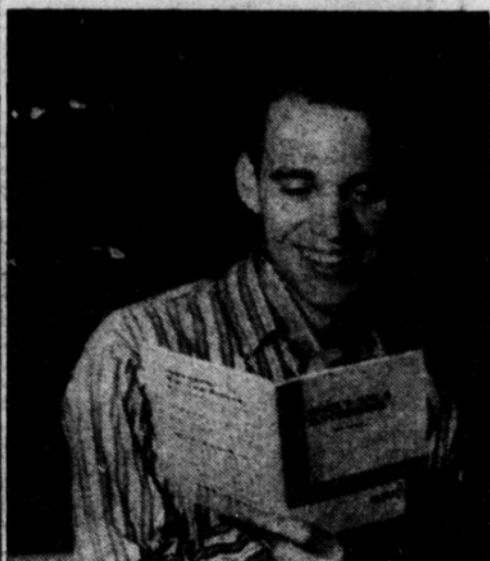

"We worked in the morning on set construction," said Jim. "In the afternoon, we rehearsed a play and gave a different one in the evening. We usually had 10 to 15 days rehearsal before a show. Twice a week we had to strike, or tear down, the scenery. We worked until 3 or 4 a.m. on these days and then got up at 9:30. We had very little time for sleeping."

A familiar figure in K-State dramatic circles, Jim is president of K-State Players. He is a member of National Collegiate Players, Pi Epsilon Delta, and Alpha Epsilon Rho, radio and television honorary.

In his two years at K-State, Jim has aided in the production of 12 plays. He appeared in "Tea and Sympathy," "Merry Wives of Windsor," "Juno and the Paycock," and "Bachelor Party." He also directed a one-act play "The Informer," and the freshman talent show.

Russell Gets Vacation —One He Didn't Want

For most students, a three months summer vacation in sunny Florida would be an experience to look back on, but not so for Dick Russell, Ar 02. Russell will return from his 81-day "vacation" in the Sarasota Memorial hospital today. He will arrive at the Kansas City airport at 2 p.m.

Dick began his drawn out vacation July 5 at Lido beach in Sarasota when he broke his neck in an accident. He was diving into the breakers when he made an error of judgment and dove into the trough between the breakers instead. His head plunged into the soft sand, and he lay face down in the water, fully aware of what had happened, but paralyzed from the neck down and unable to help himself.

A swimmer nearby sensed trouble and lifted Dick's face from the water. Two men helped lift him from the water onto the beach. He was then rushed to the Sarasota hospital which was to be his home for the next three months.

Doctors soon placed Russell in a position in which he was to remain, practically immobile, for the remainder of the summer. Quarter-inch metal pins were inserted into his skull just above each ear. A metal band connected to each pin went to the top of his head, where a rope was attached to a loop in the band. On the opposite end of the rope which passed through a pulley was a 25-pound weight, arranged to keep constant pressure and pull on the broken neck bone to assure that it would mend properly.

Dick was bolted between two metal cots which could be rotated, solving the problem of turning him over without moving any part of his body. When rotated to a face-down position, Dick was able to write answers to the letters and cards he received.

He had the pins removed two weeks ago. These were immediately replaced by a cast. Dick will have to wear this cast for approximately four more weeks and then he will don a steel brace for another six months.

"At least the lone hours of waiting are over now, and I'll be able to get back home," he said during a telephone conversation. "I have to get back to school or else I'll be so far behind I'll never catch up."

During the long days and nights that he spent in the hospital, Dick was visited by three of his Manhattan and K-State schoolmates. Dan Kershaw, TJ Soph, who was with him when the accident occurred, spent three weeks with him before returning home near the first of August. He later returned by plane just before classes began.

Mike Finney, Eng Jr. and Fred Boone, PrL Soph, hitchhiked the 1,500-mile distance to see how he was coming along. The pair stayed several days before returning home by the same method.

Dick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Russell, rented a house near the hospital where they have stayed ever since the accident. Mr. Russell came to Manhattan for a short period after the accident, but returned to Sarasota for the remainder of the summer.

The College's Golden Jubilee was celebrated October 28, 29, and 30, 1913. Classes were dismissed and the 28th was designated as Students' Day, Wednesday as Kansas Alumni Day, and Thursday as National Day.

Wildcats Hope To End Boulder Jinx Tomorrow

The 1958 K-State football team, winner from Wyoming in its only start, takes on Colorado university tomorrow at Boulder, and, like in its first game, faces a grid-iron jinx.

The Wildcats, in five tries against Colorado at Boulder, have never beaten the Buffs. And, what is worse, they have always been beaten rather soundly. It was 51-7 in 1948, 34-6 in 1950, 34-14 in 1952, 38-14 in 1954, and 34-0 in 1956.

Colorado owns an overall 9-4 record over K-State. It has a four-game winning streak—last Wildcat victory was in 1953 in a 28-14 home victory.

The Golden Buffalos have always been standouts offensively.

Last year, they were first in the nation in rushing with 3,224 yards and were second in total offense with 4,152. Returning quarterback Boyd Dowler directed that steamroller attack, while returning letterman halfback Eddie Dove was the best ball carrier on an average bases.

And a lot of those same Buffalos are back this year—six starters from the 1957 squad are returning.

K-State, on the other hand, ranked 20th in the nation in rushing yardage last season, with a little over 2200 yards. But the Cats are without halfbacks Gene Keady and Keith Wilson, and workhorse fullback Ralph Pfiefer, all of whom graduated.

K-State will have at least one advantage on the enemy. The Wildcats have already played one game this season—and a winning one to boot—while Colorado has yet to do anything more than to scrimmage. The Buffs could have a case of opening-game jitters and make a few mistakes that could prove costly.

K-State will be going with the same lineup that started against Wyoming last week—an eleven without a sophomore. Plenty of the first-year men are in the second and third strings, however, and will undoubtedly see action. Full-back-halfback Bill Gallagher, and quarterback Dale Evans are sophomores in the backfield who should see their share of action.

The Buffalos on the other hand will be starting with just one sophomore—left end Bill Elkins. Sophomores are crowding the starters at several positions, however.

K-State will go as usual with its winged-T formation—a T-formation with one back flanking. Colorado, however, runs from a multiple offense—the same as did Wyoming. The Buffalo scouts, seeing the Wildcats' difficulty at containing the Cowboy single wing attack, will undoubtedly advise coach Del Ward to run more plays from that formation.

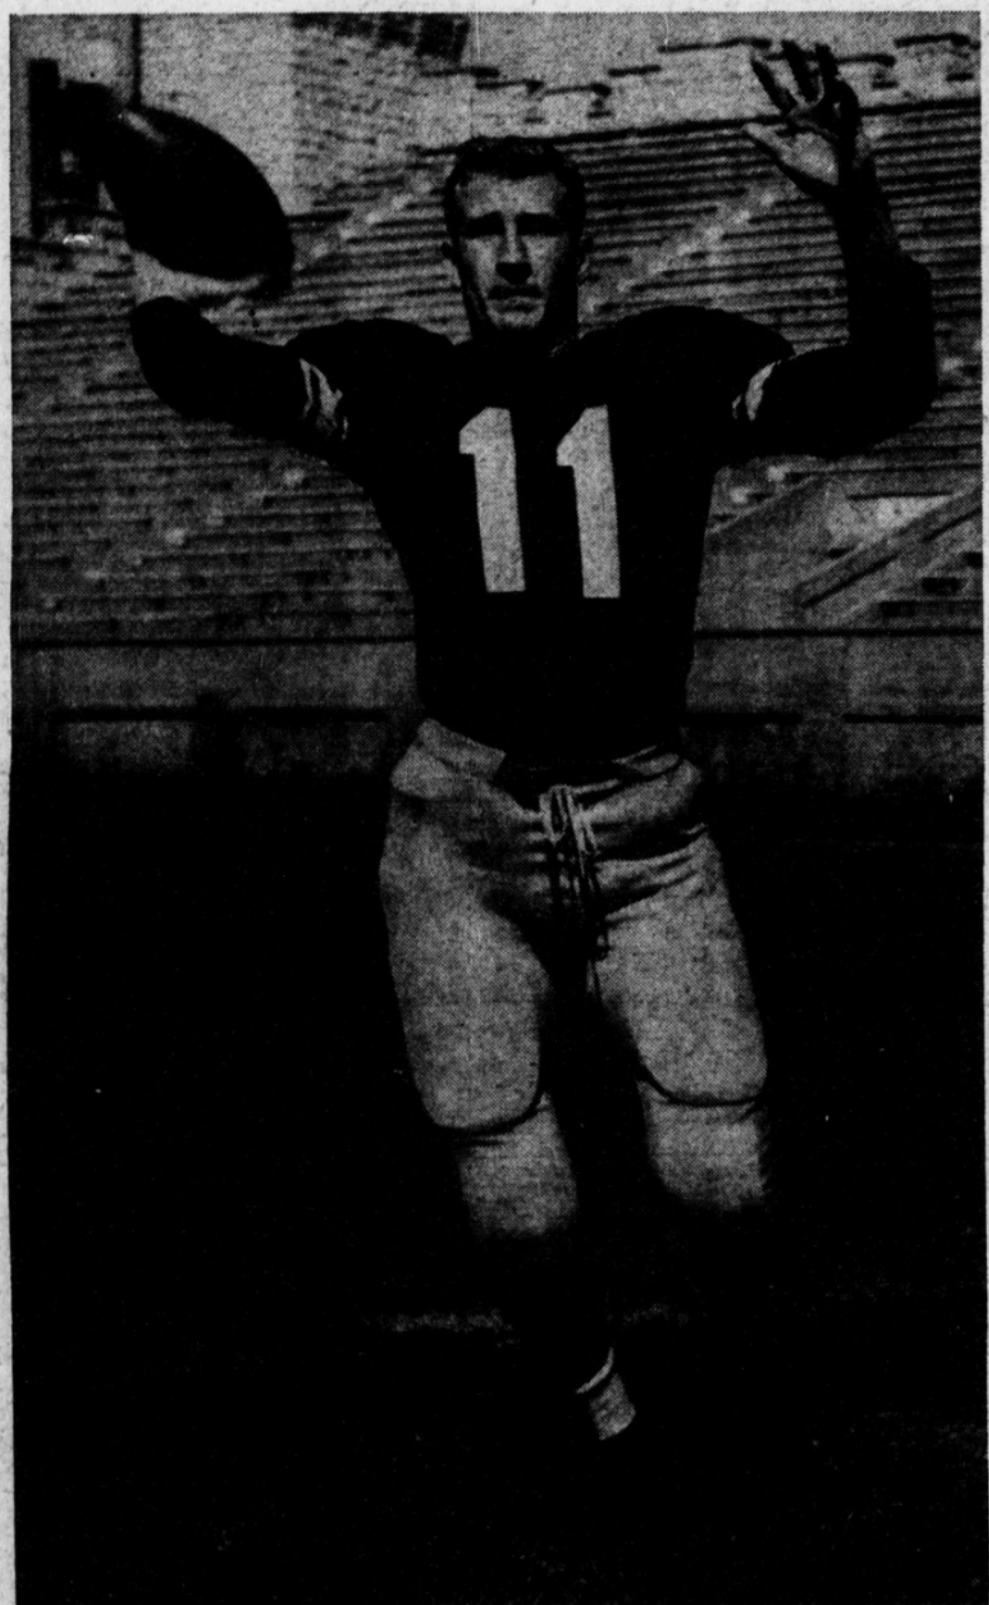

Here are a few excerpts from a scouting report from assistant Coach Frank Prentup of Colorado: "K-State was a much better team Saturday than when we played them last year. I was particularly impressed by their defense. It was very tough, both in the line and backfield. And I was surprised by their good offensive timing. After looking at the movies of our Saturday scrimmage, I would say that if we had met last Saturday, K-State would have won the game."

Approximately 30,000 fans, plus 5,000 musicians at Colorado's annual Band Day, are expected to watch the Buffs' 1958 debut.

K-State's Rifle Team Defends NIRA Title

By JOHN SHIRLEY

The K-State varsity rifle team, with a victory over Nebraska university already this year, is looking toward a better season than even last year's, according to the team's advisor, Capt. James Anderson, assistant professor of Military Science.

Last year's varsity team, made up of shooters from the ROTC department and other groups on campus, won the first place trophy in the National Intercollegiate Rifle meet, which is sponsored by the National Rifle association. Two hundred colleges and universities competed in this meet.

Last year the team also won the first place trophy at the Nebraska Invitational meet at Lincoln, beating 19 other teams, and took second place, behind Oklahoma in the Big Eight meet here in Manhattan.

The team dominated the Kansas Invitational Rifle matches, also here in Manhattan, by grabbing 47 first place metals, and 22 second place metals, in competition with over 250 shooters. Team captain Thurston Banks, ChE Sr, won a position on the second team all-American chosen by the NRA.

In match competition, each man on the ten man team fires 40 shots—ten each from standing, kneeling, sitting, and prone positions—at a target 50 feet away. The bullseye is the size of a .22 caliber bullet. Hitting it scores 10 points, giving a possible score of 400. Good shooters fire around 385. Only the five highest scores out of the ten are used in team matches.

Captain Anderson noted that interest in rifle shooting is increasing, with nearly four times as many men trying to make the team as did two years ago.

Team coach, M/Sgt. S. Horton, a ROTC instructor, says, "We're not like those football coaches, always running their teams down. We know we have the best team in the country. Prospects are good, as everyone is back from last year, and several good shooters are coming up."

Captain Anderson shares Horton's optimism and believes the team can gain permanent possession of the national trophy by winning it again this year. Says he, "We shouldn't lose a match, and the boys feel the same way."

GOING DOWN IN YESTERDAY'S workout in Memorial stadium is Max Falk, 23. The Wildcats again worked on all phases of the game, with an emphasis on defense against Colorado's single wing attack.

Ranked Elevens Play Tonight, Saturday

By UPI

Wisconsin, which never has won a night football game, and Miami, one of the South's best nocturnal teams, meet in the Orange Bowl tonight in the first of a host of weekend intersectional battles.

They have been playing football at Wisconsin for 70 years but the Badgers have appeared in only three previous night games—losing 'em all. However, the odds-makers weren't swayed by this jinx as they installed Wisconsin a one touchdown favorite over the Hurricanes.

Miami, though, always has been tough to beat under the Orange Bowl lights and could upset the Big Ten conference invaders. The Hurricanes have 10 lettermen in their starting lineup.

In tonight's other major games, Georgia Tech, knocked off by Kentucky in its opener last week entertains Florida State, while Texas, victorious over Georgia in its opener, visits Tulane. The Engineers are 14-point favorites and Texas is an eight-point pick.

Ohio State and Oklahoma, rated 1-2 in the United Press International rankings while still stretching their muscles on the practice field, will unveil their 1958 machines in Saturday's key intersectional games.

The defending champion Buckeyes entertain Southern Methodist and Oklahoma hosts West Virginia. Ohio State is a 13-point favorite and the Sooners are expected to win by at least three touchdowns.

Third-ranked Notre Dame, the comeback team of 1957, launches its new campaign with a backyard brawl against Indiana, while fourth-ranked Michigan State will open against California on the Spartans' home ground.

In other games involving top-ranked teams, Texas Christian visits Iowa, Auburn entertains Tennessee, Pittsburgh hosts Holy Cross, Navy entertains William and Mary, and Mississippi plays Kentucky under the lights at Memphis, Tenn. The Auburn-Tennessee game will be televised nationally.

Army, led by all-America half-back Bob Anderson, debuts against an upstart South Carolina team that surprised Duke in its opener. The Cadets lack an experienced quarterback but with Anderson carrying the mail they figure to be too tough for the invading Gamecocks.

Intramural Golf Entrance Fees Have Gone Up

Entrance fees for the intramural golf tournament tomorrow have been changed from 50 cents to $1 by the board of the Stag Hill golf course, according to Frank Myers, intramural manager.

Myers urges that the 23 organized houses entered in the meet inform him whether they intend to pay the additional fee or withdraw.

The golf course, which has been closed to other golfers during the tournament in previous years, will remain open to the public tomorrow.

Church Groups Have New Look

Nearly all of K-State's 20 religious organizations have acquired a "new look" this year. Many of the groups have meeting places of their own and full-time advisers for the first time.

About 250 Lutheran students who are members of the National Lutheran Council of Churches now have headquarters for their many activities at 915 Denison avenue. Directing the student activities at Luther House, as it will be called, is June Luett, formerly of Maquoketa, Iowa.

Formal dedication of Luther House will be in October.

Catholic youth also have a new student center this year at 711 Denison. Father Cari Kramer is the first full time chaplain for Newman Club at Kansas State.

Willis G. Jackson has assumed his duties as campus minister to Christian church preference students. Jackson is a graduate of Transylvania college and the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky. He and his wife come from Louisville, Ky., where he was minister in charge of administration at the Douglas Boulevard Christian church.

The Evangelical United Brethren fellowship group also has a resident minister for the first time. The Rev. Cecil Findley lives at 421 Kearney, the center for EUB activities.

The B'nai Brith Hillel foundation is using the Jewish Community center at 910 Lee as the center of its activities.

Canterbury association is without the services of a full time chaplain this year so its activities have been limited to those at St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Members of United Student fellowship are using the Congregational church cabin on Stag hill for many of their programs. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Knapp serve as advisers to over 100 Congregational preference students. The percentage of preference students active in the group has increased from 10 per cent last year to over 25 per cent this year.

The student groups of the First Presbyterian church and the United Presbyterian church are combining their activities this year as a result of the national merger of the two churches this summer.

Both Westminster House at 315 North 14th street and the new Westminster Campus center at 1021 Denison are being used for student activities. The plans for a new building to be built on the three lots at the Denison address are almost complete. Dr. Emerson Abendroth is minister to the students.

Kedzie First In HE

Kedzie hall was the first building erected in this country for the sole use of home economics departments. It was called Domestic Science hall but was renamed in 1902 in honor of Nellie S. Kedzie, head of the Home Economics department from 1882 to 1897.

Church News Is Due Wednesday at 4 p.m.

The show is being sponsored by the Lion's club and admission is $1.50.

Coed Finds Europe Cleaner Than Most of United States

Mina Jones returned from a four-week tour of Europe this summer with some varied impressions of the Old World way of life. Miss Jones, in a 30 member tour group composed of students and school teachers from the mid-western United States which included two other K-State girls, Marianne Gench, IM Jr, and Harriette Carr. HE Jr, traveled through eight countries and the fair at Brussels.

She found Europe, except for France and Italy, much cleaner than the United States, since people do not throw trash in streets and parks.

She noted that the people "lacked false sophistication" except for the English, who were friendly but on a more "impersonal" basis. While touring a camera factory in Germany her group was mistaken for English by a company tour guide since they seemed too reserved and quiet to be from the United States.

She didn't think Vienna lived up to its reputation as a gay city. She said the people there seemed rather grim. Austria appeared "colorless," with coal-smoked buildings and a lot of ruins, which made it look "like the Russians moved out yesterday." But flower gardens and "new, fresh, and gay" advertising posters pasted on drab walls stood out in vivid contrast to gray surroundings. Miss Jones, an art major, noted that these bright and interesting posters appeared throughout Europe.

She didn't see much evidence of anti-American feeling. But she did see, on an old retaining wall, a weather-beaten sign which said "Ridgeway go home," and a few Nazi signs.

At the fair in Brussels, the Russian pavilion looked "big and empty," in contrast to the American pavilion, she said.

Miss Jones says she can't think of Europe without remembering the neatness of the countryside and the fresh beauty of the European children, who looked like they weren't addicted to television.

Italian Students Self-Reliant

By ALICE HASTINGS

Many college students in Italy are self-reliant to the point of stubbornness, observed Bruce Cutler, assistant professor of English, who spent the past year as a Fulbright scholar at the University of Naples.

Less than half of the students attend class, he said. At the opening of a course (the professor himself decides when this shall be) the student obtains the reading list and text book. Perhaps, he does not come to class again for almost a year. Then he comes to buy a set of the professor's lecture notes so that he can finish preparing for the tough oral examination at the end of the course.

The favorite pastime of Italian students is a battle of wits, Cutler observed. A student who can win an argument over his professor becomes a hero. Students like to argue in class on street corners, or anywhere. The argument is like a game of chess—if your opponent wins a point, you go home and get fresh information for the next encounter, he said.

Before Prof. Cutler began his graduate study at K-State he spent ten years as a drummer in a professional jazz band in Chicago.

"I went from the end of the era 'swing' to the time when 'cool' music began," he said.

Of contemporary bands in this country, the George Shearing quartet is his favorite. He considers Italians the best jazz musicians in the world.

Music and other forms of art are state-supported in Italy. Whereas a city the size of Manhattan in the United States may have an artist series of four or five concerts a year, an Italian city of similar size will have 20 to 25 concerts a year, he said.

His study in Italy was mainly concerned with Italian influence on the writings of Milton. Some of his own poems have been published in the Kansas Magazine and in the Texas Quarterly.

The year in Italy was somewhat of a homecoming for Cutler, because Mrs. Cutler is a native of Naples. The Cutlers met when they were both working on a UNESCO project in Mexico City. They have one son two years old who speaks Italian as well as he speaks English, and never confuses the two.

Engineers 'Rounded' By Reading Books

Mechanical Engineering students are now required to take summer reading courses—Books and Men I, II, and III—offered by Continuing Education.

The courses are aimed at the professional development of engineers and are related to the program of the Engineering Council for Professional Development. The courses increase required credit hours for the ME's from 142 to 148 hours.

Books and Men I by correspondence was offered for the first time last summer. It is primarily for engineers but is open to other students also. A. D. Langvardt, assistant professor of English, is in charge of the course.

The reading list for the course includes such familiar titles as "Giant of the Earth," "Gulliver's Travels," "The Odyssey," "Canterbury Tales," "Macbeth," and "The Great Gatsby."

Prof. Linn Helander, former head of the Mechanical Engineering department, first expressed concern over the lack of non-technical reading in the curriculum. He hoped that a literature course might stimulate a desire to read in areas other than engineering.

The books to read were selected by Dean M. A. Durland, Engineering school, Professor Helander, and Professor Langvardt.

HITTING THE WALL, BUT NO FIRST DOWN—Kansas State fullback Terry Lee (32) doesn't quite make the yard needed for a first down in the third quarter of the game with Colorado university at Boulder Saturday. Stopping Lee are defenders Jack Himelwright (center) and Ellwin Indorf (23). K-State's Ben Grosse (45) is under the pile. K-State lost 13-3. Story on page three.

Ella Fitzgerald Pleased With College Audiences

By LARRY MEREDITH

Fifteen minutes after the performance by Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson trio was to have started, a police car followed by two new sedans wheeled into the driveway in back of the Animal Industries pavilion.

They pulled up quickly near the entrance and a hurried but calm Oscar Peterson stepped out onto the pavement. He was nonchalantly smoking a cigarette and seemed relaxed and confident. The plane had been late and he was anxious to begin.

Next came Ella Fitzgerald, in appearance the exact opposite of Peterson. She was nervously twisting her handkerchief in her hands and had a frown on her face. Later she explained that she was "always nervous before a performance."

Followed by the rest of the group including Norman Granz, the producer of the show, they entered the Pavilion.

Peterson ground out his cigarette and strode onto the stage to be greeted by a K-State crowd of about 1,200.

After a few words of greeting,

Peterson sat down at the piano on which he had never practiced and gave out with his interpretation of modern jazz.

Ella, who wasn't to appear until the second half of the show, was in her dressing room changing clothes. She was still nervous when she came out.

After a few minutes Ella became more relaxed and confident. She said that she liked to sing to college audiences because they were somewhat different than others. "They are more like European audiences," she said.

"You can feel like they are listening and it seems like they are with you," she explained that college people know their albums. They play them and read about the performers more.

She said that she loved ballads as well as the swing type of jazz. She likes to mix up the two in an effort to reach everybody regardless of taste.

When Ella finally took the stage she thrilled the audience with jazz and popular music for more than an hour.

Peterson and Granz said that they like to play at midwestern colleges better than eastern colleges because the east gives you a feeling that everybody likes jazz because everybody else does. "In the midwest," said Granz, "there is a feeling of more individuality."

Themes Released For Homecoming

All K-State fraternities and sororities, plus eight organized independent houses, dorms, and clubs have entered themes in the 1958 Homecoming Decorations contest.

This year houses are allowed to enter only one division, either house decorations or parade floats.

Expenses are being limited to $60 for house decorations and $75 for parade floats in an attempt to cut down on the use of study time for the preparation of Homecoming.

However, a more unified and enjoyable Homecoming is expected this year, according to Tom Isenhour, BA Sr., publicity chairman for the Homecoming committee.

The overall theme this year is "Advertising Slogans," and entering groups are altering popular advertising sayings to meet their needs.

Organizations and their themes:

Parade Floats: Delta Sigma Phi, "Have You Had Your Soup Today;" Lambda Chi Alpha, "Solid As the Rock of Gibraltar;" Tau Kappa Epsilon, "Dreamed I Went on A Tiger Hunt;" Theta Xi, "They Said It Couldn't Be Done;" Cosmopolitan club, "Pace Is Our Most Important Product;"

Newman club, "K-State's Variety Ten Pack;" Scholarship house, "Lookth, Dan, No Cavities;" West stadium, "Tigers Don't Upset My Stomach;" Van

Zile hall, "Cats In—Tigers Out;" and Dames club, "There's a Definite Difference."

House Decorations: Alpha Chi Omega, "We Cared Enough To Send the Very Best;" Alpha Delta Pi, "Light Up a Tiger, It's Touchdown Time;" Alpha Xi Delta, "Willy the Penguin Says Play It Kool Kats;" Chi Omega, "The Only Good Tiger Is a Dead Tiger;" Clovia, "Any Ball Team Is Fine with Me If It's KSC;"

Delta Delta Delta, "Say It with Flowers;" Gamma Phi Beta, "Wonder Where the Yellow Went;" Kappa Delta, "How Are You Fixed for Blades;" Kappa Kappa Gamma, "The Pause That Refreshes;" Pi Beta Phi, "Poof-down with Per-Missouri;"

Acacia, "No Tiger Is Immune to Kan-Kill;" Alpha Gamma Rho, "Tigers Taste Good Like Victories Should;" Alpha Kappa Lambda, "Ban: It Rolls On;" Alpha Tau Omega, "Toasted To Taste Better;"

Beta Sigma Psi, "Stewed with Pure Rocky Mountain Spring Water;" Beta Theta Pi, "Time To Retire Tiger;" Delta Tau Delta, "Breakfast of Champions;" Delta Upsilon, "Tony the Tiger Says, Wildcats Are Great;"

Farm House, "You Can Be Sure If It's Tiger Meat;" Kappa Sigma, "You're In Good Hands If It's K-State;" Phi Delta Theta, "His Master's Voice;" Phi Kappa, "Live Modern Electrically;" Phi Kappa Tau, "Wildcats for the Cleanest Shave In Town;"

Pi Kappa Alpha, "Hottest Brand Going;" Sigma Alpha Epsilon, "For the First Time In Your Life Get—Cleaned;" Sigma Chi, "Flush Mizzou Down the Drain;" Sigma Nu, "Smoking Man's Filter—Thinking Man's Taste;" Sigma Phi Epsilon, "Tower of Power;"

House of Brec, "Unlucky Tiger Hair Tonic;" House of Williams, "Let's Stop Missouri's Flabby Tigers—LS/MFT;" Waltheim hall, "It's Great When You Drink It Straight."

Safety Confab To Open Here

The ninth annual Governor's Industrial Safety conference, sponsored by K-State and the Kansas Department of Labor, will be tomorrow on the K-State campus.

Gov. George Docking will give the keynote address at the morning session in Williams auditorium, Umberger hall.

The purpose of the conference is to focus attention on industrial safety. K-State departments participating are the Engineering Experiment station, and the Industrial Arts, and Continuing Education departments.

Three panel discussions will highlight the afternoon activities. A utilities panel will discuss the organization and sale of a safety program, while a manufacturing panel will be on "Safety in Manufacturing."

Petroleum officials will compose the third group, which will feature individual talks about accident prevention in the oil business.

Seven Will Be Appointed To SGA Groups Tonight

Student Council will appoint members to seven Student Governing association groups in its regularly scheduled meeting at 7 p.m. in the Union tonight.

The Council will appoint members to Student Activities board, International Relations committee, Athletic council, Elections committee, and to three Public Relations sub-committees.

The Council also will discuss the possibility of delegating interviewing for SGA committees to the school councils. A committee probably will be appointed to look into the matter.

Letting the school councils do the interviewing would give SC members more time to get their work done, and would let them concentrate on more important matters, according to Larry French, BA Sr., and Council chairman.

The Council will also make final arrangements for the Eisenhower library campaign, which will start on campus Wednesday. The library, to be constructed in Abilene, will house documents of President Eisenhower.

All Major Colleges in Kansas Record Small Enrollment Gains

A RECENT ASSOCIATED Press survey of enrollment at Kansas colleges and universities found that the lack of marked gain in students was experienced at the University of Kansas and Wichita university as well as Kansas State.

The University of Kansas began the year with 9,063 students. Late enrollments are expected to push the figure to 9,300, compared to 9,225 in 1957.

Officials at KU said they expect the enrollment to remain at about 9,300 for the next couple years before beginning a climb to 17,000 to 20,000 by 1970.

THE UNIVERSITY OF Wichita had an opening registration of 5,785 against 5,704 last year. The school also expects an enrollment spurt in 1960 after two stable years.

Enrollment here totaled 6,705 at the opening of school, with 6,750 expected. Last year's figure was 6,737. The registration here is expected to remain the same until 1960 also. It is estimated that K-State will have 13,500 students by 1970.

But several smaller institutions in the state have had surprising increases.

FORT HAYS KANSAS State college registered a record 2,512 students. It was an increase of 205 over last fall.

Washburn university, Topeka, enrolled a record 1,320 students. Last year at the same time it had 1,259.

College of Emporia enrollment reached 300 for the first time in 10 years. A year ago it had 271.

KANSAS WESLEYAN university, Salina, has 306 this year compared to 260 a year ago.

Bethany college, Lindsborg, registered 400 this fall and 331 last fall.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE K-State football team for outplaying, though not defeating, Colorado university. The Wildcats, rated a two-touchdown underdog before the game, outfought the powerful Buffalos in every statistics department except punting—and scoring.

WE COMMEND BLUE Key, national men's honorary, for its decision to announce the Homecoming queen during the week before the football game instead of waiting until halftime ceremonies. Now the queen can be properly honored during her week.

THE JOB RECRUITING season for 1959 graduates at Kansas State begins with the first interviewing date Friday. The placement "honeymoon" is over, according to Chester Peters, placement director.

Peters said prospective employers will probably be highly selective when the graduates start looking for jobs.

Graduates can expect greater emphasis on scholarship and broader and more advanced education; more interest in those graduates with their military obligations out of the way; and less jobs available than in past years.

Starting salaries, however, will probably be up, said Peters.—GEM

DeGaulle's Government Wins French Election by Landslide; Algerians Vote Approval Despite Guerilla Retaliation Threats

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Paris—France has voted its shaky Fourth Republic out of existence by a four-to-one landslide that makes Premier Charles De Gaulle the nation's undisputed "strong man."

The only report of a negative vote came from the French West African colony of Guinea, where the expected "no" majority was in effect a declaration of independence. De Gaulle told African colonials in a campaign tour that they could have their freedom—if they were willing to give up French aid.

In Algeria, the principal trouble spot in French Africa, the constitution was approved by a majority of nearly 98 per cent, with a vote of 2,023,069 to 56,392. Despite guerilla threats of retaliation against Arabs who voted, only about 17 per cent of the voters stayed away from the polls.

Chiang Vetoes Truce

Taipei—President Chiang Kai-Shek today ruled out a cease fire for Quemoy and it appeared the Chinese Communists would deliver their war-or-peace stand by Wednesday, the Communists' National day.

Communist Premier Chou En-Lai set the stage for such a declaration last night when he declared the United States faced "disaster" if it did not stop its "war provocations" in the Formosa strait. Russia echoed the pronouncement.

Chiang, at one of his rare press conferences, said the Nationalists reserved the right to bomb the mainland if Quemoy is threatened seriously. He said the action would be carried out with or without American support but expressed conviction the United States would support him.

NAACP Asks Ruling

Omaha—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today goes before the eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a race against time and Little Rock segregationists.

Attorneys for the NAACP planned to ask the court to stop a corporation from taking over the schools and opening them as segregated private institutions. The corporation and the Little Rock School board were working feverishly to complete the takeover.

Should its move to bar the action be turned down by the two-man court here, the NAACP has indicated it will seek an order directing the Negro students be accepted for enrollment in private schools.

Little Rock voters Saturday backed a segregated school system by a 19,470 to 7,561 vote. Their action at a special election appeared to reinforce the Little Rock School board's decision to lease out the four schools.

Truman Partisan—GOP

Washington—Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn accused former President Truman today of "falsehoods, distortions and partisan venom" in his 1958 campaign speeches.

Alcorn issued a new blast at the Democratic ex-President as the congressional campaign headed into its last five weeks with signs that leaders in both camps were ready to get down to bare-knuckle slugging.

Wildcats Turn To Utah State after Losing to CU

K-State's football team will attempt to forget a frustrating Saturday afternoon against Colorado, as it prepares for next week's Parents' Day battle with Utah State university.

The Aggies from Utah lost only five starters from last year's team, and are returning 18 lettermen. The 1957 squad finished with only a 2-7-1 record, but recorded that tie against Wyoming at Laramie, a team that stopped K-State 12-7 at Laramie the same year.

K-State dominated every statistic but punting Saturday, but failed to get enough yardage into one drive to score against the Buffalos.

The Wildcats racked up 15 first downs, compared to 11 by Colorado; rushed for 242 yards, as to 164 by the Buffs; and whipped the opponents 84-68 in passing yardage. The Cats hit five of 11 passes, compared to seven of 14 by Colorado; lost only one fumble, while Colorado lost two; and were penalized just 15 yards. The Golden Buffalos were set back 87 yards.

Colorado took a K-State quick kick with only a few minutes gone in the first quarter, and in six plays the home team racked up 41 yards and a touchdown. The single-point conversion gave the home team a quick 7-0 lead.

Then the frustration began for K-State.

Cat halfback Max Falk took the ensuing Colorado kickoff in the end zone and ran it out to the Cat 20. He picked up nine yards on the first play, and John Marcoline, junior halfback, picked up a first down with a three yard run.

Falk then scampered 39 yards to Colorado's 29 yard line and another first down. Quarterback Les Krull tossed a pass to end Ced Price, who fumbled it away to the Buffs on the Colorado 12 yard line.

After picking up minus two yards on two plays, the Buffalos quick kicked. Falk ran it to the K-State 42. After seven plays and two first downs, the Cats were again knocking at the goal line with a fourth and one situation on the Buffalo 20 yard line. But an illegal procedure penalty against the Cats set the ball back five yards. Ben Grosse's field goal attempt from the 40 was short.

After several plays got them nowhere, Colorado kicked to the Wildcat 35 yard line. Falk ran 38 yards to the Colorado 37 yard line, Tiro picked up 12 to the 25, and Falk got down to the Buff 21. But the Colorado defense stiffened, and on a fourth and five play, Larry French failed on a field goal attempt from the 21.

After a brief kicking exchange, K-State got the ball on its 20 yard line. John Marcoline picked up a first down to the 34, and Falk, on three consecutive runs, got to the 46 and another first down.

After driving to the Buffalo 15, with 1:24 to go in the first half, a Les Krull pass was completed to Terry Lee on the Colorado five yard line. But a backfield in motion penalty against the Cats put the ball back on the 20. Ben Grosse then kicked a field goal from the 25 with just 22 seconds to go in the first half.

Early in the second half, a kick by Buff quarterback Boyd Dowler went out of bounds on the Cat two yard line. Three plays later, Grosse's kick from the end zone was blocked by guard Sherman Fruit, and end Mel Semenko grabbed the loose ball for a touchdown and the day's final score.

Another Wildcat drive in the third quarter bogged down on the 22 yard line of Colorado, and the K-State offensive was about through for the day.

Stars were plentiful for K-

State. Falk carried 16 times for 118 yards and a 7.4 average. Marcoline carried for eight times and 56 yards. John Solmos passed for three completions in six attempts, including a 44 yard pass play to Marcoline in the last part of the fourth quarter.

Surprising Iowa State Cyclones Command Conference Grid Play

By UPI

Iowa State commanded a surprising grip on the Big Eight pile-up this week despite overall high percentages by Oklahoma State, Colorado and kingpin Oklahoma.

The Cyclones haven't been a powerhouse for 20 years but today held the baffling honor of two straight shutout victories, totaling 47 points against Drake and Arizona this season.

However the going may be tougher this week when Iowa State meets Nebraska—even if the Huskers aren't given much chance in the conference race this year.

And of course another leader in the Big Eight is highly-ranked Oklahoma which romped past West Virginia's flexible offense-defense, secret maneuvers and everything else for a 47-14 triumph. The Sooners wrapped a new multiple offense that left West Virginia spinning.

In other Big Eight games last Saturday, Oregon State whipped a stubborn Kansas 12-0, Missouri climaxed a fourth-quarter rally with a touchdown in the last 36 seconds for a 14-10 victory over Idaho, and Purdue beat Nebraska 28-0.

Colorado this Saturday takes on Kansas, which has yet to score a touchdown this year. But Kansas Coach Jack Mitchell is still optimistic that his Jayhawkers will give Colorado plenty of trouble.

Male Superiority Is Ended In Collegian's Grid Contest

Sue Hostetler, He Fr, ended a three-year domination of Pigskin Prognostications by males, as she won this week's contest by guessing a 15-7 Colorado victory. The prediction tied with that of James Pryor, Hum Soph, who also foresaw that score, but Miss Hostetler was closer in all other statistics.

Miss Hostetler predicted K-State passing yardage of 67 yards, rushing yardage of 159, and 11 first downs. Pryor guessed 64 yards in the air, 131 yards on the ground, and nine first downs. The actual figures were 84, 242, and 15.

"I've never entered the contest before," said Miss Hostetler, "but I just thought I would this time. My brother (Charles, PrL Jr) enters fairly often." Hostetler, incidentally, predicted a 37-6 Colorado win.

Eighty-six persons entered this week's Pigskin Prognostications contest, establishing a new record for number of entries. Sixty-four forecast a Colorado victory, 21 voted for K-State, and 1 forecast a tie. The old record was 65 entries, set in the K-State-Oklahoma battle of 1956.

HOW GREEN WAS MY CAMPUS

Don't tell me: I know how busy you've been! I know all the things you've had to do in the opening days of the school year—registering, paying fees, finding lodgings, entering a drag race, getting married, building a cage for your raccoon. But now, with all these essentials out of the way, let us pause and join hands and take, for the first time, a long, leisurely look at our campus.

Ready? Let's go!

We begin our tour over here on this lovely stretch of green-sward called The Mall. The Mall, as we all know, was named in honor of our distinguished alumnus Fred Mall, inventor of the opposing thumb. Before Mr. Mall's invention, the thumb could not be pressed or clicked against the other fingers. As a result, millions of castanet makers were out of work. Today however, thanks to Mr. Mall, one out of every three Americans is gainfully employed making castanets. (The other two make croquet wickets.) Mr. Mall is now 106 years old and living in seclusion on a sea cliff in Wellington, Kansas, but the old gentleman is far from idle. He still works twelve hours a day in his laboratory, and in the last year has invented the tuna, the cuticle, and lint.

...the old gentleman is far from idle...

But I digress. Let us resume our tour. At the end of The Mall we see a handsome edifice called The Library. Here books are kept. By "kept" I mean "kept." There is no way in the world for you to get a book out of the library... No, I'm wrong. If you have a stack permit you can take out a book, but stack permits are issued only to widows of Presidents of the United States. (That lady you see coming out of the library with a copy of Girl of the Limberlost is Mrs. Millard Fillmore.)

Next to The Library we see the Administration Building. Here one finds the president of the university, the deans, and the registrar. According to ancient academic usage, the president is always called "Prexy." Similarly, the deans are called "Dixie" and the registrar is called "Roxy." Professors are called "Proxy" and housemothers are called "Hoxy-Moxy." Students are called "Algae."

Diagonally across The Mall we see the Students Union. It is a gay, mad place, frankly dedicated to the fun and relaxation of we undergraduates. Here we undergraduates may enjoy ourselves in one of two ways—with filter or without. We undergraduates who prefer filters, prefer Marlboro, of course. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! The filter filters, the taste is smooth but not skimpy, mild but not meagre.

We undergraduates who prefer non-filters, prefer Philip Morris, of course. It is a natural smoke, a clean smoke, a flavorful, zestful, pure and peaceful smoke... Now hear this: Philip Morris and Marlboro each come in a choice of two packs—crushproof Flip-Top Box or the familiar Soft Pack.

So now, as the setting sun casts a fiery aura over the spires and battlements of our beloved campus, let us hie ourselves to our tobacconist's and lay in a night's supply of Marlboro or Philip Morris, and then let us, lowing, wind slowly o'er the lea to our dormitories and sit upon our army surplus cots, spent but content, and smoke and dream and hark the curfew toll the knell of parting day. Aloha, fair campus, aloha!

K-State Dairy Judgers Compete in Iowa Today

K-State's senior dairy judging team defends its title today at Waterloo, Ia., in the collegiate dairy cattle judging contest being conducted in connection with the National Dairy Cattle congress.

Coach G. B. Marion named Chester Peterson, DH Sr, Stan Smith, HD Jr, Dick Dunham, DH

Speakers Added To TV Seminar

Two more speakers have been named to speak at K-State's educational television seminar October 3 and 4. They are Richard B. Hull, who supervises radio and television at Ohio State university, and Charles Hettinger, supervisor of education television for the Pittsburgh, Pa., public schools.

Hull will discuss what educational television offers Kansas, and Hettinger is to talk on "Educational Television and the Public School System."

Also planned is a talk by Dr. H. K. Newburn, president of the Education Radio and Television center at Ann Arbor, Mich., and one by Oliver E. Ebel, Topeka, chairman of the Kansas Citizens' Committee on Educational Television. Ebel will speak on "Your Role in Promoting Educational Television in Kansas."

The College and the Citizens' committee are sponsoring the two-day program.

Anyone interested in singing in the Collegiate 4-H ensemble is urged to contact Miss Grossman in Nichols 301d or Arnita Otte, HDA Jr, within the next few days. One hour of credit will be earned by those participating.

Scholarship House

The Scholarship House committee, composed of students interested in furthering the program of scholarship houses at K-State, held its first meeting last Thursday, according to Carol Korinek, MGS Jr, chairman.

Two panel groups were set up by the committee. The first panel, with Kay Eplee, BA Sr, as chairman, will visit the organized houses on campus and inform them about the scholarship housing program. Jane Garrison, Eng Soph, is chairman of the second panel, which will explain the program to campus organizations.

The committee will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in room 206 of the Student Union. All interested organizations are urged to send representatives.

"Flapper Hop"

The "Flapper Hop," scheduled for Parents' day Saturday, will be in the main ballroom of the Student Union at 9 p.m. Students and their parents are invited. Matt Betton's orchestra will play. Admission is $1.50 a couple and tickets will go on sale tomorrow at the Union information desk.

New Electronic Wizard Installed in Seaton Hall

A new IBM 650 computer, capable of solving in a few minutes mathematical problems which would take an operator of a desk calculator a week to solve, has been installed in the basement of the new Seaton hall wing.

K-State is renting this medium-sized electronic brain from International Business Machines on its special educational discount plan with the understanding that the College will use the equipment at least half time for education and research. K-State is one of approximately 35 schools in the United States to obtain such an installation on campus.

The computer will handle 78,000 additions or subtractions a minute, 5,000 multiplications a minute, 3,700 divisions a minute, and can reach 138,000 logical decisions a minute.

A better grasp of what the digital computer can do may be illustrated by a problem which took a K-State agricultural economist five days to solve on a desk calculator. The same problem, when coded, took only two minutes on the computer.

The 650 unit includes such varied equipment as a console, input-output power unit, indexing registers, and floating decimal unit. Related equipment supplied includes an accounting machine, reproducing punch, interpreter, sorter, key punch, and verifier.

K-State is fortunate in having many teachers and scientists who are familiar with operation of high speed digital computers. Dr. Thomas Parker, director of the 650 center, worked on ORDVAC, one of the world's largest computers at the Aberdeen proving ground, and last summer had experience on both the 650 and 704 computers when he worked for IBM at Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The new computer makes it possible to describe Kansas climate more accurately than ever before. By using the computer for the weather data cards, research workers hope to establish important agricultural-weather-relationships which should help the farmer in evaluating his chances for success.

Problems for the electronic brain to solve are piling up already. Parker points out that emphasis of the 650 installation will be on research which has a bearing on improvement of the state of Kansas.

Everyone with a computing problem will be able to use the machine. Students may use the computer for research projects. "Any person interested in seeing the new computer may do so if he calls ahead of time," said Dr. Parker.

KS Smooch Lines Still Taboo—Lafene

Smooch lines will be absent from the social scene again this year, according to Dr. B. W. Lafene, Student Health director. This social practice was abolished as a safety precaution during the severe flu epidemic which hit the campus last fall.

Several other restrictions went into effect at the same time. Dr. Lafene suggested that students stop dating until the worst of the epidemic had passed. Many group activities were cancelled and all senior women's specials were postponed. These restrictions were later removed when the epidemic passed. However, the ban on smooch lines remained.

Associate Dean of Students Margaret Lahey emphasized that the ruling was based on health reasons alone and was not part of a morals campaign. "Trench mouth and respiratory diseases can be spread to a great many people during one smooch line," she said. "We're not looking for another flu epidemic, but during the winter, colds are always with us."

"Certainly, we're not trying to cut out engagements or pinnings. After we made the ruling last year, the number of announcements did not drop even 1 per cent," she added.

KU Young Republicans Show Up at Demo Fete

Twenty-four Young Republicans from KU showed up at a Democratic fund-raising dinner at Leavenworth last night and drew Gov. George Docking into a heated discussion, according to a report in the Kansas City Times today.

The youths carried banners urging votes for Clyde Reed, Republican candidate for governor. Joe Reed of Topeka, one of the demonstrators, said the governor asked him if he could be the illegitimate son of the Republican candidate, the report said. The governor later denied that he said this.

The governor was on campus today to speak at the Industrial Safety conference.

SGA Committee Members Picked by Student Council

Twenty-three K-State students were appointed to six Student Governing association committees at Student Council's regular meeting in the Union last night.

The Council also voted to give two homecoming trophies to independent organizations this year. In the past, there have not been separate trophies for independent and Greek organizations. Independent houses and organizations will compete for a first place trophy in both the float and the house decorations divisions.

Members of the Council will be on duty in the lobby of the Union Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week to take dimes and collect signatures for the Eisenhower library in Abilene. The "dime-a-signature" campaign will be part of a movement to publicize the library, which has not yet been built.

Student Council members will take part in a picnic a week from Friday on the Tuttle Creek land upon which the Endowment association has taken an option. The picnic will give SC members a chance to look over the site of the proposed K-State recreation area.

New committee members appointed:

Student Activities board—Kay Nordstrom, HT Jr, secretary; Charles Moggie, BAA Sr; Fran Schwartz, BMT Jr; Charlotte Riley, Psy Sr; Larry Bingham, BA Fr; Mary Jo Cochran, SED Soph;

International Relations—Virginia Baxter, Gvt Soph; Judy Young, TC Soph; Leslie Dole, MGS Soph; Sarah Heitman, Sp Soph;

Athletic Council—Bill Guthridge, PEM Sr; Dick Corbin, ChE Sr;

Campus Relations sub-committee—Bob Bestgen, ME Soph; Dave Choplin, EE Fr; Ellen McLaughlin, TJ Jr; Marilyn Miller, Chm Sr;

Off-Campus sub-committee—Larry Detrich, BPM Fr; Joyce Rogers, Mth Soph; Mary Sue Schroeder, Gvt Soph; Fred Stefens, TJ Fr;

Publicity sub-committee—Monte Miller, BA Fr; Carolyn Moriconi, Eng Soph; and Jan Stewart, Psy Soph.

'U' Title Almost Certain, But Docking Has Qualms

The K-State name change proposal, which should come before the January session of the Legislature, will probably "breeze through," but it could increase competition between this institution and the University of Kansas, according to Governor Docking.

After giving the keynote address at the Ninth Annual Governor's Industrial Safety conference in Umberger hall this morning, Governor Docking said an "invasion of fields" could arise out of the name change.

"By changing the name the Legislature will simply be recognizing the fact that this school is a university. But I would not like to see an increase in competition between K-State and Kansas university because of it."

The Governor said he felt that competition between certain departments of the two schools could arise because of the name change.

"Also when you have a department at each institution, there is a possibility that not quite enough is offered in either department."

Governor Docking also said that this school should have nothing to worry about as far as future housing problem are concerned.

"The building program here is pretty good," he said. "With judicious use of our present tax levy we should be able to meet the problem of housing. We should not have to raise taxes to handle the problem, either."

The Governor said it was useless to look 10 or 15 years into the future and try to solve problems which may arise that far ahead. "You won't solve any problems, but you may give yourself ulcers," he added.

Monroe, Wis.—Monroe residents were awakened far ahead of schedule yesterday by the strains of "rock of ages."

Officials at Grace Lutheran church explained that a timing device on the church chimes which should have rung the hymn at noon set it off in the early morning darkness.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Georgia Republican party, which has a hard enough time in the Democratic south, will have an even tougher time in the congressional race from the fifth district this fall.

Party officials forgot to qualify their candidate for congress before the deadline last Saturday.

New York—Joseph Harris, who turned a sprightly 100 years of age yesterday, said his longevity was certainly not due to clean living.

Harris said he spent his youth as a table man in gambling houses and his middle age working at race tracks.

London—Publicity men for the Rover Car company scrambled today to issue corrections to one of their press releases which said the Rover "has earned itself a reputation during the past two years for high-speed travel in the minimum of comfort."

Memphis—Bob Matthews and Otis Caldwell have formed an ideal working arrangement.

Matthews operates a flea circus and Caldwell is an official at the City Humane society shelter whose dogs provide Matthews with all the fleas he can use.

Bari, Italy—A motor scooter manufacturer had 26 young Spanish acrobats ride one of his machines through the streets of Bari yesterday, just to show how strong it is.

New York—A. P. Herbert of London arrived in New York by ocean liner yesterday with the avowed purpose of introducing "cheese and skittles" to Americans. But he warned not to expect something to eat.

The "cheese" is a wooden bowling ball and the skittles are nine wooden pins the player tries to knock down with the ball.

Wichita—A laundry operator ran the following open letter in the Wichita Eagle:

"Notice, to the person who used the gas clothes drier in Jay's Dime-O-Matic laundry over the weekend—your dried watermelon is ready."

Nashville, Tenn.—June has lost the traditional title of marriage month in the Nashville area.

The county clerk's office reported yesterday that only 289 weddings took place during June of this year, compared with 319 in August.

Newport, R.I.—President Eisenhower called it quits after watching the America's Cup sailing race for about half an hour Saturday and headed back to shore to play at the sport he loves best—golf.

As the destroyer leader Mitscher, aboard which he and Mrs. Eisenhower viewed the opening of the battle between America's Columbia and Britain's Sceptre, turned back to port, the President indicated in an exchange with a newsman that he was a landlubber at heart.

Wanted: Students to measure viscosity. Hours: any time, day or night.

This notice was posted on the Placement center bulletin board by Prof. Carrell H. Whitnah of the Dairy Chemistry department, who is conducting an experiment on opposing forces in a flowing body in samples of skim milk. Professor Whitnah expects the experiment, which started yesterday morning, to last a week on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Students answering the call for this part-time work were Tom Coffelt, Agr Jr; John Hassler, Chem Sr; Janice Hudson, Chem Soph; John Jones, VM Jr; Bill Laubengaka, Eng Jr; Harkirat Randhawa, Eng Gr; R. D. Shura, Eng Gr; Margaret Strobel, Pth Jr; Jack Van Horn, DH Gr; Otto Wu, Eng Gr; Jim Bumgarner, Ar 03.

They will make 20 measurements at 15 different temperatures on each of six samples of the skim milk. Data garnered from the experiment will aid in understanding the stability of evaporated milk and the resistance of certain paints and glues to water.

ANOTHER PART-TIME POSITION on campus requiring nearly the same working hours is that of weatherman. John Kitterman, Phy Sr, is the official weather reporter for the Manhattan area. The rain gauge he reads is in front of the women's dorms. It will measure two inches of rain at one time. If Kitterman thinks it will rain more than two inches during a storm, he must be on the alert to measure the full amount that falls.

Kitterman's main daily duties are to check the amount of precipitation, high and low temperatures, and relative humidity at 7 a.m., noon, and 7 p.m. He phones his observations to a radio station in Topeka every evening.

INSTEAD OF WORKING on the eight to five shift, four students at the Animal Husbandry barn work from five to eight.

They are up at 5 a.m. to do chores, then attend classes and start chores again at 5 p.m. and finish around 8 p.m. And on Saturday, the four, Gary Cummings, AH Jr; Del Allen, AH Fr; Dick George, AH Fr; Walt Ringle, AH Fr, wash 16 or 17 head of cattle.

FBI Men, Coast Guard Join Guards in Alcatraz Search For Convict Who Attempted to 'Beat the Rock' Yesterday

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

San Francisco—Sixty guards, armed with carbines and revolvers, prowled fog-swept Alcatraz island today in search of a convict who with a companion tried to "beat the rock."

The missing man was Aaron Walter Burgett, 28, a rangy gunman from St. Louis. His companion, Clyde Johnson, 40, a Memphis bank robber, was caught several hours after they overpowered a guard and disappeared.

Aiding in the all-out search were squads of FBI men rushed to the island prison from San Francisco. A Coast Guard helicopter and four Coast Guard cutters circled the island to prevent a getaway by boat.

Burgett and Johnson flashed a knife in the face of guard Harold Miller shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday.

"They jumped me with a knife and told me I'd be all right if I was good," Miller said. "Then they slipped away in the fog."

Both men were outside the prison walls working on a garbage detail at the time. They told Miller a getaway launch was waiting for them.

A search had been going on for about an hour when a sharp-eyed crewman on a Coast Guard patrol boat spotted Johnson standing just offshore, up to his waist in the chill waters on the west side of the island. Through chattering teeth, he said: "We made a good try and it just didn't work."

Associate Warden Joseph B. Latimer said he doubted Burgett could have swum from the island through the man-killing tides of San Francisco bay to the mainland a mile and a half away.

Six times before desperate convicts have tried to escape from Alcatraz and each attempt has failed. In one of the most sensational escapes, Theodore Cole and Ralph Roe disappeared from the prison on December 16, 1937. They were never seen again. Authorities believe both were drowned.

Inventor Disappears

Los Angeles—Two multi-million dollar engineering companies today were involved in a tug-of-war over a device invented by Elmer C. Meukel, 41-year-old penniless inventor who was forced to leave his family more than three months ago to seek work and hasn't been seen since.

Both Polaris and Regulus engineering companies want the device—and Meukel. They said if he can perfect his invention it would protect airplanes from in-flight collisions.

Mrs. Jean Meukel said her husband left her and their three children June 22 to seek work in northern California. She said her self-educated husband had spent months working on the device and has used all of the family funds.

He probably has no idea the companies are interested in his invention, Mrs. Meukel said.

Tass Warns Chiang

Moscow—The Soviet press said today that Nationalist Chinese use of American "sidewinder" air-to-air missiles was an "exceptionally grave" matter that would bring "counter-blows."

A Tass news agency report from Peiping distributed today reported the Nationalists had made 142 sorties in American-supplied planes using the deadly missiles for the first time in action.

"The Chinese People's Liberation army will deliver a counter-blow against Chiang ai-Shek's air force in connection with this criminal action," the Tass dispatch said, quoting the Chinese Communist Defense Ministry.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has warned that an attack on Communist China would be considered an attack on the Soviet Union and that aid "with all means at our disposal" would go to the Peiping regime.

Court Stymies Plan

Little Rock—Gov. Orval E. Faubus' plan to reopen Little Rock's four public high schools as private, segregated institutions floundered today on a U.S. Appeals Court restraining order.

The order forbade the Little Rock School board to transfer the schools to the Little Rock Private School corporation, which leased them and planned to reopen them today.

"We are now restrained from permitting the private school corporation to operate the schools," School Board President Wayne Upton announced late last night.

Fall IM Play Opens With Swimming, Golf

West Stadium and Pi Kappa Alpha led all independent houses and fraternities respectively in last night's qualification trials for intramural swimming.

Those who qualified will swim in the finals Thursday night. The relay trials will be tonight.

In the independent division, qualifiers in the 40-yard freestyle were Merle Bishop, Scholarship house; Wayne Hagemaser, West Stadium; Don Paddleford, YMCA; Ken Heatherman, Scholarship house; and Augusto Fuzakawa, West Stadium.

In the 80-yard breaststroke, qualifiers were Larry Alvin, OK House; Bert English, West Stadium; Ron Gustafson, West Stadium; and Harry Wolverton, OK House.

Qualifying in the 80-yard backstroke were Bob Groszek, West Stadium; Gustafson, West Stadium; Wolverton, OK House; and Jerry Kolman, West Stadium.

Qualifiers in the 100-yard freestyle were English, Groszak, and Duane Holman, all of West Stadium.

In the fraternity division, qualifiers in the 40 yard freestyle were Dirk Ellis, Pi Kappa Alpha; Harry Knostman, Beta Theta Pi; Chuck Englund, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Chuck Shepherd, Beta Theta Pi; and Hank Pierce, Beta Theta Pi.

Those qualifying in the 80-yard breaststroke were Mike Pritchard, Alpha Kappa Lambda; Jim Callen, Delta Upsilon; Dick Hoyt, Phi Delta Theta; Bud Annan, Phi Delta Theta; and Sid Jones, Sigma Chi.

Qualifying in the 80-yard backstroke were Mike Caldwell, Beta Sigma Psi; Glen Long, Pi Kappa Alpha; Ray Bentz, Kappa Sigma; Jay McDonald, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Roger Coulter, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; and Bud Annan, Phi Delta Theta.

In the 100-yard freestyle, qualifiers were Dave Hinderliter, Pi Kappa Alpha; Mike Caldwell, Beta Sigma Psi; Craig McNeal, Pi Kappa Alpha; David Leavengood, Beta Theta Pi; and Larry Rader, Tau Kappa Epsilon.

For the second straight year, Phi Delta Theta captured the team championship in the intramural golf tournament last Saturday at Manhattan Country club, with a low four-man score of 304.

Second was Beta Theta Pi with a 307, and a close third was Sigma Alpha Epsilon with a 309.

Fraternity medalist for the intramurals was Sonny Ballard of Beta Theta Pi, who shot a 34-34-68—four under par.

The team champion in the independent division is American Institute of Architects, who had a low team score of 323. Jr. AVMA was just one stroke behind with a 324.

Co-medalists for the independents were the AIA's Dick Martin with a 37-35-72, and William Curtis of West Stadium with a 36-36-72.

Director of Intramurals Frank Myers announced that there will be no touch football games played Wednesday, due to bad fields. They will be played Thursday, he said.

Myers added that any intramural touch football teams that were assigned to play on the Campus east field will play their games on the middle Military drill field.

Bus Mertes Sees Rugged Cat Test In Coming Utah State Gridiron Battle

"When K-State meets Utah State Saturday, they will be tackling one of the toughest teams in the Skyline conference." This is the opinion of Coach Bus Mertes, whose job it is to prepare the Wildcats for this clash.

Utah State will carry an 0-2 record into the contest. Arizona slipped by the Aggies 7-6 in the opener, and Denver took a 20-8 victory last Saturday, although Utah State led in rushing yardage and first downs.

Mertes, however, is expecting a tough game Saturday. "We look for Utah State to be a tougher opponent than Wyoming was," he said.

The Aggies' main offense is the split-T with the power series and features a lot of passing to the flanking halfbacks.

"Utah State has two of the fastest backs we will face all season," added Mertes. These speedsters are Buddy Allen and Overton Curtis.

Bill Meglen, 6-2, 229-pound tackle and Mike Connelly, 6-3, 245-pound center are the mainstays of the Aggie line, which averages 211 pounds.

"Our boys will have to work awfully hard all week to be ready for this one," said Mertes. "We expect to work exceptionally hard on defense against outside running plays and passing."

Mertes was pleased with the Wildcats' showing in last Saturday's 13-3 loss to Colorado. "We were able to move the ball on them and I was very pleased with the way our defense held up," he added.

The Wildcat mentor, however, was disappointed in his team's failure to hold on to the ball deep in enemy territory.

Team Drills On Offense For Aggies

In its first day of drills since losing to Colorado university Saturday, K-State started to work anew on offense. The Cats went through offensive dummy drills from the winged-T formation.

The team also worked briefly on pass defense in yesterday's drill, expecting a Utah State university passing attack in next Saturday's game. There will doubtless be a throwing replacement for graduated quarterback Bob Winter, who had hit 157 of 309 passes in his three years at Utah State, for 2,082 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Mertes then ran the team through a conditioning sprint drill for more than a half hour.

The Wildcat coach commented that the Cats would have to work hard this week on pass defense and defense against wide end sweeps, such as those employed by Colorado. The Cats had trouble against the Buffalo passing attack Saturday, although they hit only seven of 17 passes for 68 yards.

Mertes hinted that there might be some lineup changes in a couple of days, but would not be pinned down as to who would move up to the first string for the Wildcats.

Vet Medicine Seniors Awarded Scholarships

Alvin Lidolph, VM Sr, has received the Borden Foundation Scholarship award for $300. This scholarship is awarded each fall to a veterinary medicine senior who has attained the highest academic record in the first six semesters of the curriculum. Lidolph has a 3.829 grade average. Recognition was also given to William Kelsey, VM Sr, for a 3.797 average and John Gibson, VM Sr, for a 3.606 average.

Andrew J. Stewart, VM Sr, has been awarded the O. M. Franklin scholarship for $100. This award is given annually to a senior in veterinary medicine on the basis of scholarship and need.

Korean Veterans

Korean veterans may start signing for their monthly allotment checks in the Veterans office today. Veterans must sign for checks before Friday so the school list will be at the Veterans office headquarters in Wichita by October 10.

FTA

The K-State Future Teachers of America club meets tonight for the first time this year in the Union little theater at 7:30.

Club officers will give reports and there will be a short discussion on what FTA can mean to K-State students. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Graduate Students Meeting

Graduate students who plan to receive advanced degrees by next August will meet Wednesday at 4 p.m. in J 15.

Dr. Chester Peters, director of the placement center, will discuss job opportunities for graduate students, future employment outlook, the development of a job-getting campaign and interviewing techniques.

Musical Review

Bob Snyder, speech instructor, will present a review of the Broadway musical "The Music Man" Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Union browsing library. He will use an LP record of the show. Refreshment will be served.

Elliot Court Meeting

Residents of Elliot Court will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in Engineering Lecture hall for the purpose of electing a mayor.

Foreign Students Schedule Speaker

By DARRYL HEIKES

Members of the K-State Arab-American club scheduled Dr. Fayeze Sayegh as the guest speaker at the all-College assembly today.

Last spring the club members filed an application with Dean Pugsley asking that Dr. Sayegh be brought to the College to address an assembly.

"We applied for Dr. Sayegh because the events in the Middle East have become a major crisis in world affairs and unfortunately the news that reached here did not represent all of the facts. So we thought that such an authority might be in a position to clarify the situation and be able to answer any questions that the students have about the Middle East," said Mahmoud Hamad, Hrt Gr, president of the club.

The 21 Arabic members of the club represent nine Middle East countries.

They are Mahmoud Hamad and Ziad Khatib, ME Soph, from Syria; Atimad Hamad, Hrt Gr, Abdul El Rifai, Ent Fr, and Kegham Shiranian, CE Soph, from the United Arab Republic; Jamil Qasim, Geo Jr, Mutazz Bilbisi, CE Sr, George Khoury, Ch Gr, Shawkat Mashal, CE Jr, and Badi Neddah, from Jordan.

Mohier Sidhum, ME Gr, from Egypt; Abdulla Sharhan, ME Soph, from Kuwait; Nazeem Abdul Hadi, from Saudia Arabia; Fouad Habib, Bac Gr, Thabet El Safar, Bawder El Rawi, Par Gr, and Daniel Siyahian, CE Soph, from Iraq; amal El Hakim, Agr Gr, and Mohammed Siddig, Agr Gr, from Sudan; Mufid Abia, ChE Fr, and Ara Yahnian, CE Gr, from Lebanon.

New club officers elected this week are Mahmoud Hamad, president; Mutazz Bilbisi, vice-president; Ziad Khatib, publicity chairman; Abdulla Sharhan, treasurer; and Daniel Siyahian, secretary.

The club was started to promote better understanding and stronger ties between Arab and American people, to encourage the ideals of Arab unity, to study the fundamental problems facing the Arab world and a means for their solution, and for the dissemination of true and adequate information about the Arab people, their history, culture, problems, and aspirations.

Club members are going to try to have the College add the teaching of Arabic to the language department. At the present time there are 33 colleges and universities in the United States that offer courses in Arabic, and less than ten offer degrees in Arabic studies.

Arab World Faces Choice Between East, West Policy

"Choice between those that worship 'the true God' and sing the true hymns but do the wrong deeds, and those that worship the false gods but deal with us in the right way," is the problem facing the Arab world today, said Dr. Fayeze Sayegh, at this morning's all-College assembly.

Dr. Sayegh said the obvious solution to the problem would be not to form any pact or alliance—in which the Arab states are the junior partners.

Dr. Sayegh said cultural and ideological barriers make the Middle East immune to Communism. In the cultural sense, he said the Arab States are integrally a part of the West, having passed on Greek and Roman culture.

Ideologically, a belief in a spiritual supreme reality and in the ultimacy of the individual protects the Arabs against Communism.

Dr. Sayegh, counselor to the Yemen UN delegation, called nationalism the "supreme element" in the actions of the Arabs today.

"We have spent the last 40 years in maintaining our sovereignty; we cannot surrender that for which we have paid so dearly."

"But if the spirit of the old West were to reassert itself today, I do not have the slightest doubt that the appeal of nationalism would be diminished and that the faith of my fathers in the United States would be re-adopted."

With what he called "candid conclusions," the UN counselor went on to say that after World War I the Arabs looked to the West for friendship and alliance. "Your teachers, preachers, doctors, and nurses were active among us."

But after World War II, the trust was shaken: "The America we know today is not the America whose educators were among us a century and a half ago. American policy-makers today have dispersed the reservoir of good will built up after World War I."

To substantiate this, Dr. Sayegh said the U.S. has supported, or at least remained indifferent to, British and French colonialism in the Middle East and that, as in Palestine, the U.S. has often tried to turn two wrongs into a right. Impatience with neutralism was another charge made against the U.S. by Dr. Sayegh.

Speaking without notes and with a sincere air of dedication, Dr. Sayegh said "It is only great expectations that greatly frustrate. 'If the Soviet Union had done this, the disappointment would have been only a fraction of what it is.'"

KS Students Represent 46 States, 35 Countries

Every county in Kansas, 46 of the 48 states (all except New Hampshire, Nevada), and 35 foreign countries are represented by the more than 6,700 students enrolled at K-State, according to Ellsworth M. Gerritz, registrar.

He reports that the heaviest enrollments outside Riley county are from Sedgwick county (Wichita) with 270, Shawnee (Topeka) with 215 and Johnson (Kansas City) with 210. Other counties with more than 100 students are Saline with 166, Wyandotte 164, Reno 141, Geary 130, Dickinson 118, Barton 118, and McPherson 113. Fifty-two of the 105 counties have 40 or more students enrolled.

Largest out of state delegation comes from Missouri with 175. Following in order are Nebraska 101, Illinois 59, and New York 38.

Foreign students attending K-State this fall come from Arabia, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Cyprus, Egypt, England, Ethiopia, Formosa, Germany, Honduras, India, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Java, Jordan, Korea, Lebanon, Mexico, Antilles, Nigeria, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, and Venezuela.

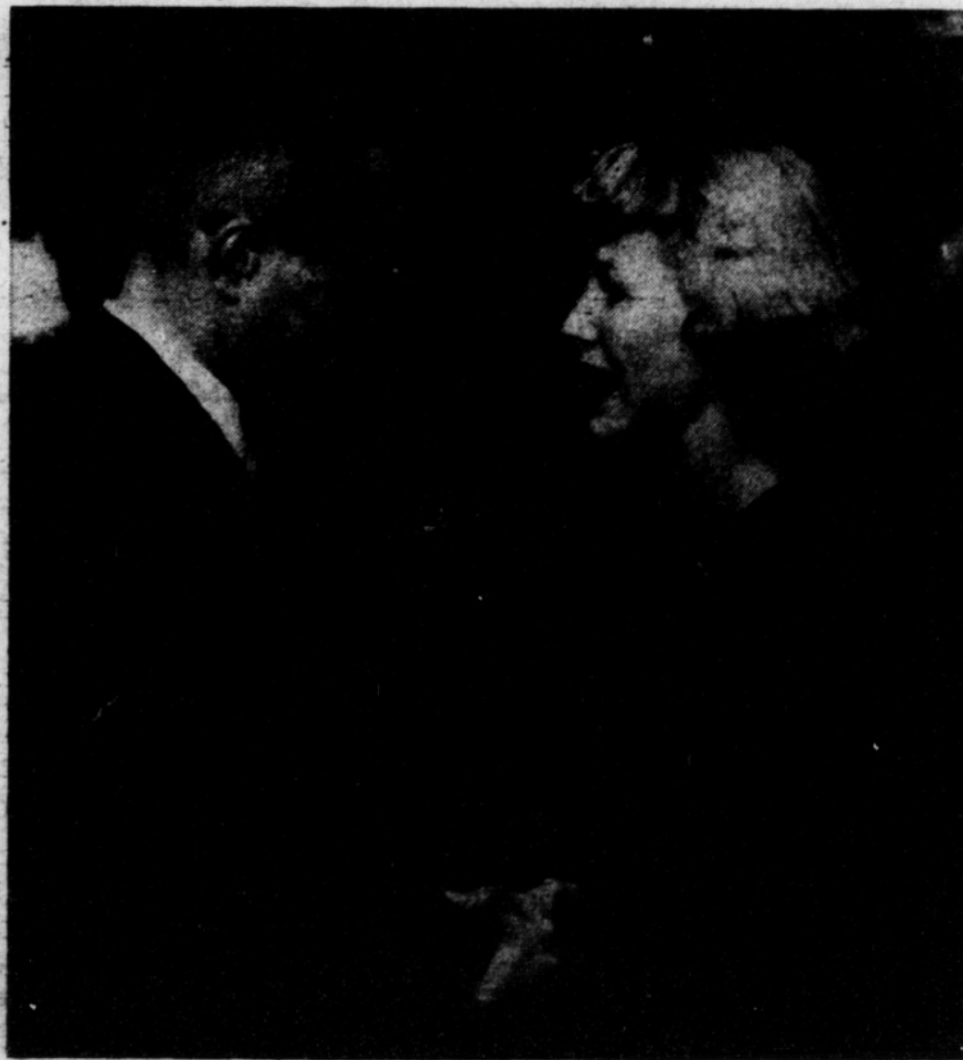

Couples May Sign For Jardine Flats

Married students may sign now for the apartments under construction in Jardine Terrace, according to Thornton Edwards, housing director.

Students can sign the list in the housing office for the apartments which will be finished by September, 1959. Any married student may sign for an apartment if he is enrolled in at least 12 credit hours.

The apartments rent for $62.50 a month with one bedroom and two bedroom apartments rent for $67.50 a month. Students who are first to sign the list will have first preference, Edwards said.

There are 264 married apartments now under construction in Jardine. When construction is completed there will be 456 apartments in 19 buildings.

TO SMOOCH OR NOT TO SMOOCH—that is the question. Can a friendly handshake convey the deep emotions present the night of a pinning? Is smooching really dangerous? These questions should be decided the AWS soon.

Marching Band To Play In Parents Day Halftime

The K-State marching band will provide a special Parents' Day show at halftime of the Utah State game Saturday, according to Jean Hedlund, band director.

The band will form at the south end of the football field and march to the middle, where it will form KSC in sequence while playing "School Days." Following a cue from the public address announcer, the C will turn into a U.

The band will then form a cent sign and plays "What's the Matter with Father" and then change to a dollar sign and play "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The formation will change to a heart as the band plays "Love and Marriage." As the heart is formed, the honorary K-State parents, along with members of the Parents' Day committee will proceed to its center. After the parents are presented, the band will play "Sweetheart Waltz."

The honorary parents will leave the field and the heart formation will break up to the tune of "I Want a Girl."

KS Singers May Tour

The K-State Singers, according to Director William Fischer, may make a tour of U.S. military bases in Europe next summer.

The group will soon apply for the tour and, according to military officials at Fort Riley, it has a good chance of making it. The group has also submitted an application for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show.

KS Men Cook, Clean, Save Money In Memorial Scholarship House

By GARY VACIN

WAT IS IT like to live in a scholarship house? How is the governing system set up? Who does the work? These are questions going through the minds of many K-State students who are not familiar with Men's Memorial Scholarship house, the first scholarship hall at K-State.

The scholarship house, 331 N. 17th street, is the home of 45 men. This group elects its own officers and has its own meetings.

A COMMITTEE HAS been set up to draft a constitution, which it hopes to have completed in time for the second semester. "This semester," explained president Bill Mahieu, ME Sr, "we are on an experimental basis as far as government is concerned, with a council to decide which measures will be brought up in house meetings."

"The opportunity to live in the scholarship house is in itself a scholarship. Each student must live the entire school year in the house, and at the year's end may apply for another year. The house bill is $245 a semester, which may be paid all at once or in three installments."

The house manager, Garfield Schmidt, Mth and Phy Sr, is in charge of cleaning duties. "The original plan was for each man to do one hour's work each day, and we are following it closely," he explained. "Work details are set up on a permanent basis, so that each man has the same job all semester."

All of the cooking is done by the men themselves. House manager Schmidt is in charge of setting up work schedules, which correspond to each man's class schedule. Four men cook for each lunch and dinner and another four wash the dishes. Different men have these jobs each day.

"I THINK IT has tremendous potential," said Mahieu. "The idea behind it is more of a co-operative than anything else. With the type of spirit the guys show, we can't go wrong."

Schmidt feels life in the scholarship house offers him many advantages over living in a private home. "Besides being a lot cheaper," he said, "it gives a fellow a chance to take part in the intramural athletic program as well as the experience of living with a swell bunch of guys."

"Living in the scholarship house," said Leroy Pickett, AD Jr, "gives you a chance to associate with men with a variety of backgrounds." He added that everything is working out well for a venture so new.

Jack Britton, Ar 01, said "life in the scholarship house is great." Living here has many advantages. We have accomplished a great deal in a short time."

Mrs. Lucille P. Little, house-mother, feels the same way. "This is my first job as house-mother, and I like it very much," she explained. "I have a wonderful group of men here. It is remarkable the way they have taken over. If they were not so cooperative, it would be impossible to do what we have done."

Other officers are Gerald Oordt, FT Sr, vice-president; Roger Riggert, EE Jr, secretary-treasurer; Jerry Windleman, CE Sr, senior representative; Maurice Schrag, NE Jr, junior representative; Frank Toman, Agr Soph, sophomore representative; Gabriel Fauman, ME Fr, freshman representative; Dennis Esslinger, EE Jr, corresponding secretary; and Kenneth Heatherman, PrL Fr, historian.

Texas University's Mascot, Bevo Received Name the Hard Way

By Jane Butel

BEVO, THE MASCOT of the University of Texas had a colorful beginning. It all started when a steer was presented to the school in 1916 for defeating the Texas Aggies. The Aggies, however had won the previous year and were of course still gloating.

For spite, a group of Aggies crept into the steer's corral at night, and branded the previous year's score on his hide, 13-0. The next day, when Texas university students discovered what had happened to the steer, they cleverly changed the "13" into a "B" and changed the "-" into an "E".

They also managed to brand a "V" between the "E" and the "O", and called the steer Bevo, a name which stuck. And that's no bull.

A FENCING PRESBYTERIAN minister is instructing classes in that sport at Iowa State. It seems that no one on the athletic faculty could teach fencing, which greatly alarmed the minister, who is quite proficient at the sport. After discovering the limitations of the faculty, he rapidly offered to teach it. The result—25 students are taking fencing for credit in the evening—so as to interfere with the busy minister's schedule.

A GROUP OF Homecoming queen candidates at Iowa State are quite dismayed about the whole setup. Someone on the Homecoming committee had a brainstorm to the effect that all Homecoming queen finalists must do all their own campaigning, with no more than 8 persons allowed to help. After several effects to get out of it, the girls will be stuck with visiting all 31 fraternities, 36 Friley-Helser houses, 10 girls' dorms, 11 sororities, 5 men's dorms, and 6 home management houses. Looks like a pretty hard assignment—to hit all of them and keep up with the studies.

Student Money Wanted For Eisenhower Library

By LINDA FITCH

"THE EISENHOWER PRESIDENTIAL Library will undoubtedly prove a great asset to K-State as it is nearer the site than any other major institution," says President McCain, who is backing a "drive" for a dime or more contribution towards the library.

"It will attract scholars from all over the world," he continued.

Only 40 students have signed the parchment which will be hung on campus with another copy to be in the memorial library.

Student Council is backing the drive. Lynn Martin, EEd Jr, and Anne Pederson, BPM Sr, are co-chairmen.

Students may participate today and tomorrow. This campaign is being conducted all over the United States by the National Committee of Fund Raising.

The memorial will contain all of President Eisenhower's documents for the last 16 years. This will be the first time, and perhaps the last, that Kansas will have a chance for such a library. These documents should prove invaluable for history students and historians in the future.

Administration Attempts To Rally World Support Behind Truce Plan For Formosa Straits Crisis

Compiled from UPI
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Washington — The administration today hoped to rally new world support behind its Formosa policy following disclosure it is willing to make some concession of the Chinese Communists in exchange for a firm truce in the Formosa straits.

Officials expect more backing from other nations now that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have made it clear they are not committed to support Chiang Kai-Shek's aspirations to return to the mainland, and will urge him to make heavy cuts in his offshore island garrisons if the Reds stop shooting.

They acknowledged the United States now faces two new tactical problems as a result of developments of the past two days:

—To make it abundantly clear to the Communists that American "flexibility" and reasonableness do not mean "appeasement" and there will be absolutely no retreat in the face of force or threat of force.

—To convince Chiang, head of the Chinese Nationalist regime on Formosa, that the peace of the world cannot be indefinitely imperiled by keeping large Nationalist forces on the Quemoy and Matsu islands within sight of the Red mainland if Peiping is willing to accept an enforceable ceasefire and take its complaints to the conference table.

Miners Killed, Trapped

Belgrade—An explosion in a Serbian coal mine killed ten miners and trapped 100 of their fellow workers below ground, it was announced here today.

Officials said rescue parties from all parties of Serbia have been rushed to the site of the explosion.

There was no immediate indication of the condition of the trapped men nor their position within the mine. The announcement said the explosion occurred just as shifts at the mine were changing.

The official announcement said a boiler exploded but gave no further details.

History Professor Writing Material for Encyclopedia

By LARRY MEREDITH:
"Oh, a lot of people do much more writing than I do," said Prof. A. B. Sageser, as he leaned back in his chair. "I really haven't done too much."

This is hard to understand after one reviews the impressive list of articles, books, and reviews that the professor of history, government and philosophy has written.

The good natured Nebraskan has had more than 50 professional book reviews published in various magazines throughout the country.

He has written articles on the contemporary United States and has contributed to several cooperative writing efforts, the main one being a large history of Kansas two years ago.

He has also written a book called, "The First Two Decades of the Pendleton Act."

"I'm now writing a series of articles for the Encyclopedia Britannica on various Kansas subjects," Professor Sageser said. One of them will be approximately 5,000 words long. These articles will be released sometime in November.

Several years ago Professor Sageser worked in the Library of Congress in Washington. While there he worked with much of the personal correspondence of some of our past Presidents.

Professor Sageser said that he needed this information as source material for research he was doing at George Washington university at the time.

"This year will mark my 21st year here at K-State," he said. "I started in the fall of 1938."

"I've taught a lot of people in that time," he went on, "I've found that I like to teach beginners as well as history majors because it seems to give me a better scope of history."

Professor Sageser has just returned from a meeting of the Nebraska State Historical society, where he presented a paper on "Recent Trends in Writing Western History."

Before coming to K-State Professor Sageser taught at the University of Missouri, Oregon State Training Teacher college and the College of Emporia.

He has taught at the University of Nebraska for seven summers and has also taught at North Dakota university and Missouri university in summer months.

Curley-Cue a Corker, Say Puzzled Students

By MARTHA STEPS

"It's all right, but I don't understand it at all," was a typical answer given when students were questioned yesterday about the cornerstone in Seaton hall. For those who are not familiar with the stone, it is a very abstract line drawing set in the new addition to the engineering building. The question put to the students was "What is your opinion of the cornerstone?"

E. C. Fischer, head of the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts said, "I do not know much about it, but I do know that it has caused a lot of comment."

A former architecture student who wished to remain unidentified said, "There's nothing more pleasing than a good abstract line, but that one is awfully weak. If someone could locate the architect who drew it, I wouldn't be surprised if he would indignantly explain something like: 'That was just a scribble on the unfinished plans to indicate where the design, after I drew it, was to go. But somebody made off with the plans before I had a chance to make the final design and it was set up with my original scribble.'"

Other students' opinions:

Ron Leslie, Ec Sr—"I think it is very appropriate for an engineering building. It really makes Seaton hall stand out."

John Petterson, TJ Soph—"Personally, I think it looks like it's unfinished."

Sally Ingle, SED Sr—"It's just an abstract design. I like it."

Craig Chappell, TJ Soph—"It doesn't look like anything. It's a waste of the taxpayers' money."

Bev Reinhardt, HEA Jr—"I think it looks like it was made just for a corner."

Sherri Smith, HE Soph—"It looks like it should be hanging in the Union somewhere instead of on the corner of a building."

Ann Chapman, EED Jr—"It's nice, but I don't understand why it was put in."

Bart Everett, NE Soph—"I kind of like it, but it looks like

Many Staters Get Degrees— And Marriage

Time was when a college student earned his degree and got a job, then started saving his money to get married.

But no more. Of 966 degrees conferred to K-State's June graduates, 417 or 43 per cent, went to married persons. Many more students were headed for the altar following graduation.

Of the total students attending Kansas State this past year, around three of every ten were married—and the figure was nearer one in three for men alone.

Arts, Sciences Honors Boasts 120 Participants

By GARY SETTLE

As K-State's honors program in arts and sciences goes into its third year this fall, approximately 120 students are participating in it, according to Brewster Rogerson, director of the honors program.

Rogerson began active direction of the program this fall. An authority on 18th century English literature, he spent the summer co-authoring a book in England.

Each fall since 1956, K-State beginning freshmen in arts and sciences, whose scores on entrance tests and whose high school records indicate they rank in the upper 5 per cent of their classes, have been given an opportunity to participate in the honors program. A few others have been recommended by faculty because of special aptitudes or outstanding academic achievement.

There are now 34 freshmen participating in the honors program.

Upon admittance to the program, a student is assigned to an adviser in his chosen field, and his college course of study is carefully outlined for him. He is permitted to skip courses to take work at more advanced levels and has the opportunity to broaden his field of interest by substituting courses in related fields.

These gifted students do special reading and meet with some of the faculty for special seminars. Last semester K-State offered five honors seminars, in English satire, modern poetry, anthropology, animal behavior, and evolution.

Students are encouraged to take these bi-weekly seminars in areas other than those in which they are enrolled to broaden their fields of knowledge.

Part of Rogerson's work is to develop new seminars. He urges honors students to sign up for them now in the English office in Eisenhower hall. Seminars being conducted this fall:

"Nationalism in the World Today," by Professors James C. Carey and Werner H. Barth; "Some Key Figures in Economic Philosophy," by Professor Leo Cohen; "The Russian Novel," by Professor Alwyn Berland; "Light Waves and Particles," by Professor Basil Curnutte; and "A Study of Psychoanalysis," by Dr. E. Jerry Phares.

During the junior and senior years, honors students may take courses in such broad areas as the humanities, social sciences, and physical sciences. During the senior year honors students have the opportunity to write theses.

Since the program originated at K-State, honors students have maintained a 2.5 grade point average (A=3.0; B=2.0) although taking more difficult courses than their classmates.

President McCain commented, "We at Kansas State recognize, in consideration of the great crisis in American education, that giving special attention to the superior student is a part of our responsibility in higher education."

Cats' Athletic Scholarships Have Undergone Changes

Although most Kansas State students do not think of football players without thinking of men who go to school with direct assistance from the College, athletic scholarships, as such, have been available at K-State only since 1948.

In that year the Alumni association set up an endowment fund for athletes which totaled $2,150. The Blue Key, senior men's honorary, offered in the same year two $300 scholarships for top Negro athletes of Kansas, but these were never used, because of a lack of applicants.

The Alumni association hoped to build this fund to $6,500 but interest and contributions lagged, until in 1952 the fund was taken over by the General Scholarship committee.

Today's K-State football players find the scholarship situation somewhat improved. The Athletic department follows the maximum program allowed under rules set up by the Big Eight and the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The most aid which can be received by players with scholarships includes room and board, tuition and fees, books, and $15 a month for jobs in the athletic department. Most of K-State's footballers are on a full scholarship, with a few receiving slightly less.

In other sports, full and partial scholarships are given to 19 men in basketball, 15 in track, 16 in wrestling, 12 in baseball, two in swimming, and one in tennis.

Eligibility to receive scholarships is based on athletic proficiency and academic ability. Academically, new students must have been in the upper two-thirds of their high school class, while transfer students and students up for renewal—scholarships are renewed for only one year at a time—must have had 24 hours including the prior semester, for 60 percent of which they must have received grades of C or better.

Academic eligibility for Big Eight competition differs somewhat from other conferences, according to Bebe Lee, Wildcat athletic director. "In many ways, rules are more strict in the Big Eight," Lee said. "In most conferences, for instance, players merely have to pass 24 hours prior to the semester of competition."

Money for athletic assistance comes from gate receipts of games at home and away, television contracts and conference funds divided equally among conference schools, and, in lesser amounts, endowments by alumni.

Although students pay a smaller part of their fees—$5.50 compared to last year's $8.80—to the Athletic department, ticket sales to students give the department more income with which to enlarge the whole athletic program. This year the Athletic department was able to increase the budgets for baseball, track, and wrestling, and to establish aid for the first time in the golf, swimming, and tennis programs.

A budget limit for the whole athletic program has been set at $125,475 by the Athletic council, headed by M. A. Durland, dean of engineering and architecture. Of this amount the football budget is limited to $74,800. However, according to Athletic director Bebe Lee, this figure is probably higher than the amount which will be spent.

Odds-Makers Swing To Braves After Yanks Drop First Game

By UPI

Two strong-armed right handers, Lew Burdette, the hero of last year's Milwaukee victory, and Bob Turley, who fires bullets from his no wind-up delivery, square off today with the underdog Yankee trying to even the World Series at one game each.

The odds-makers, backing Burdette, who beat the Yankees three times in 1957, made the Braves 11 to 10 favorites to win today's game and 6 to 5 to take the series. Before Warren Spahn whipped the American leaguers, 4-3, in 10 innings yesterday, the Yankees had been favored for the series, 13 to 10.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves had laughed at those pre-Series odds. Today, Casey Stengel, the skipper of the Yankees, was laughing at them.

"I'm going with the guy who won the pennant for me," explained Stengel. "He'll get us even. I don't worry about odds."

Burdette has a string of 24 1/2 scoreless innings going for him in Series competition—5 1/2 short of the record 29 1/2 scoreless innings which the late Babe Ruth set as a southpaw pitcher for the Boston Red Sox before he was sold to the Yankees and transformed into an outfielder and the greatest home run hitter of all time. Also ahead of Burdette is Christy Mathewson's string of 28 1/2 shut-out innings in 1905 and 1911.

Off to a slow start in the spring, Burdette wound up winning 20 games for the Braves while losing 10.

Turley, who discarded a wind-up because "It gives me better control," won 21 games for the Yankees while losing but seven.

So the second game of the Series promised to be a duel of right handers, just as yesterday's first game was a battle of southpaws.

Burdette beat the Yankees, 4-2, in the second game last year, then hurled two shutouts at them—1-0 over Whitey Ford in the fifth game and 5-0 over Don Larsen in the seventh and deciding game. Turley won the sixth game for the Yankees to even the series—his only victory in series competition.

Their pitching styles are in sharp contrast. Burdette, whom many national league clubs accuse of throwing a "spitter," uses sliders and sinkers to baffle the hitter. Turley relies, for the most part, on a fast ball.

In his attempt to "get even," Stengel was expected to make some lineup changes. Norm Siebern, who bats left handed, was expected to start in left field instead of the right handed-hitting Elston Howard. And catcher Yogi Berra was expected to replace Howard in the cleanup spot in the Yankee batting order.

Despite his ailing knee, lefty-hitting Billy Bruton was expected to get the call over the veteran Andy Paiko in centerfield. Bruton, whose ailment kept him out of the 1957 Series altogether, rapped out the hit which won the first game for the Braves. He had batted for Paiko, a right-handed hitter in the ninth, only to strike out. But with two men on base and two out in the 10th, he drilled a sharp single to right centerfield to drive in the winning run off Yankee relief ace, Ryne Duren.

Duren had come in for Ford when the latter weakened in the eighth and the Braves tied the score at 3-3. He struck out five of the first seven men he faced before the Braves caught up with him.

Two who were sure to stay in the Yankee lineup were Hank Bauer and Moose Skowron. Their home runs off Spahn, the Braves 22-game winner, gave the Yankees a 3-2 bulge after five innings, but Ford couldn't make that hold up. After Bauer's blow, which came in the fifth inning with Ford, who had walked, on base, Spahn turned the Yankees back scoreless for the next five innings. In one stretch, he retired 14 batters in a row.

After today's game the clubs will go to New York, where the third game is scheduled for Saturday. Friday is an off day for travel.

JUNIOR HALFBACK MAX FALK is rapidly developing into one of the stalwarts of the Wildcat offense. He rushed for 118 yards against Colorado Saturday.

Aggies Offense Altered Says Cat Gridiron Scout

K-State will be up against a strong outside running attack when it meets Utah State Saturday, according to Bob Reynolds, assistant coach for the Wildcats, who scouted the Aggies when they played Denver university last Saturday.

"Utah State has changed its offense considerably since last year," said Reynolds. "Formerly a passing team, the Aggies have shifted their tactics to a running game. This change was brought about by an injury to Gary Kapp, Aggie end who was second in the nation last year in pass receiving yardage.

Kapp's football career was ended two weeks ago against Arizona university when he reinjured a knee which he had originally injured in last spring's drills.

"Although Denver won the game 20-8," said Reynolds, "Utah State held the edge in nearly every statistical department." He added, however, that the Aggies were unable to move the ball very well when they were deep in Denver territory.

"We feel that Utah State has a real good first eleven," said Reynolds. "Their second unit does not match it though."

Reynolds thinks that the Wildcats will see two of the best backs they will see all year in Buddy Allen and Overton Curtis. "They are both very fast," he added, "and both love to run the outside."

"Utah State has the problem of inexperience at quarterback," explained Reynolds. "That could have been their trouble when they were threatening against Denver last week. Merrill Johnson has been doing most of their quarterbacking, but the Aggie coaching staff feels that sophomore Rick Dobbins will take over in the first unit once he gains some experience."

Falk Wins Starting Position After Starring Against Buffs

By LARRY MEREDITH

"Those yards were just the result of good blocking" said Max Falk, who against Colorado last week carried 16 times for 118 yards and a 7.4 yard average.

On the basis of his performance last week, however the big six foot-one inch junior from Andale, Kansas has been elevated to the No. 1 halfback slot and will start against Utah State Saturday.

Coach Mertes said that Max is determined to do his best and be a real team player. "He's good on defense as well as offense" said Mertes.

Falk didn't play very much last year because he was sick most of the season. But he ripped off a 24-yard kickoff return against Kansas when he went in for the final 18 seconds of action.

Against Michigan State he rammed 5 yards on his only carry.

Falk is also a track man and has run the low hurdles in 7.1 seconds. His dangerous speed makes him a serious breakaway threat.

Mertes says that Falk is now physically fit and has made a tremendous improvement over last year when he came here as a transfer student from Notre Dame.

Tagged as one of the Big Eight's best backs for the '58 season, Falk has one more year of eligibility.

He is a former all-state halfback at Andale high school and was a football, basketball and track star there.

About the Utah State game here next Saturday, Falk would only say that it will probably be a good game.

Top Golfers In Exhibition

Two of the country's top professional women golfers, Marilyn Smith and Fay Crocker, will present a golf clinic Monday at 3 p.m. at the Manhattan Country Club.

The clinic, sponsored by the Women's Physical Education club at K-State, is open to the public. There is no charge.

After the clinic the professionals will tour the course with two K-Staters—Sally Hardwick, HE Soph, who was the 1957 Colorado amateur champion, and Natasha Matson, 1957 Kansas amateur champion and now a member of the physical education staff.

Miss Smith has won the Women's Intercollegiate tournament, the Fort Wayne Open, and the Mile High Open in Denver, while Miss Crocker has won the Serbin Open, and the Miami Beach LPGA.

In case of rain, the clinic will be in Room 105 of Nichols gym.

Scholarships Abound; K-Staters Rewarded

Winners of two $3,000 General Foods fund fellowships at Kansas State college for the coming school year are Mary Edna Garner and Clinita Arnsby Ford.

Six freshmen in the School of Agriculture this fall have been awarded $250 Martin K. Eby scholarships for the 1958-1959 school year. They are Herman Robert Altewegg, Gary Lee Ellrich, Francis Nading, David Wayne Newton, Floyd Kent Shoup, and Hollie B. Thomas.

Nine Kansas State college students who plan to enter the teaching profession have been announced as winners of $200 scholarships offered by the Kansas

Congress of Parents and Teachers for the 1958-59 school year. The awards went to Betty Lou Childs, James W. Baker, Beverly Ann Richardson, Carol M. Kellogg, Janet Sue Scott, Joanne Nichols, Nancy McLeod, Howard Wallace, and Vickie Ray Richards.

Seven 1958 Kansas high school graduates have been awarded general scholarships to Kansas State college for the 1958-59 school year.

The awards, varying from $100 to $500, go to Brenda Jean Fisher, Thomas Jensen Hines, Larry Keith Johnson, Sherry Ann Mueller, Sharolyn Sue Sanborn, William Eugene Wimmer, and Sue Jane Young.

General Motors corporation scholarships have been awarded to Leonard F. Meyer and Steven Royce Kingsbury. Two of these scholarships are awarded annually to entering freshmen.

Two K-State juniors are winners of $500 Fribourg foundation scholarships for the 1958-59 school year.

They are Earl Walter Weiss, VM, and Harold Dean Knewton, AEd.

A Kansas State college chemist, I. C. Hisatsune, has received a $2,100 Frederick Gardner Cottrell grant to continue studies on the interaction of the relatively free electrons in the benzene molecule.

Two Kansas State college students have been announced as winners of Universal Oil Products, Inc., scholarships for their senior year in chemical engineering. The scholarships go to James C. Mailen, $300, and Matthew T. White Jr., $200.

U.S. Tries To Eliminate Threat of Lebanon War

BEIRUT — U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock sought ex-President Camille Chamoun's support today for a program which he believes might eliminate the threat of civil war in Lebanon.

McClintock said his formula "seems as if it might contain the seeds of an eventual compromise" between the forces of President Fuad Chehab and Chamoun, his strongly pro-Western predecessor.

The McClintock plan called for:

—Active efforts to bring to justice the kidnapers of pro-Chamoun columnist Fouad Haddad, whose abduction rekindled rebellious fires that were almost extinguished by the change of government.

—A vote of confidence in Premier Rashid Karami's new government.

—Expansion of Karami's cabinet by three or four pro-Chamoun ministers.

—Expansion of parliament from 66 to 88 seats.

Foes of the plan include anti-Chamoun leader Saeb Salem, who called the proposals "foreign intervention in the internal affairs of Lebanon."

NIMES, FRANCE — Floods swept a wide region of southern France today, causing at least 34 deaths and threatening a mud bath for the Marcoule atom plant.

The death toll was expected to rise. Four persons were listed as missing. Several children were among the known dead. Property damage was believed heavy.

A torrent of mud surged toward the National Atomic laboratory at Marcoule on the Ceze river. Officials said the massive mud wave slowed down 30 miles east of Marcoule, but the threat to the riverside plant remained.

IRON MOUNTAIN, MICH.—National Guard units were alerted today for a last-ditch search for a boy missing in the upper Michigan bush country, although hope was virtually abandoned that he would be found alive.

State Sen. Phil Rahol asked that guardsmen in the upper peninsula be mobilized to hunt for 4-year-old Kenneth Scott. Kenneth disappeared Sunday from a hunting camp in a bear-infested wilderness area south of here.

Police emphasized chances were all but gone the boy could have survived four days of rain, snow flurries and freezing temperatures. Kenneth was clad only in a thin jacket and blue jeans.

BERKELEY, CALIF.—The only American who ever broke the four-minute mile may have set a new record yesterday when he raced half a mile to get help for a woman pinned under an overturned car.

Don Bowden of the University of California was taking his morning track workout when he heard groans from the bottom of a 150-foot embankment deep in the hills.

A car driven by Mrs. Doris Scott, 43, had careened off Grizzly Peak boulevard and plunged down the embankment, pinning her underneath.

"At first I thought it was a wounded mountain lion groaning in pain," Bowden said. "I had a look and I knew I couldn't move the car an inch."

Bowden then did what he's best equipped to do—he dashed a half mile to his parked car and drove to a golf club for help. Rescuers found Mrs. Scott suffered only a few bruises but she could have remained underneath the car for hours or days had not Bowden found her.

Busy Day Set For Nations

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nation, K-State's honorary parents, will be guests at a series of functions Saturday. The Great Bend couple, their daughter Nancy, EEd Fr. and their son, Bobby John, will be guests for coffee in the Union at 9:45.

They will be honored by the members of the Parents' Day committee; President and Mrs. McCain; Larry French, Student Council chairman; Chuck Winger, student body president; and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Kottner.

Following the coffee, they will be photographed for a television news cast and will be taken on a special tour of the campus.

At noon, the Nations will sit at a special table at the Union Buffetaria with the Parents' Day committee. They will be guests of President McCain at the Kansas State-Utah State football game, and will sit with him during the game. During halftime, they will be presented to the student body.

KS Student Breaks Leg In Collision

William Laugengayer, EE Jr., suffered a broken left leg and minor cuts and bruises late yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a milk truck driven by Walter P. Suther, 2037 Hayes Drive, at the corner of 11th street and Vattier avenue.

The milk truck was going north on 11th street and made a left turn onto Vattier. The motorcycle was traveling east on Vattier when the collision occurred.

Two unidentified eyewitnesses said that the motorcycle was going between 50 and 60 miles per hour when the brakes were applied. According to a police report, the motorcycle skidded 111 feet before hitting the truck on the left door. Damage was estimated at $200 to the motorcycle and $250 to the truck.

Laubengayer was taken to Student Health where he was x-rayed. He was then taken by ambulance to Asbury hospital in Salina.

TV Sessions Begin Today

A two-day Educational Television seminar begins at the Union this afternoon and will last through Saturday morning.

The topic of discussion at the seminar will be "What Educational Television Holds for Kansas."

Speakers will include Richard B. Hull, director of radio and television at Ohio State university; and H. B. Newburn, president of the Educational Radio and Television Center, Ann Arbor, Mich.

GOP Man Lauds College Politicians

Bob Buehler told the Young Republicans last night that collegiate Republican groups are an "integral part" of the political organization. Buehler, administrative assistant of Congressman Bill Avery, also said there is a movement in Washington to lower the voting age to 18.

He stressed the need for the individual to take part in politics, saying, "In reality you do have a voice," and he noted that when Averill Harriman was elected governor of New York state, one more Republican vote in each precinct would have kept him out.

Telling the group that "now is the time to take a practical interest in politics," he urged the reading of Time magazine and the editorial pages of good newspapers in order to be well informed on political issues.

Buehler said the Republican party believes the federal government should do only what the people can't do, and that local interests can do the local job. He said that a tax dollar loses about 35 cents in a trip to Washington and back, while the loss in sending one to Topeka for state use is only about 10 cents.

Buehler described some of the work that congressmen do in addition to jobs in committees and session of Congress. He said a lot of Congressman Avery's time was spent last session in sorting and answering over 16,000 pieces of mail.

Staters Meet Gridders At Rally This Evening

Finalists in the School of Agriculture queen contest were selected yesterday by a popular vote of ag students.

They are Brenda Morgan, HE Soph, Pi Beta Phi; Karen Kelso, HEN Soph, Alpha Delta Pi; Kay Slade, EEd Soph, Alpha Chi Omega; Juanita Wille, EEd Soph, Delta Delta Delta; and Brenda Miller, Tx C Fr, Southeast hall.

The queen will be crowned by Peairs Wilson, director of the School of Agriculture, at intermission of the Barnwarmer dance, October 11, in Nichols gym. She will be selected by the ag students, who will cast their ballots next week in booths in West Waters hall.

The five finalists were chosen on personality, personal appearance, and character. Don Mach, AH Jr, chairman of the queens committee, interviewed the candidates yesterday at an ag seminar.

The finalists will demonstrate their farm talents at "Chore Day," October 8, at 4 p.m. in front of Anderson hall. Among the tasks they will be expected to perform will be tractor driving, horse riding, and hog-trough building.

The five finalists were picked from 17 candidates. The Barnwarmer highlights Ag Week, October 6 through 11.

K-State Surveying Classes Keep Campus Well Mapped

HATS OFF to the hard-working surveying classes which keep a careful watch on the K-State campus! In good weather or bad, in early morning or late afternoon, these men can be seen wandering around with their equipment, always ready to note the slightest deviation in campus terrain. Versatile they are, and able to size up a pretty coed, or a building—or both at the same time if necessary. These are the men who will map our future highways and explore the few unknown parts of our planet. Who knows, maybe some of these fellows will be charting the moon in a few years. But until that time, they slave with the fundamentals and limit themselves to the K-State campus.

← GETTING LINED UP with a women's dormitory, Jim Kimber, ArE Soph, and Howard Lachenmayr, CE Soph, seem to be having troubles. Many of the surveyors' most difficult problems arise in the northeast area of the campus.

↓ SHOWING THE CORRECT WAY to hold a rod, Tim Goddard, ME Jr, clasps it with both hands, plants his feet firmly, and keeps the rod straight. No time for horsing around here.

↓ NO TIME TO LET UP for these guys. In order to be a successful surveyor, one must always be on the go, never taking a break from the task at hand. Problems are never solved unless a fast pace is maintained constantly.

↑ COME ON, LET ME SEE! Joe Craft, IT Jr, Karl Kreeger, Ar 05, and Kent Drew, LDs Jr, divert their attentions from buildings and trees with the discovery of a rare biological specimen—a coed.

Wildcats Host Utah State in Parents' Day Clash

By DON VERASKA
Collegian Sports Editor

After dropping a close contest to highly-favored Colorado university last week, a K-State football team with a revamped backfield will be favored against the Utah State Aggies tomorrow.

"But," cautioned Wildcat Head Coach Bus Mertes, "this is a real good Utah State team, and it has a good chance to win. The underdog always has the definite advantage. Overconfidence has cost more ball games than any other factor—it certainly hurt Colorado last week."

John Marcoline and Max Falk, two junior halfbacks, have won starting positions in the Cat backfield as a result of their play last Saturday. Marcoline ran eight times against the Buffs for 56 yards, and Falk rushed 16 times for 118 yards. The pair replaced George Whitney and Ben Grosse at the halfback positions.

The Utags were expected to be a passing team this year. But an injury to senior end Gary Kapp, who was second in the nation in pass receiving yardage last season, has sidelined him for the season, and forced Utah State's coach, Everett Faunce, to change his plans for the team's offensive.

K-State coach Bob Reynolds, who scouted the Aggies in their Denver university game last Saturday, reports that they will be running a lot more, specializing in wide end sweeps from the Utah split-T formation.

Halfbacks Overton Curtis and Buddy Allen should lead this rushing attack. Curtis has a net gain of 92 yards in the two Utah State games this season, and Allen has rushed for 123.

But the Aggie passing attack hasn't been forgotten. Merrill Johnson, quarterback, has completed five of 13 passes for 102 yards, although he hasn't hit pay dirt as of yet.

Anderson—have moved up to the Utah State starting lineup in preparation for the Parents' Day battle. Senior quarterback Rolfe Kerr has replaced Merrill Johnson in that position, while fullback Pete Lenotti has taken over the fullback spot from Leo Ducharme.

K-State, although changing the backfield from last week, still is starting no sophomores. Plenty should see action on the second string, however.

Mertes has been alternating the two teams in about equal periods, with each going in for four or five minutes. About his 'other first string', Mertes says, "Our second team seems to do just as well as our first."

"We're just thinking about this game," said Mertes. "Every game is important, and we don't look more than one game ahead. None of the coaches have even mentioned Nebraska, yet. We've got to be sure that the team realizes that Utah State is going to be tough. Our boys were congratulated last week for losing a game, and that's not healthy."

The Aggies from Logan will leave Salt Lake City tonight at 5 p.m., and fly to Topeka, arriving there by chartered plane at 9 p.m. They will take a chartered bus to Manhattan and arrive several hours before game time tomorrow.

Weary Yanks Go Home

By UPI

The once proud and mighty New York Yankees came home today, wondering what had hit them in the World Series.

They were two games down to the Milwaukee Braves in the darkest hours they have known in their tenure as baseball's greatest dynasty. They have been down that far before—but never under such humiliating circumstances.

Manager Casey Stengel, who has become synonymous with success since he took over the helm of the Yankees—winning nine pennants in ten years and six World Series in eight tries—had an off day to ponder about things today.

"We ain't hitting, we ain't pitching, we ain't playing ball," he mused.

"But let me tell you something else, we ain't desperate."

"We still got some pitchers who ought to get them out," he added, declaring that Don Larsen, the big right-hander who pitched the first perfect game in Series history against those Dodgers in 1956, would try to untrack his Yankees when the Series resumes in Yankee stadium on Saturday—today being set aside for travel.

Intramural Gridder Hurt

Henry Pierce, ChE Soph, a Beta Theta Pi intramural football player, was knocked unconscious in yesterday's intramural contest between the Betas and Phi Delta Theta, and was taken by ambulance to Student Health, where he remained overnight. His only injury was a cut lip.

Organized Houses Planning Parents Day Entertainment

K-State's organized houses will honor parents Saturday with buffets, luncheons, and other entertainment. Almost every organization will have open house.

The residents of Southeast hall will have a luncheon for their parents. Following the game, coffee and doughnuts will be served. Parents of the members of Alpha Gamma Rho will have a luncheon in their honor, and are invited to return after the game for coffee and doughnuts.

Members of Alpha Xi Delta will have a buffet dinner for their parents following the game. Delta Tau Delta will also have a buffet dinner after the game. Waltheim hall is having a coffee for parents following the game.

A dinner and open house will be offered by Chi Omega. Alpha Chi Omega has a coffee hour after the game planned. Beta Theta Pi will have a buffet luncheon preceding the game.

Sigma Phi Epsilon will have a buffet and open house in honor of parents following the game. Pi Kappa Alpha is planning a luncheon before the game, and open house and a dinner afterwards.

Phi Kappa will have a buffet luncheon before the game. Delta Delta Delta will have a buffet dinner following the game. Delta Upsilon has planned an open house and buffet luncheon before the game, and will have an open initiation afterwards.

Members of Pi Beta Phi will entertain their parents with a buffet dinner at the chapter house. Delta Sigma Phi and Kappa Sigma will also have buffet dinners.

Gamma Phi Beta will have an open house for parents Saturday. Northwest hall will have a coffee hour, and Alpha Tau Omega will serve coffee and doughnuts following the game.

Parents of Tau Kappa Epsilon members will be served a noon luncheon. Alpha Kappa Lambda will have an evening buffet and open house. The Sigma Chis are planning an open house also.

Alpha Delta Pi will have an open house and buffet dinner. Kappa Delta will serve coffee and doughnuts following the game. Sigma Alpha Epsilon will serve a buffet afterwards, and will have open house.

Sigma Nu is planning both a buffet before the game, and a coffee afterwards. Both Kappa Kappa Gamma and Acacia will have a buffet dinner. Alpha Kappa Lambda is serving a buffet luncheon, and is inviting parents to a house party Saturday evening.

Baptists Buy New Center

Members of Roger Williams Fellowship, Baptist student group, now have a new student center. The large two-story house at 1801-Anderson has been purchased for use as a Baptist student center, and is now open to the public.

The upstairs of the house will be used as a parsonage. Until remodeling of the basement is completed, the first floor will be used for student activities. A hi-fi set, newspapers, and magazines are provided for the use of students.

The basement, when completed, will contain a kitchen, the Roger Williams Fellowship office, and a lounge. The Sunday morning college and coffee time will be at the student center rather than at the First Baptist church. The evening Roger Williams Fellowship meeting will continue to meet at the church.

Plans are being made for an open house later this fall. It is hoped that several national Roger Williams officers will be able to attend.

Occupying the upstairs of the center will be the Rev. Dale Turner, minister to students, and his family. The Rev. Turner came to Manhattan in August from Arkansas City, where he was minister of education at the First Baptist church there.

Turner, a native of Concordia, Mo., is a graduate of Ottawa university, Ottawa, Kan., and Andover Newton Theological School, Boston, Massachusetts.

Graduate Students Object of Study

K-State has been selected by the American Council of the National Opinion Research center to help in a study which will help determine long-range policies on fellowships, scholarships and recruitment in academic fields.

The study will include three phases of the life of graduate students in the arts and sciences: career plans, financial situations, and major life goals.

Joseph Hajda, assistant professor of political science, will select graduate students in biological and physical sciences to participate in a "pre-test" phase of the study.

The Opinion Research center is a non-profit research institute affiliated with the University of Chicago. The study is sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies, the Social Science Research council, and the National Academy of Sciences.

77 Outstanding K-Staters Given 'Sophomore Honors' Last Term

Seventy-seven students have been awarded "sophomore honors" for outstanding records in their first two years here.

Deans have written congratulatory letters to the parents or guardian of each student, according to W. F. Pickett, chairman of the committee on academic honors.

A student eligible for sophomore honors must be in the upper 5 per cent of his class, and must have completed a minimum of 45 hours in residence.

Sophomore honors will not be awarded in the future because of a recent revision of semester scholastic honors regulations. There will be "scholastic honors" for all students who maintain a

Those receiving sophomore honors:

School of Agriculture—Ronald W. McCune, FT; Bob Jones, AE; Harold Knewton, AEd; Loren Becker, Ag; Gary Cromwell, AEd; William Washington, AE.

School of Arts and Sciences—Mary Sue Hiebert, BPM; John M. Erickson, BAA; Carol Faulconer, Mth; Nora Crocker, Eng; Jane Kay Chalmers, SED; Dixie Lee Bergmeier, EEd; Jerry B. Wurster, BPM; Roger Ludlum, Gop;

Cousins To Speak At Assembly Here

The editor of Saturday Review magazine will appear at an all college assembly tomorrow in the College auditorium. Norman Cousins will address K-State students at 9:30 a.m., according to A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration.

As editor of the Saturday Review since 1939, Cousins is credited with developing that publication from a strictly literary magazine into one concerned with moral, political, and social conditions in relation to human growth and freedom.

The journalist has written several books, among them "The Good Inheritance," "Modern Man in Obsolete," "Talk with Nehru," and "Who Speaks for Man?"

Cousins has represented the United States officially on good will tours in India, Pakistan, Ceylon, and Japan, and has served as observer at such events as the Asian-African conference at Bandung in 1955, and the Berlin Airlift.

SC Will Meet At Northwest

Student Council will meet in Northwest hall this evening to give freshman coeds an opportunity to become acquainted with the Council's duties and responsibilities. Meeting time is at 7 p.m.

The coeds will have an opportunity to ask questions about SC and its functions in a short session before the regular meeting begins.

Little is on the Council agenda. Two committees and a chairman for another will be appointed, and the possibility of a television Student Governing association film will be discussed.

The Council will also begin a study of Y-Orpheum. Y-Orpheum, annual sorority and fraternity skit presentation, was recommended for removal from the jurisdiction of YMCA last spring by the Student Activities board.

Clyde Reed To Speak

Clyde M. Reed, Republican candidate for governor, will speak in the little theatre of the Student Union at 2 p.m. tomorrow. Keith Landis, president of the Collegiate Young Republicans, said everyone is welcome to hear the speech.

1,500 To Receive Diplomas in 1959

Kansas State college expects to graduate more than 1,500 at commencements in January, May, and August.

This is indicated in a roster of qualifications of 1959 K-State graduates the Placement center has just prepared for use of prospective recruiters.

Included in the more than 1,500 graduates will be 70 doctors of veterinary medicine, more than 200 with graduate degrees, around 250 persons qualified to teach, and around 1,000 with bachelor degrees who will be seeking technical and non-technical employment other than teaching jobs.

Political Clubs Slate Talks By Top State Candidates

WE ARE GLAD to see the campus political clubs are finally on the move.

For a while it looked like they were going to let this election year slip by, but now the place is starting to get a little life.

Since the appearance of Governor George Docking here Tuesday, both the Young Democrats and Collegiate Republicans seem to have mapped out active campaigns which should interest K-State students.

The Collegiate Republicans had Bob Beuhler, administrative assistant to Congressman Bill Avery, as a speaker Thursday night. Beuhler stressed the need for the individual to take part in politics.

OVER THE WEEKEND Keith Landis, president of the Collegiate Republicans, lashed out at Docking for the Governor's recent statement that the name change could cause increased competition between K-State and the University of Kansas.

"The governor has tried to create the impression that by changing its name from college to university K-State may endeavor to invade fields now established at the University of Kansas," said Landis.

"We resent the innuendo of subterfuge the Governor left on campus where the name change was overwhelmingly endorsed by the entire student body, the faculty, and alumni association directors," he stated.

The Young Democrats have made arrangements for Robert Domme, Democratic candidate for U. S. Congress from the first district, Joseph Henkle, lieutenant governor, and Dale Spiegel, Democratic candidate for attorney general, to appear on campus this month.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m., Clyde Reed, Republican candidate for governor, will meet with the Collegiate Republicans in the Student Union little theater.

AT THE SAME time the Young Democrats will be meeting in the walnut dining room of the Union.

This could be real interesting.—GEM

University Title No More Respectable, Leave Name as Is, Says Hutch Paper

Editor's note: This article was published in the Hutchinson News under the by-line of Don Kendall, TJ '55, former Collegian staff member.

THE OLD ALMA MATER, the ivy-grown campus on the upper reaches of the Kaw, wants to be respectable. All along I thought she was a respectable old gal, maybe not chic in the latest of fashion, but a good, solid citizen nonetheless.

Yet, Kansas State college, bless her wind-blown, warm heart, wants to become a "university." The Board of Regents, with prodding from the college's usually radical student body, and some frustrated profs who don't like to be called cow college teachers, is asking the legislature for the name change to Kansas State university.

For some reason, students and some of the faculty members believe their degrees and jobs will be enhanced if the old girl is shrouded in a new university chemise. "We are in actuality a university," proponents scream, "therefore, let us be called one."

Starting with K-State's veterinary medicine school, the ag school with its highly reputed milling industries, through years of development in plant pathology, zoology, animal husbandry and countless other scientific endeavors, the "college" has become renowned for being what it is—an agricultural and applied science institution.

THE COW-CHIP-on the shoulder attitude among students is understandable. Years of kidding from equally frustrated ranks at the university at Lawrence have lent gravity to the situation.

Silo Tech, cow college, "the farm bureau," Barnyard A. and M.—all these nicknames should be music to K-State alumni ears. After all, no other institution in Kansas could be so called.

But the picture would change if "university" is tagged to K-State's proud name. Next thing the volatile student body will be asking is to change the name of their athletic teams to "Jayhawks."

YEARS AGO, athletic teams at K-State were called "Farmers," then "Aggies." The name "Wildcats," no matter how inappropriate in succeeding years, took some of the barnyard stigma from the mob.

And what about this "prestige" angle? What about us poor slobbish hicks who have degrees from "Kansas State college?" Will our employers fire us when a sophisticated young graduate of "Kansas State university" comes along because it is a foregone fact that he would be a better man because of the name change?

KANSANS AREN'T rich enough to support two institutions worthy enough to be called "universities." Good old K-State made it self by service to the No. 1 industry in Kansas—agriculture.

To those cheerleaders, oft-times radical student editors, to the general mob at K-State, and to the Legislature, I say:

There is enough manure being spread these days without adding some artificial plant food to the already fertile fields at Manhattan.

Let the old girl be what she is—a big-hearted, blowsy old gal who has done her best to be a mother to all Kansans. Dressing her up in a new chemise won't hide her work-worn hands, and will only make her feel uncomfortable.

U.S. Will Attempt Sterile Moon Shot In Near Future

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

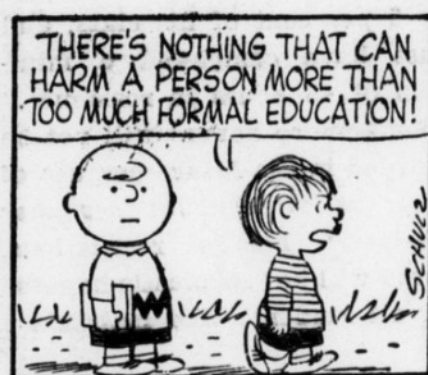

Washington—The United States will make its second attempt to send a rocket to the moon next weekend, the scientific publication "Washington Science Trends" said today.

The first try to put a picture-taking satellite in orbit around the moon failed on August 17 when the multi-stage rocket blew up after 77 seconds of flight.

The moon is in a favorable position for such a launching only a few days each month. Next weekend will be the favorable period for October. The Air Force did not try to launch a moon rocket during the favorable days of September.

The magazine said the next moon satellite will be "sterilized" to prevent possible contamination of the moon's atmosphere.

Such contamination would interfere with the study of the natural state of the celestial body.

Methods of Promotion Are Haphazardous in Big Business World

New York — (UPI) — The hired hands don't know it, but in one big company it pays for a man to come to work with his tie askew or with egg on his vest.

The boss deliberately picks such a man for promotion.

"Such an employee is more concerned with work than he is about appearance," said the boss recently during a survey by the New York State Department of Labor of "promotion practices" among leading New York firms.

According to the survey report, "promotion practices actually are surprisingly haphazardous."

For the executive-suite levels, one company officer said: "When a great president retires, a vacuum is created. And into the vacuum is swept the nearest guy who hasn't had a coronary."

The demise of the organization man was predicted by a boss who won't promote such seemingly loyal Joes "because they have no faults to set them apart from, and above, their fellows."

Also on the skids are promotion chances for whip-snappers. Most firms consider a man who acts like a top sergeant too "over-bearing" for a better job.

"Frankly," said a vice president of personnel, "we prefer a man who 'butters up' his fellows—and his superiors—it shows the ability to get along."

Many bosses, meanwhile, said they are wary of relying entirely upon the highly-touted mental and executive ability tests. They are responding to pleas to psychologists to brake this trend "before promotion practices are utterly dehumanized."

Popular with many companies are soul-searching "depth-interviews." The boss casually calls in a subordinate for a talk about the worker's strengths and weaknesses. Sometimes a bar serves as the confessional. The hired hand is supposed to talk back; otherwise, the boss can't render a promotion decision.

Sixty-two of the presidents polled by the Labor Department said that 55 per cent of the vacancies in their firms are filled by "merit promotions."

But the survey found that 10 per cent of the vacancies are filled by pirating—hiring—executives away from other companies; 15 per cent by an "automatic" system which operates on the theory that able men naturally come to the top.

Ten per cent of the top jobs were found to be filled with the help of consultants who investigate candidates.

The survey determined that there's still another pretty good way of getting ahead in the world—by being related to the boss.

Cats Drop Game to Aggies; 'Disappointing Loss'—Mertes

Coach Bus Mertes, sitting on a low bench in the K-State dressing room after Saturday's 20-13 loss to Utah State, commented, "We blew one, that's all—it was a bad day all the way around. It was a disappointing loss."

"Utah State wasn't any tougher than we expected," Mertes went on. But we have no excuses—Utah did a good job, and their bounce back for the Nebraska game next Saturday."

Everett Faunce, the Utah State coach, was accepting congratulations from well-wishers. "I think we won on our defense," he commented. "We rotated our four big tackles in and out in the second half—Bill Meglen and Len Rohde in the first string, and Bob Steinke and John Ferderber in the second string. Rohde stopped two big big K-State drives."

"I think we exploited K-State's weakness—pass defense—pretty well. The loss of Gene Meier was a big break in our favor."

Faunce admitted that he thought K-State was going to score in the last quarter. "I already had two halfbacks all set in there to stop the Wildcats' two-point conversion attempt."

Coach Mertes expressed concern over the number of K-State injuries. "I don't think either Meier or Gallagher will be able to play next week," he said.

Dr. Donald Cooper, K-State team physician, said that only time would tell about the K-State injuries. He said that Gallagher had no broken ribs, but is in Student Health for observation. Meier, he said, has a bruised thigh and kneecap, and center Dean Skaer had a sprained knee, and a neck injury, caused, "Probably by an elbow in the throat."

It was the same old story for K-State in Saturday's contest. The Wildcats scored 26 first downs to Utah State's six, and out total-yardaged the Aggies, 367-274. But the Cats, with the exception of the two scoring drives, were unable to keep a drive going when they got deep into Utah territory.

Utah State scored first after grabbing a K-State fumble on the K-State eight yard line. Jerry Pelovsky caught a pass from sophomore quarter Rick Dobbins for the score. The Aggies fortified their lead with a 71-yard pass play from Dobbins to Buddy Allen with 4:48 to go in the first quarter.

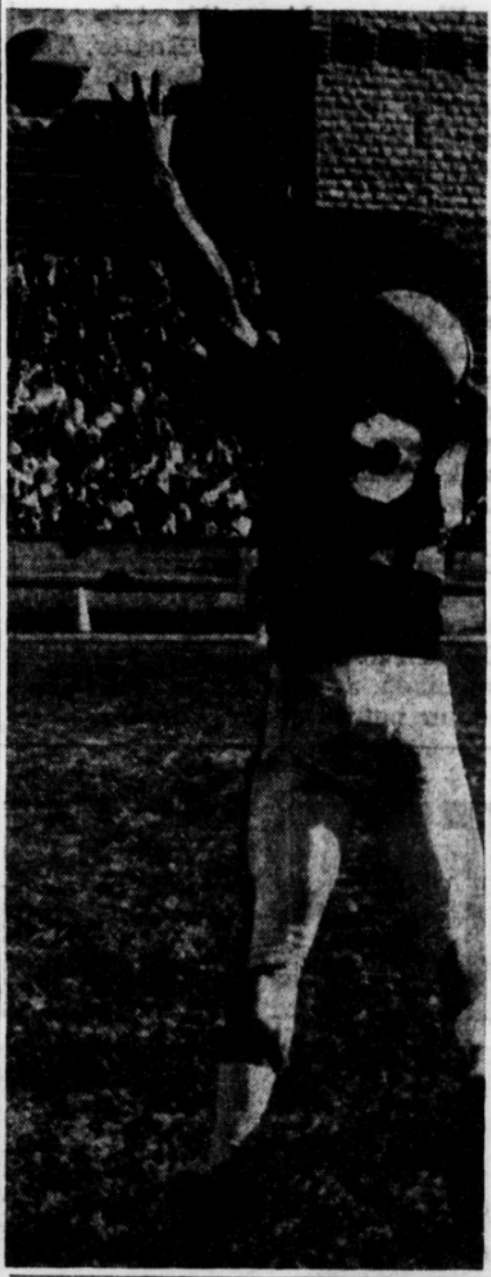

Kent McDonnell sneaked over from the one yard line for the Cats' first score with 1:15 left in the first quarter. Dobbins sneaked over from the one yard line in the second quarter for the Utahs' final score, giving Utah State a 20-6 halftime lead.

Ben Grosse cut over from the Aggie three yard line midway in the third quarter, and converted to cut the lead to 20-13. But all further scoring opportunities were fumbled or intercepted away, as the Cats five times got within the Utah State 20 yard line and were unable to score.

Big Scores Highlight Intramural Grid Play

Lopsided wins by two of last year's independent group winners highlighted intramural football action Friday. House of Williams, last year's Group 1 winner, trounced Scholarship House, 47-12. And Jr. AVMA, last year's Group 11 winner, downed Kasbah, 41-6.

In other action Friday, Pi Kappa Alpha defeated Theta Xi, 42-19; OK House defeated Newman club, 19-6; Power Plant defeated Disciple Student Fellowship, 20-10; and the Geologists downed West Stadium, 14-13.

Today's intramural touch football games: Acacia vs. Beta Theta Pi, 4:15 p.m., NW field; Phi Delta Theta vs. Alpha Tau Omega, 5:15 p.m., NW field; Delta Upsilon vs. Alpha Kappa Lambda, 4:15 p.m., NE field; Lambda Chi Alpha vs. Theta Xi, 5:15 p.m., NE field; Farm House vs. Phi Kappa, 4:15 p.m., SE campus field; Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Sigma Chi, 5:15 p.m., SE campus field; Tau Kappa Epsilon vs. Sigma Nu, 4:15 p.m., Military center field; Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Delta Sigma Phi, 5:15 p.m., Military center field.

Brownlee Wins In Grid Contest

Wayne Brownlee, FT Soph, is the winner of this week's Pigskin Prognostications contest. He picked a 23-15 win for Utah State.

His estimate of 210 rushing yards was close to the actual 199, but his passing yardage of 65 and first down total of 11 were well under the actual figures of 168 and 26.

This was the first time Brownlee had ever entered the contest.

Three Demo Candidates Scheduled as Speakers

Three prominent Kansas politicians have been scheduled to visit the campus under the sponsorship of the Young Democrats.

Robert Domme, Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress from the first district, will be here October 9. Joseph Henkle, lieutenant governor, will speak October 14, and Dale Spiegel, Democratic candidate for attorney general, will visit October 24.

Morgan, HE Soph, recording secretary; and John Peters, EE Jr, treasurer.

Flying Club

The K-State Flying club is considering purchase of a four-place airplane, valued at $5,000, according to club president Norman Steiner, ME Sr. If these plans can be worked out, the club will then be able to increase its membership, Steiner said.

Dance Instructions

Beginning and advanced dance instruction, sponsored by the Union Dance committee, will begin tomorrow in the dive of the Student Union.

Classes will begin at 7 p.m. and will continue each Tuesday for ten weeks. Prices are $2.50 a person or $4 a couple.

Classes will recess in time for freshman women to return to their dorms by 8 p.m. Instruction will also be available during the second semester. Interested persons may sign up in the Union Activities center.

Dairy Judging

A K-State dairy judging team is participating in the International Intercollegiate dairy products contest today in Chicago.

Those making the trip are Harold Roberts, Tom Rogler, Ted Colson, and Gene Allen, all seniors in dairy manufacturing, and coach Ross Mickelson. The team left yesterday morning.

Music Conference

The first meeting of the Music Education National conference will be tonight at 8 in SU 208.

Miss Helen Jerard of the Manhattan Public School system will speak on the problems and experiences of the practice teacher and actual teacher after graduation.

Committee Openings

Applications for secretary and advertising sub-chairman on the Union Publicity committee should be made at the Union activities center before noon Thursday.

Confab on World Affairs To Be at Kansas State

The sixth annual Governor's conference on World Affairs will be here October 24 and 25.

The theme this year is "Rising Nationalism: Threat or Opportunity". The conference discussions will center around problems of nationalism and the featured speakers will be from Africa and the Mideast.

President James A. McCain will welcome the delegates and preside at the Friday evening banquet. The speaker for the banquet will be an American political scientist who will consider the conference theme.

All sessions will be held in the K-State Union. The annual luncheon and business of the UNESCO group will be at noon Saturday.

This is the second consecutive year that the conference has been here. Kansas State College is a joint sponsor of the conference again this year, with the department of continuing education in charge of conference arrangements.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

SC Backs Committee In HC Tiff

Student Council went on record last night as "publicly backing the Games and Rallies committee" in its decision concerning the announcement of Homecoming decorations winners.

In other action, a committee of four Council members was appointed to investigate and study the possibility of including instructors' names on line schedules.

Lynn Martin, EEd Jr; Anne Pederson, BPM Jr; Martyn Apple, FT Jr; and Gordon Carlson, EE Sr, compose the committee.

The Council revised its constitution to conform with the new 4-point grade system (though four of the six school councils must vote favorably on the amendment) and changed its by-laws to make the SC vice-chairman head of the Committee Co-ordinating staff rather than chairman of the Elections committee.

The Election committee chairman will be a member of the Council.

Dottie Newton, DIM Sr, was appointed head of the International Relations committee, and members of the Funds and Drives committee and Elections committee were appointed.

The Senior Honors committee was also opened for membership. Applications are due in the Student Governing association office on October 16.

The Council met in Northwest Hall, in an effort to acquaint freshmen coeds with SGA operation.

Panhel, IFC Want Part Of Halftime

Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council met in a joint meeting last night and decided that there would be no Homecoming decorations if the Games and Rallies committee did not give them time during halftime of the Homecoming game to announce the winners of decorations awards, according to George Hooper, BA Sr, chairman of the Games and Rallies committee.

Games and Rallies met yesterday afternoon and proposed that the winners be announced just before the football game begins, since there are too many events which must already be crammed into a brief halftime period.

However, according to Hooper, announcement of decorations winners might still be worked into halftime.

Wednesday evening, Chuck Wingert, His Sr, and Larry French, BA Sr, will attend a joint meeting of IFC and Panhel in an effort to work out a solution to the problem. Wingert is student body president, and French is SC chairman. Hooper also plans to attend.

The Games and Rallies committee will meet Thursday noon in the Union.

Alternatives To Violence Necessity, Says Cousins

Man must seek out the great alternatives to violence and develop the intelligence, sanity, and conscience to make this planet safe for human habitation, said Norman Cousins at this morning's all-College assembly.

Cousins emphasized that modern man, as an individual must: advocate education for the "whole" man; make it clear to our leaders that we are ready for the steps the UN must take; and inject some sense of Utopian adventure into the world situation (now that man is technologically ready for a form of "Utopia.")

Cousins called the highly developed "casual approach to violence" the principal disease of the 20th century. "We have been conditioned to violence," he said, "and I do not even exempt my own Sunday school training."

"Man now has a bomb that is 1,000 times more powerful than the one that destroyed Hiroshima, a bomb against which there's only one defense—peace."

"One bomb carried by one plane or one missile," was a phrase used repeatedly by Cousins to emphasize the present danger.

The dilemma of modern man is that he is now able to conduct a war against himself, Cousins stated—"A war which will result either in the extinction of man or in an alteration of his genetic integrity."

"Life is very fragile, and circumstances on which life depends are fragile," Cousins warned. "It takes only one nation to break the peace but more than one nation to keep the peace."

"We don't want to back down in the face of Communism but it now becomes necessary to find greater alternatives to violence. Victory against Communism can be achieved only on non-military battle fields."

"We must tap the spiritual resources of man to convince the majority of the world's people we are concerned not just about our own destiny but about human destiny as a whole."

Calling for a "transformation" of the United Nations, Cousins said "a world of absolute sovereignties cannot exist. The United Nations must be given effective powers to prevent aggression, to control the arms race, to deal with basic world tensions, and to make and enforce world law."

Cousins told of his visit to Dr. Albert Schweitzer in French Equatorial Africa, saying that the humanitarian is greatly concerned about what is happening in the rest of the world.

"Dr. Schweitzer is aware of the dangers of nuclear testing and he knows you do not win against Bolshevism by contaminating the air and jeopardizing the course of life."

Clyde Reed Here Today

Clyde M. Reed, Republican candidate for governor, will speak today at 2 p.m. in the little theater of the Student Union.

Reed is expected to speak on education, according to Keith Landis, president of the Collegiate Young Republicans.

This is the first general election campaign appearance of Reed in Manhattan.

Reed was a guest of the Young Republicans at a luncheon in the Union this noon.

The Young Democrats have scheduled Robert Domme, candidate for U.S. Congress from the first district, Joe Henkle, lieutenant governor, and Dal Spiegel, candidate for attorney general, for appearances here this month.

Coeds Map Homecoming Strategy

Name tags, skits, and serenades are just a few of the ways that coeds are trying to attract votes for their Homecoming queen candidates. The dormitories and sorority houses have campaigns mapped out that would shame some generals.

Alpha Chi Omega girls answer the telephone with a jingle praising Arnita Otte, HDA Jr. They have decorated cars and are presenting a skit to all the fraternity houses. It is based on the popular song "Fever" and tells the story of a girl lost in the jungle with a fever because she can't vote.

Alpha Delta Pi is sponsoring an open house and coffee hour this afternoon for everyone who is interested in attending. They plan to sing campaign songs at noon and serenade in the evening. Their skit concerns a little girl searching for the perfect doll who turns out to be Bea Purcell, BA Sr.

NU Caravan Planned

All those interested in taking part in a caravan to the Kansas State-Nebraska football game at Lincoln this Saturday may sign up in the lobby of the Union at a booth operated by Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity.

The caravan will leave here at 9 a.m. and arrive at Lincoln about 1 p.m. The game starts at 2 p.m.

dinner to all fraternity houses. They are also serenading on the phone with a jingle. Doris Geis, PEW Sr, is presented in a "man on the street" type of skit.

Kappa Delta members have been "ticketing" cars with information promoting their candidate, Alberta Timm, TxC Sr. They are also serenading and campaigning with a car caravan. Their skit is based on three cats discussing their candidate.

Kappa Kappa Gammas are using a truck equipped with a loud speaker. They are also passing out cigarettes and serenading. In their skit, they feature several people in a "huff" to present Barbara Huff, Gvt Jr.

Pi Beta Phi girls have been dressing alike and marching to school in a band. Last Saturday, they marched to the flash-card section together with red balloons. Their skit presents Connie Morgan, EEd Jr, using music from "South Pacific" with original words.

The Alpha Xi Deltas are also serenading. They have decorated cars and are presenting a skit which centers on "Lady Luck". As an extra campaign feature for their candidate Linda Felton, PEW Jr, they are serving refreshments to the fraternity houses.

Chi Omegas have been cleaning out cars, dusting them, and washing the windows. The skit they present concerns the type of girl that all boys like and features the girls' quartet, the Coeds. Their candidate is Kaydene Dasher, EEd Jr.

Coeds belonging to Clovia also answer the telephone with a jingle. They present Beverly

Sims, ChW Sr, in a skit entitled "Sugar and Spice and Everything Nice."

Delta Delta Delta is serving dinner at the independent men's houses. They plan to serenade and give boys rides to classes. Their skit is a take-off on "Fever" featuring their candidate, Barbara Howard, EEd Soph.

Van Zile introduces their candidate, Kay Fitzgerald, EEd Jr, with a calypso-type skit using bongo drums for accompaniment.

Waltheim uses a skit based on the theme "What Is a Girl?" to present Susie Bissel, BA Soph.

Southeast has not planned any campaign. Its candidates are Georgia McNeill, EEd Fr, and Karen Stanley, HEN Fr.

Northwest is presenting Judy Mai, HE Soph, and Becky McMahon, HE Fr, in a skit which centers on the hula hoop theme.

CLEANING CARS FOR HOMECOMING campaign favors, these Chi Omegas seem to think the smaller the car, the better. "We're not washing cars, just cleaning them out," explained Marlyn Kratzer, BPM Jr, as she hands a bottle of glass cleaner to Cathy Barber, EEd Soph. Inside the car is Sonja Hanson, EEd Sr. Marilyn Hansen, HE Soph, stands by with a cleaning rag.

Start Moving Educators, Before TV Gets Away

THE CONCLUSION reached at the Educational Television seminar here last weekend is that educational TV is here to stay and that Kansas had better get on the ball and take advantage of this medium.

The Federal Communications commission has repeatedly urged that schools make immediate use of channels before the government is forced to open them to commercial use. If the channels are opened, they will be lost to education.

Richard B. Hull, director of radio and television at Ohio State university, said presently there are 31 educational TV stations in the country, with 13 more under construction. He predicted that by 1960 there would be 60 stations.

He explained that television is not to be a substitute for classroom discussion, but would be used primarily in recitation sessions.

Dr. H. K. Newburn, head of the Educational Radio and Television center at Ann Arbor, Mich., described educational television as "a very important tool for the transmission of educational experiences to people of all ages and all interests."

"PEOPLE of all ages are being exposed to television daily and whether we like it or not, are being affected by what they see and hear," Dr. Newburn said.

We urged educators "to step up the intensity and timing of efforts to determine in what way this new means can best be utilized in the service of education."

Charles Hettinger, supervisor of TV education at Pittsburgh, Pa., public schools, said experiments have indicated that, at least in some areas, television instruction is as good, if not a little better, than regular instruction.

"THE MEDIUM that can transmit the screams and wiggles of an Elvis Presley can also broadcast the best of thought and deed," Hettinger said.

Hettinger listed seven advantages for telecasts to students and teachers: courses can be offered which the school does not offer, television can enrich courses already being offered, quality instruction can be spread on a broad base, there can be in-service training for participating teachers, interests and activities of students can be stimulated, the school is taken to the parents who see how and what their children are taught, and television extends the school's day.

We hope the State legislature pays heed to the discussions at this seminar.—GEM

E-State Girl Rolls Her Own; 9 Point Grade Plan Used

By Jane Butel

ALONG WITH K-State, several other universities are changing to bigger and better grading point systems. One of the largest jumps pointwise was made by a small university at Peru, Nebraska. They have jumped from a five-point system way up to a nine-point system. Nebraska university uses the same system. The points are distributed as follows: 9, 95-100; 8, 90-94; 7, 85-89; 6, 80-84; 5, 75-79; 4, 70-74; 3, 65-69; 2, 60-64; 1, below 60. It seems like such a drastic change might create some problems for upperclassmen trying to convert their grades. Anyone for a nine-point system?

A COED at Emporia State Teachers college has taken to rolling her own. She says it is a much more constructive way to gain something from smoking other than the mere release of nervous tension. She doesn't consider herself an expert however, because she can't roll them one-handed. She figures that smoking is now costing her approximately one-third less, but she hasn't found a way to solve the problem of a filter. Note to beginners: Before smoking roll your own cigarettes, it might be wise to be well versed in the art of chewing tobacco.

DON'T LET ANYONE kid you, this is not a form letter. Or so says the Tempo, Chicago Teachers college newspaper.

Dear (Joan, Helen, Paula, Linda, Jane, Nancy),

It was so nice to receive your (letter, phone call, gift) (today, yesterday, the day before yesterday, last week, last year). I am very (glad, sorry) to hear that you (like it, don't like it so well) there at (Oklahoma State, Colorado university, the radio station, the new restaurant, Topeka, Hollywood Presbyterian church).

However, the thing that (made me happiest, rankled me the most) was the fact that you (are dating, are not dating) other fellows while we are apart. I still cannot (remember, forget) the time I first met you in (your home, the park, the sand at the beach, the hotel room, does not apply). From the time (our eyes met, you first spoke, I first spoke), I knew that you and (I, the other fellow) probably would make a great hit together. You know that ever since then you have been the only girl in my life!

Just one look into your big, beautiful (brown, blue, hazel, black, green, red) eyes is enough to send me into a tailspin. Just one touch sends (electricity, shivers, nausea) through me. And I cannot think of any greater privilege on earth than to run my fingers through your (golden, shimmering black, auburn, red, deep brown, crinkly) tresses, while we breathe (sweet nothings, evolutionary theory, halitosis) into each other's (ears, face). I cannot wait until you get back from (school, work) and I can see you again.

Meanwhile, don't let any of those rumors you hear about me having other girl on the side affect you in the slightest.

(Love ya, Passionately, Faithfully yours, All my love), Me.

No Series Cuts Says Majority Of KS Faculty

By DARRYL HEIKES

FACULTY MEMBERS asked "Do you think students should cut classes to watch the World Series on television," generally thought that students shouldn't cut classes but a few said that it was the students choice.

RAY WAUTHIER, baseball coach and physical education instructor—"Students shouldn't cut regular classes. Although in our department, cutting might be permissible as the Series is an important sports classic."

MERCEDES HUNSADER, associate professor of foods and nutrition—"Students should put business before pleasure."

KARL FINNEY, professor of flour and feed milling—"If a student is up in his class work and can afford to miss assignments and if his instructors have optional attendance then it is alright to cut."

DOROTHY PETTIS, associate professor of modern languages—"Are students in school for the World Series or to go to college?"

ROBERT CRANK, assistant professor of mechanical engineering—"I'm opposed to cutting classes and personally I don't find the Series that exciting."

CAPT. ROBERT DROWN, assistant professor of air science—"A student should miss only what he feels he can and if he thinks that he can miss classes and still be able to make up the work let him go ahead and cut."

TED DODGE, assistant professor of business administration—"If students feel like cutting class to watch the Series it's their privilege."

Indian Leaves Country, Husband, Child To Further Education at Kansas State

By MARTHA STEPS

"I CAME TO K-State because I had heard a lot about it through the exchange program," says Superna Shantikumar. The pretty graduate student from Hyderabad, India, is working for a master's degree in psychology.

Superna came to this country entirely on her own last year. "Now I have a scholarship from the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs which pays my tuition for this semester and next. I am very happy about this and it is such a help."

"When I get my degree, I would like to go back to India and work in a guidance clinic. I don't know how this will work out, though, because my husband is in the Indian embassy now in the diplomatic service."

SUPERNA EXPLAINED that she has not seen her husband in over a year and she won't be able to see him until she graduates next spring.

She added politely, "Would you be interested to know that I have a little girl? Her name is Malini Perpetua and she is 3 years and 7 months old. She goes to a Methodist school in India. It's been a long time since I've seen her, too."

The system of names in India is different, explained Superna. She said that what she gave as her first name was really her husband's last name. Also her husband's last name is actually his first name. "It's a little hard for American's to understand," Superna laughed.

"I received my bachelor's degree at the Women's Christian college in India. It is a very small women's school of about 600 students. It is this way so that we could live like a family and get to know each other well. The staff was international with faculty members from all over the world."

AT THE TIME of her interview,

Superna was wearing slacks and a sweater. She explained that she wore western clothes at home when she was working but nowhere else. "I like your styles, but I am used to my native costume so I always wear it whenever I leave the house."

Superna was a Hindu before she became a Christian at the age of seven. Her immediate family is now Christian, but the rest of her relatives are still Hindu. "I was a Methodist, but in 1947, all the churches in South India united so now I belong to the United church."

Superna Shantikumar

"When I came to K-State last year, I lived with the family of Dr. Walton S. Cole, minister of the first Methodist church. I think, however, that I have visited almost all of the churches in Manhattan," she concluded.

Truce Continues Despite Buildup

Compiled from UPI

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Taipei—The Communists silenced their blockade batteries only to give them time to move giant 12-inch siege guns into place opposite the Quemoy and Matsu islands, intelligence reports indicated today.

The Communists have so far kept their promise to suspend the bombardment of the Quemoy for a week despite the refusal of the Chinese Nationalists to meet their terms.

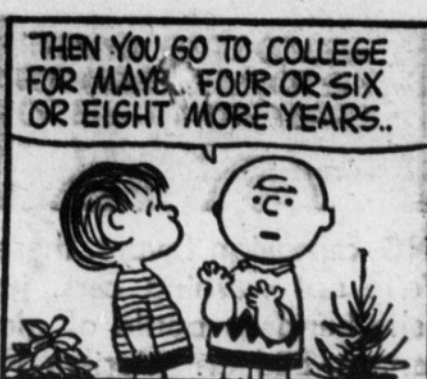

The Communists demanded in return for their temporary cease-fire that U.S. destroyers cease escorting Nationalist convoys to the outpost islands.

KU Kids Can Kiss

Lawrence—Kansas university Health Director Ralph Canuteson said yesterday it's all right for students to kiss, but they should be careful who they're kissing.

Dr. Canuteson said there's nothing unhealthy about a kissing line, and even if there were the University couldn't outlaw them.

"An unprotected cough or sneeze is more dangerous than any kissing line," Canuteson said. "The only thing students should do is to be careful who they're kissing."

Vader Tops Loop In Pass Receiving

Joe Vader, K-State left end, jumped to the front in Big Eight pass receiving on the basis of his catching six passes for 80 yards in Saturday's 20-13 loss to Utah State.

Vader now has 107 yards gained—tops in the league—on nine catches, also the loop's high mark. Colorado's Boyd Dowler is close behind with 105 yards on six passes, and Wahoo McDaniel of Oklahoma, last week's leader with one catch for 86 yards, is third with no change in yardage.

Iowa State's Bob Harden remained scoring leader, adding one touchdown and six points to last week's total of five touchdowns and 24 points. Duane Wood, of Oklahoma State, is second with three touchdowns for 18 points. Ben Grosse of K-State ranks fifth with one touchdown, three conversions, and two field goals for 15 points.

Iowa State's Dwight Nichols has remained in the top spot in rushing with 222 yards on 64 carries, but has been tied by Howard Cook of Colorado, who has rushed 30 times for identical yardage. Max Falk of K-State is third with 195 yards on 29 carries.

Phil Snowden of Missouri has completed 19 of 36 passes for 241 yards to remain in the top spot in Big Eight passing yardage. Oklahoma State's Dick Soergel is second with 11 of 24 for 179 yards. Two K-Staters, Les Krull and John Solmos, rank fifth and seventh, respectively, with 11 of 20 for 127 yards, and 7 of 12 for 99 yards.

Snowden has also remained in the punting lead with 510 yards on 11 kicks for a 46.2 yard average. Jim Wood of Oklahoma State is in second place with 10 kicks for 423 yards and a 42.3 average. K-State's Terry Lee is third with five punts for 209 yards and a 41.8 average.

Tony Banfield of Oklahoma State, and Jackie Sandefer of Oklahoma university are tied for punt returning average, with identical figures of three returns for 65 yards and a 21.6 yard average.

Wildcats Drill, Watch Movies

Coach Bus Mertes ran his first two units, plus other men who saw action against Utah State, in sweat clothes yesterday as they began preparation for this week's clash against Nebraska university.

Mertes discussed the Nebraska game, ran his charges on defense against Cornhusker plays for about an hour, and then took them inside to view movies of the Utah State game.

First unit guard Gene Meier, and second unit fullback Bill Gallagher, who were injured against the Aggies last Saturday, will not see action against Nebraska. The have been replaced by Dave Noblitt and Craig Jones respectively.

Men's Honorary KS Phys Ed Frat Named Best Chapter Nationally

The K-State chapter of Phi Epsilon Kappa, mens' honorary physical education fraternity has been named top chapter in the nation as the result of last year's accomplishments, according to the Department of Physical Education.

The Phi chapter of Phi Epsilon Kappa will receive the National Efficiency Award trophy for 1957-58, winning first over 40 other chapters. This award is based on a system of points being awarded for efficiency in administration of duties and progressive chapter activities.

With a total of 9,100 out of a possible 10,000, Phi chapter was well out in front of Alpha Phi of Arizona State university and Tau of Nebraska university, who tied for second with 7,450 points.

Among the 46 outstanding projects completed by Phi chapter last year were conducting the annual free throw contest for fifth and sixth graders of Manhattan; entering a float in the Homecoming parade; participating in the Student Union open house; submitting articles to professional magazines; and assisting in officiating intramural meets.

Winning Margin Narrow In IM Gridiron Contests

Close, hard fought games characterized yesterday's intramural touch football action. Five of the eight games played were decided by two touchdowns or less.

Theta Xi squeezed by Lambda Chi Alpha, 6-0, and Acacia barely got by Beta Theta Pi, 25-21, in the two closest contests.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon nosed Sigma Chi, 21-14, and Farm House downed Phi Kappa, 12-0.

In other games, Alpha Kappa Lambda beat Delta Upsilon, 21-0; Phi Delta Theta beat Alpha Tau Omega, 32-25; Sigma Phi Epsilon beat Delta Sigma Phi, 32-6; and Sigma Nu blanked Tau Kappa Epsilon, 25-0.

All intramural games today have been postponed due to wet fields, according to intramural director Frank Myers. They are: Delta Tau Delta vs Pi Kappa Alpha; OK House vs House of Williams; Newman club vs Sigma Phi Nothing; and Scholarship House vs Westminster Foundation.

Vet Open House Slated for October 25

The School of Veterinary Medicine will have its second annual open house Saturday, October 25.

Purpose of the open house is to better acquaint Kansas with veterinary medicine, according to Andy Stewart, VM Sr, chairman of the event. Students will demonstrate techniques and practices used in caring for animals. There will be exhibits in the departments of anatomy, pathology, physiology, and surgery and medicine.

Committee Openings

Applications for Jazz committee chairman, and publicity sub-chairman on the Flash Card committee should be made before noon Thursday in the Union activities center.

Westinghouse Scholarship

Robert Moyer, EE Sr, has been awarded the $500 Westinghouse achievement scholarship for the current school year. The award is given each year to a senior in electrical engineering.

Moyer is a member of Sigma Tau, Phi Eta Sigma, Eta Kappa Nu, Institute of Radio Engineers, and is president of the Baptist Student Union.

Phi Eta Sigma

YWCA

YWCA will meet today at 4 p.m. in room 206 of the Union. There will be a forum discussion of the theme "So This Is College." A panel consisting of faculty members and upperclassmen will discuss the issue and answer questions. Freshmen are especially urged to come.

ASME

Student members will present

technical research papers at each of the remaining meetings of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers this year. Papers will be judged by other members of the organization.

The winner and runner up in the competition will represent K-

State in the national contest at the ASME student conference in Arkansas next April, according to Duane Johnson, ME Sr.

Jr. AVMA

Members of Jr. AVMA will meet tonight at 7:30 in Veterinary hospital, room 175.
